They're league ladies from down the street and scrappy juniors on the rise. They are the backboards that return everything and club pros that will teach you a thing or two. And they all have one thing in common: they play Ultra v3, a no-nonsense racket with power so easy it amplifies the superpowers players already possess – at the club, public courts or in that grudge match against their fiercest frenemies.

A Message from the Chairman and President

My first year as USTA President and Chairman has been a remarkable and rewarding experience. It has been a journey equally exciting and enlightening, as I have had the opportunity to meet and get to better know so many of you who put a face on this association and fuel our mission of growing tennis with your unparalleled passion for the sport.

Indeed, for all of my travels throughout this whirlwind year, the most enjoyable—and certainly the most valuable—have been my “listening tour” visits to various USTA sections. Tennis, as we’ve noted so many times before, is a sport that grows upwards from its grass roots, so the opportunity to listen and learn from those directly responsible for tending to those grass roots has been both insightful and invaluable.

I can honestly say that I have learned from every one of these visits. Mostly, I’ve learned that we all share a lot more commonalities than differences; that our challenges—and our commitment to overcoming those challenges—are all very much alike. We love our sport, and we all are determined to share it with as many people as possible because we all know that there is no other sport quite like it, particularly in terms of enhancing lives and opening doors of opportunity. As diverse as we are as an association, we all share that common aim.

And I believe wholeheartedly that as an association, the USTA has never before been more determined or better equipped to pursue that aim. With new leadership at the national level and now armed with a clearly defined strategic direction plan to serve as our roadmap, we begin this new decade with a refined vision and a re-energized commitment to success.

I’ve always said that the USTA’s greatest asset is its people, and having had the chance to spend time with so many of you, I believe that now more than ever. Individually, you are remarkable; collectively, we are unstoppable. Together, I have no doubt that we can raise our game to exciting new heights.

I will continue to listen, and I know that I will continue to learn from you all. I ask that you make your voices heard so that we all can learn from each other. Think boldy; embrace change. Understand that what we did yesterday may not be the right plan for tomorrow. Celebrate your success stories, and use your unique passion to help us to write more. A new chapter for this association—and for the sport of tennis—is just beginning. I know that together we will make it a great one.

A Message from the Chief Executive Officer and Executive Director

This is an exciting and important time for the sport of tennis and the USTA, and I couldn't be more thrilled to have assumed my new role as CEO and Executive Director of the USTA in January. In recent years, I've seen this association—and the sport of tennis in the U.S.—realize a true transformation. The complete reinvention of the US Open and the incredible reworking of the USTA Billie Jean King National Tennis Center are nothing short of remarkable. Those achievements, along with the creation of the USTA National Campus and the launch of Net Generation, are integral to our continuing efforts to accelerate our mission to promote and develop the growth of tennis.

Yet there's still more work to be done. To grow the game, we need to get people active and have robust entry-level programs at the grassroots level, with Parks and Rec as the primary first point of contact and engagement. We also need to develop a clear pathway to core players and clubs. It's a process, and it's not one the USTA can accomplish alone. We must involve all of the various stakeholders in tennis—including volunteers, districts, sections, national staff, USPTA, PTR, TIA, ITA, WTA, ATP, ITF, parks and club owners—and map out a real and practical roadmap to success.

This complexity can truly be a strength if we all operate as one team. Yes, it's a challenge—a longstanding challenge in our sport. But our different organizations each have very specific strengths and areas of expertise, and as different as we are, we share a similar aim—to make tennis more fun and more accessible for more people. So let's use all of those strengths to our advantage to deliver our core strategy of attracting, engaging and retaining new generations of diverse tennis participants. It's imperative we embrace a service culture—and that everything we undertake is mission-focused. Otherwise, we lose focus. Let's be unified in our approach and do things smartly and do them for the good of the sport. Teamwork, a clear shared strategy and accountability are essential ingredients in the writing of all success stories.

