Eligibility for Individuals to claim Home Office Expenses

As explained on the CRA website here:

You are eligible to claim a deduction for home office expenses for the period you worked from home, if you meet all the criteria:

- you worked from home in 2021 due to the COVID-19 pandemic or your employer required you to work from home.
- you worked more than 50% of the time from home for a period of at least four consecutive weeks in 2021.
- have a completed and signed Form T2200S or Form T2200 from your employer (only applicable if the detailed method is used to complete the claim)
- the expenses are used directly in your work during the period.

The use of a shorter qualifying period will ensure that more employees can claim the deduction than would otherwise have been possible under longstanding practice.

Temporary flat rate method

The temporary flat rate method simplifies your claim for home office expenses. You are eligible to use this new method if you worked more than 50% of the time from home for a period of at least four consecutive weeks in 2021 due to the COVID-19 pandemic. You can claim $2 for each day you worked from home during that period plus any additional days you worked at home in 2021 due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The maximum you can claim using the new temporary flat rate method is $500 (250 working days) per individual.

Each individual working from home who meets the eligibility criteria can use the temporary flat rate method to calculate their deduction for home office expenses. This means multiple people working from the same home can each make a claim.

Simplified process for the temporary flat rate method

You do not have to: calculate the size of your workspace, keep supporting documents or get Form T2200 completed and signed by your employer.

See CRA website for more details if you are unsure if you qualify.
