

Christine Pandolfi has begun painting since 1998, she initiated her training in oil painting in the National Art League in Douglaston at age 12. She continued to study art throughout her school years, she attended Hunter College where she concentrated on fine art and honed in her techniques in drawing, acrylic painting and color theory classes, earned Bachelor's degree in art in 2010. Ms. Christine continued to paint and draw, using both acrylic and oil paints, creating and exhibiting many interesting paintings. Ms. Christine also crafted sculptures using clay and plaster. As an active local artist, she also joined the National Art League, participating in their events and having her paintings featured in their exhibits. Continue to create during her free time, she is very passionate about art, and especially loves working with children. Ms. Christine has been trained under Mrs. Ma's studio format and collaboratively works with various teaching artists during the school year.