I have no doubt we can achieve our mission goals. I've been overwhelmed to witness the passion that you all bring to the sport. The USTA is particularly unique in that we have a network of resources throughout our 17 sections. We have passionate people in every section who understand the issues and challenges to player growth and retention in their own communities. It's especially important that our passions are focused on our priorities as an association, and that we make our decisions based not on passion but on hard data and facts. In doing so, we will be better able to invest in proven winning initiatives, fix programs that are underperforming and divest out of areas that are not working. This will allow us to move faster and more efficiently pursue our mission. "One team, one aim" is my mantra. As we work collaboratively, I'm confident that together we can lift this association—and the sport we all love—to exciting new heights.

THE USTA

Mission Statement: To Promote and Develop the Growth of Tennis

The United States Tennis Association (USTA) is the national governing body for the sport of tennis and the leader in promoting and developing the sport's growth on every level in the United States, from local communities to the crown jewel of the professional game, the US Open. Its volunteers, professional staff and financial resources support a single mission: to promote and develop the growth of tennis.

The USTA is a progressive and diverse not-for-profit organization and the largest tennis organization in the world, with 17 geographical sections, more than 644,000 members, thousands of volunteers and a professional staff dedicated to growing the game.

Community Tennis

Community Tennis strives to grow the game at every level and make tennis accessible to every person at every step of the tennis pathway. Its programs support and drive much of America's tennis activity, whether a player is picking up a racquet for the first time, playing youth tennis, experiencing the game in school or college, or taking part in adult and senior tennis. To inspire the next generation of tennis players, Net Generation was launched as the official youth tennis brand of the USTA, embracing all aspects of youth play for kids ages 5 to 18, with more than 456,000 players and parents connecting to the USTA via Net Generation. Community Tennis is also helping to develop the next generation of tennis industry professionals through USTA-U, which offers resources and educational opportunities in teaching tennis, club and event management, hospitality and sports science.

The efforts of Community Tennis are made possible by the collaboration with the 17 USTA sections, thousands of dedicated volunteers and industry partners committed to growing and enhancing tennis in America. Over the past decade, these collaborations have helped enact numerous grassroots efforts, including strengthening the tennis infrastructure in public parks and schools by building and/or renovating more than 41,500 tennis courts.

Player Development

Player Development works to develop world-class American players in partnership with private-sector coaches and programs. The program is based at the USTA National Campus at Lake Nona in Orlando, Fla., and also utilizes the USTA Training Center—West in Carson, Calif., and the USTA Training Center—East in Flushing, N.Y., as well as a network of Regional Training Centers located throughout the country. Player Development strives to be the best in the world, developing and utilizing education, training and coaching resources to serve Team USA.

Professional Tennis

Professional Tennis manages all aspects of the USTA's involvement in the professional sport. The USTA owns and operates the US Open—one of the world's largest-attended annual sporting events—and launched the US Open Series, linking WTA and ATP Tour summer tournaments in North America to the US Open. In addition, the USTA owns approximately 100 Pro Circuit events nationwide and manages and selects the U.S. teams for Davis Cup, Fed Cup, the Olympics and the Paralympic Games. The USTA also oversees all operations of the USTA Billie Jean King National Tennis Center, the home of the US Open, in Flushing, N.Y.

Designed to operate as a true sports marketing, entertainment and media group, Professional Tennis generates—through television, sponsorship, ticket sales, merchandising and digital media—significant revenue for funding the USTA mission and works to increase the popularity of the pro game to positively affect player participation.

Diversity and Inclusion

Leveraging diversity and creating an inclusive environment is essential to achieving the USTA mission to promote and develop the growth of tennis. The USTA is committed to removing barriers and creating opportunities for all to participate in all that we do. Furthermore, the USTA strives to serve as a model for all organizations that aspire to achieve maximum growth potential by reaching out to all of America. (For the complete USTA Diversity and Inclusion Statement, see pages 112-113.)

USTA National Campus

The USTA National Campus at Lake Nona in Orlando, Fla., was built to enhance the sport at every level and to create an unparalleled playing, training, coaching and educational experience for recreational players, competitive players, coaches and spectators. The campus opened to the public at the start of 2017.

