

Africa for sustainable development Fellowship

Introduction
COHORT 3 Profiles

Mariam Wolfgang Mboya

Zero hunger and food security advocate

mboyamariam249@gmail.com

Meet Mariam Wolfgang Mboya, a Sustainable development Goals Champion and a passionate advocate for achieving zero hunger and ensuring food security. Currently pursuing a Bachelor's degree In Crop Science and Technology at the University of Dar es Salaam, Mariam is at the forefront of her journey into the field of sustainable agriculture.

Inspired by the potential of agriculture to address global challenges, Mariam actively seeks opportunities to contribute her skills and knowledge. Despite being early in her career, she has already immersed herself in various leadership roles and programs, showcasing a commitment to learning and making a positive impact in the realm of sustainable development.

With an unwavering dedication to creating a world where no one goes hungry, Mariam channels her enthusiasm and education to drive change. Her fresh perspective, coupled with a hunger for knowledge, positions her as a rising force In the pursuit of sustainable and resilient food systems.

Mariam Wolfgang Mboya is not just a student; she Is a catalyst for a future where food security is a reality for all.