Divided into dedicated areas that focus on the complete tennis pathway—from the youngest players to recreational competitors of all ages and ability levels, and from collegians to future pros and professional tour-level players—the USTA National Campus stretches across 64 acres. It features 100 tennis courts—three kinds of hard courts (DecoTurf, Plexicushion and Rebound Ace), two kinds of clay courts (Har Tru green clay and European Terre Davis red clay), the adidas Performance Center with six indoor courts and the Nemours Family Zone with 36-foot and 60-foot courts for youths and adults to learn and play the game. Eighty-four courts have PlaySight live streaming so players can review their performance after a practice or match, and friends and family can watch from back home. There are 26

USTA

PlaySight SmartCourts with interactive touch-screen kiosks, enabling players working with a coach to use the cutting-edge technology for analyzing their footwork or stroke technique.

More than 250,000 people visited the USTA National Campus in 2019. More than 11,000 participants took part in programs, lessons and camps, while another 22,000 played in the 130 tournaments and events held at the campus. In addition to hosting the NCAA Division I Tennis National Championships, the campus welcomed more than 400 different college teams.

USTA Billie Jean King National Tennis Center

The home of the US Open since 1978, the USTA Billie Jean King National Tennis Center in Flushing Meadows–Corona Park in Flushing, N.Y., is a public tennis facility in the largest park in Queens. The USTA Billie Jean King National Tennis Center covers 42 acres and has 46 tennis courts (four stadium courts, 13 tournament courts, 17 practice courts and 12 indoor courts).

More than 90 percent of the original facility was revamped during a five-year, $600 million transformation project that was announced in 2013, implemented in three phases and completed in 2018. The enhancements and upgrades included the building of a roof superstructure with a retractable roof over Arthur Ashe Stadium; the construction of two stadiums—a new Louis Armstrong Stadium with a retractable roof and a new Grandstand Stadium; a complete rebuild of the West Stadium Courts and Practice Pavilion; and a redesign and rebuild of the South Campus and tournament courts. The strategic transformation of the USTA

USTA

Billie Jean King National Tennis Center reshaped the look, feel and functionality of the US Open grounds, enabling the Grand Slam tournament to maintain its place at the pinnacle of sports and entertainment events for years to come.

When the USTA Billie Jean King National Tennis Center is not staging the US Open, it is one of the world's busiest public tennis facilities, offering tennis camps, clinics, leagues and tournaments along with Junior Development Pathway and Competitive Training Pathway programs throughout the year.

USTA ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE AND ROLES

The USTA is managed by its Board of Directors, which establishes the organization's overall policies and objectives and directs the staff, which manages the organization's day-to-day operational programs, policies and procedures. The Board of Directors is chaired by the President of the USTA, and the staff is headed by the Executive Director as the Chief Executive Officer of the USTA.

The Role of the Chairman of the Board and President.

The President of the USTA is the titular head of the USTA and Chairman of the Board. The President presides at all meetings of the membership, Governance Committee and Board. The President appoints committee chairs and committee members for the committees of the USTA whose appointment is not otherwise provided for in the Constitution and in the Bylaws. The committee members appointed by the President serve at the pleasure of the President. The President is the primary public spokesperson for the USTA. The President has final recommendation and approval rights over the President's Suite at the US Open and final review and approval authority over suite and courtside boxes at the US Open. The President is responsible for the on-court awarding of US Open trophies. The President is the USTA representative on the Grand Slam Board and leads the USTA internationally—including, without limitation, appointing the USTA delegates to the International Tennis Federation's Annual General Meeting and recommending to the International Tennis Federation's President U.S. candidates for placement on committees. The Role of Leadership Councils.

Leadership Councils are established to facilitate communication between the Board of Directors and the committees aligned under each council heading, and to optimize council activities in support of the USTA's mission. The use of councils to assess and recommend priorities for initiatives and resources requested by committees also assists the Board of Directors in making decisions and ensures that committee proposals are broadly constructed. Each council brings together the chair of each of the committees aligned under that council heading under the leadership of the council chair.

The Role of Committees. The fundamental role of each USTA committee is to advise, assist, work and collaborate with USTA National Staff, the USTA network and overall tennis industry through appropriate organization channels. Committees use a consultative process with staff to research suggested or directed proposals; propose, refine, review, monitor or evaluate programs and activities that are within the scope of the committee's duties; and provide timely recommendations. Committees are generally headed by a committee chair who coordinates the committee's activities and deliberations.

The Role of the Chief Executive Officer and Executive Director.

The Executive Director is the Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of the USTA and is subject to the direction of the Board and is fully accountable to the Board. The CEO manages the day-to-day operational programs, policies and procedures of the USTA and the functioning of the office or offices of the USTA. The CEO is directly responsible for executing all Board decisions and performs additional duties as may be requested by the President or the Board. The CEO carries out the operational responsibilities of financial management and controls the budgeting process, the keeping of member records, the calculating of voting strength and the giving of notice and keeping of minutes of meetings of the USTA. The CEO is hired by and serves at the pleasure of the Board. The CEO is an ex-officio member of all committees, except the Nominating Committee. The CEO shall be directly responsible to report to the Board any violation of the rules and regulations, keep records in the form prescribed by the Board and report when requested by the Board.

The Role of the Senior Executive Staff.

The senior executive staff of the USTA is appointed by and works for the Chief Executive Officer and Executive Director, and manages the staff of the USTA, which carries out the day-to-day operational programs, policies and procedures of the USTA and the functioning of the office or offices of the USTA.

USTA STRATEGIC PLAN FRAMEWORK 2019-26

Inclusiveness

We encourage and embrace the participation and contributions of all people who desire to be engaged with our organization. By honoring and leveraging the diversity of thought, expertise, cultural heritage and individual differences, we ensure the long-term growth and sustainability of tennis.

Passion

We believe that tennis changes lives in positive ways and are inspired by that possibility to act with a sense of energy, determination and enthusiasm. Passion is the fuel that drives all that we do.

Integrity

We operate all of our endeavors within an environment of trust, mutual respect and safe play conditions. Our reputation is well-respected by all because we consistently treat those we deal with in a fair, honest and ethical manner.

Accountability

We operate with total commitment and hold ourselves accountable to the highest standards of performance. Individually and collectively, we are responsible for delivering on our mission and our brand promise.

STRATEGIC DIRECTIONS AND INTENT

Attract, Engage and Retain New Generations of Diverse Tennis Participants. Proactive outreach to a new, diverse youth generation through schools, parks and other providers is vital to the future of tennis. We must continually reinforce sportsmanship, ensure safe play and innovate programming to serve the needs of multiple generations of competitive and social players while adapting to evolving consumer lifestyles.

Lead Industry-wide Improvements to the Tennis Delivery System, Provider Education and Consumer Experience. Improvements in existing and future facilities infrastructure must also be supported by continuously raising the bar in provider education, facilities management and programming quality. Providing an exceptional consumer experience means that tennis providers must be knowledgeable about the needs and expectations of all consumers.

Build and Optimize Best-in-Class Digital Infrastructure and Platforms. Creating intuitive and seamless digital connectivity with the tennis community and positive online user experiences will enhance customer engagement and loyalty. We must continually improve our use of data to derive actionable insights to make informed decisions, measure effectiveness of our programs and initiatives, and evaluate longer-term impact on our mission to grow the game.

Ensure Continued Financial Growth and Performance. Our efforts to grow the game rely on our continued ability to build revenues through our core events, products and services. We must engage in constant evaluation of current investments, exercise fiscal responsibility and explore opportunities that enable us to diversify our revenue streams and ensure long-term financial health and stability.

Collaborate Within the USTA and Tennis Ecosystem for the Common Good of American Tennis. We must establish a culture that encourages and rewards teamwork, innovation and communication. By fostering cooperative National/Section relationships, building mutually beneficial partnerships across the tennis ecosystem and establishing influential alliances with other sports organizations, we can more effectively grow tennis.

USTA FOUNDATION

The USTA Foundation, the charitable arm of the USTA, brings together the powerful combination of tennis and education to change the lives of under-resourced youth. The Foundation utilizes financial grants, scholarship opportunities, curricula, technical assistance and training to make a lasting difference, with a primary focus of developing and ensuring the sustainability and effectiveness of the National Junior Tennis & Learning (NJTL) network.

The NJTL network features approximately 300 NJTL approved network members, whether chartered or otherwise, that reach approximately 180,000 youth on an annual basis, providing free or low-cost tennis and education programming to the largest 50 markets in the United States—nurturing future leaders and enabling kids in need to succeed on the court, in the classroom and in life.

The Foundation raises money and public awareness to support these life-changing programs through private donations, corporate sponsorships and foundations, as well as its special fundraisers held throughout the year, including the Opening Night Gala at the US Open, the Avenue of Aces brick and paver program, Pro-Ams and the Tennis Fantasy Camp at the USTA National Campus, to name a few. Through 2019, the Foundation has awarded more than $47 million in grants, scholarships and program support to tennis and education programs and under-resourced youth since its inception.

There were 4,669 players who were part of USTA Leagues in the USTA Caribbean section, and three teams achieved first place at the National Championships: Men's 3.0, 40 & over from Torrimar, Guaynabo; Men's 3.0, 18 & over from Caguas; and Mixed 6.0, 18 & over from Baldrich, San Juan.

Also during 2019, USTA Caribbean continued to target new players to join USTA Adult League. More than 200 new players participated in the two seasons of the Adult Beginners' Program, and additional play opportunities were celebrated during the year, such as "La Ñapa" for youngsters, mixed league for 55 & over players, the Tri-Level League and World Team Tennis.

Junior Team Tennis also experienced good participation as the section focused on making it the premier recreational junior program. At the National Championships, Gabriel Cayere received the Sportsmanship Award.

For youth players, the Red Ball Challenge Grand Slam

Tour continued as a successful initiative, giving 8-and-under players the chance to experience and enjoy tennis on hard, grass and clay courts. In addition, the section held the Youth Team Tennis League and one-day events for the 10- and 12-and-under categories, with the participation of 227 players.

The Mini Tennis Tour continued, with five tennis clubs offering tournaments in the following categories: 8 and under—red ball; 10 and under—orange ball; and 12 and under—green ball. The tour attracted a total of 608 participants.

With eight ranking sanctioned tournaments, juniors continue to have a competitive platform in the USTA Caribbean section. Seven teams from the section traveled and participated in USTA Zonal Events in the 12s, 14s and 16s categories; USTA Intersectional 14s and 16s; and the Boys' and Girls' 18s Team Championships.

The Tennis Service Representatives (TSRs) actively continue to impact schools, communities, public parks, and private and public schools. They also helped in assessing the

SECTION HIGHLIGHTS

In 2019, USTA Eastern remained focused on delivering quality tennis programming for players of all ages and abilities. Tennis has many great benefits; it's the goal of the USTA Eastern section to communicate those benefits in meaningful ways, as well as deliver energizing programming at every touchpoint, starting with students in school and continuing on through adulthood and retirement. The section believes there is a place in the game for everyone, and its staff works to incorporate programs and initiatives that attract new and diverse audiences. The section also believes that tennis needs to be engaging and accessible to retain the interest of new players.

To that end, in 2019, a major section priority continued to be engaging young players. USTA Eastern invested heavily in youth programming, such as Junior Team Tennis and tennis programs in schools. The section has developed Net Generation partnerships with 272 schools, which amounts to approximately 12,240 students participating in the sport. USTA Eastern also continued to promote Team Challenges, a relatively new youth initiative. In 2020, USTA Eastern will continue to prioritize connecting school programming to community partners.

USTA Eastern also makes an effort to showcase individuals and programs that truly make a difference in increasing tennis participation. During its Annual Tennis Conference, USTA Eastern honored former USTA Eastern President Tim Heath as its Leslie J. FitzGibbon Tennis Man of the Year and former board member Roberta Feldman as its Tennis Woman of the Year. Both have contributed immeasurably to growing the sport in their area.

SECTION HIGHLIGHTS

The USTA Florida section in 2019 expanded its new Tennis Management Division, adding facilities in Fort Walton Beach and Gainesville to assist municipalities in managing public tennis facilities. An initiative to recruit new volunteers for the section and a new leadership initiative were highlights of a year that also saw a renewal of a partnership with the USPTA Florida Division to increase women in the teaching pro ranks.

In January, Fort Walton Beach celebrated the reopening of the formerly shuttered Fort Walton Beach Tennis Center with a Grand Re-Opening Festival; and in February, the Gainesville community celebrated its reopening of four tennis facilities.

Special pilot events during the year included a first-ever USTA Florida Blacklight Overnight 12-hour team tennis event, an ages 18-39 Invitational Event and new "Love to Learn" and "Love to Play" programs for beginner adult players. Family Play Days debuted across the state, introducing tennis to new participants in a format in which the "family unit" can learn the sport together, for all ages and skill levels. In May, USTA Florida and the USTA National Campus hosted more than 190 athletes playing singles and doubles for the 2019 Special Olympics Florida State Tennis Championships.

The boards of directors of USTA Florida and USPTA Florida signed their fourth consecutive two-year collaboration agreement at their joint leadership meeting, expanding on the existing partnership and adding new growth priorities and a joint women's initiative.

Investing in the future of Florida tennis, the USTA Florida Board of Directors launched a new initiative to recruit new volunteers for the section and increase engagement of current volunteers at the local and section level. The USTA Florida Leadership Academy includes a volunteer development program designed to grow the professional skills and organizational knowledge of potential future leaders.

In September and October, USTA Florida recognized Hispanic Heritage Month by celebrating with "Tenis para Todos" events across Central and South Florida with a variety of play days, family festivals and other events to introduce tennis to people of all ages.

Also during the year, the USTA Florida Board of Directors announced the election of Dana Andrews as 2019-20 president-elect, replacing Chuck Gill, who announced his decision to resign the office of president-elect at the group's board meeting in Austin, Texas. Andrews is the managing partner of the Kelley Kronenberg Law Firm's Tampa office and daughter of B.A. Grubbs, who served as president of the organization in 1984-85 and was inducted into the USTA Florida Hall of Fame in 1996. Andrews later in the year addressed a group of tennis volunteers and board of directors from the USPTA Florida and USTA Florida at their joint annual meeting, laying out a challenge to both organizations to commit resources for a new Pro-Women Initiative to bring more women teaching professionals and leaders into the game.

Clark Higgs, the current USTA Florida president, summed up the USTA Florida section moving into 2020: "It is great to see our strong board of directors and the fresh young faces come through our new volunteer program and leadership academy, putting their ideas to work for the benefit of the section and the game of tennis."

SECTION HIGHLIGHTS

The USTA Hawaii Pacific section achieved many accomplishments in 2019. At the top of the list was the section obtaining its IRS designation as a 501(c)(3) charitable organization. With this status, the section is now tax-exempt and able to apply for grants that support 501(c)(3) non-profits. In addition, donors to the section may receive a tax deduction for their support.

In 2019, USTA Hawaii Pacific also continued two of its premier tennis events. The popular Invesco Series Champions Cup was hosted by the Royal Lahaina Resort in May. It brought tennis legends Michael Chang, Tommy Haas, Mark Philippoussis and Mardy Fish to the island of Maui for a two-day exhibition event. Haas successfully defended his title from the previous year, besting Fish in the final match, 6-4. Two months later, the section hosted its second Tennis Championships of Honolulu, a $60,000 USTA Pro Circuit women's tournament. Usue Arconada, a native of Puerto Rico, clinched the victory in an hour-long match, defeating second seed Nicole Gibbs in straight sets, 6-0, 6-2.

At the end of 2019, the Hawaii Pacific section inducted local tennis icons Bruce Nagel and Dennis Lajola into the Hawaii Tennis Hall of Fame. Nagel, a lifetime tennis player, has served as the General Manager of the Kailua Racquet Club since 1999. The club's annual Men's Night Doubles Tournament is one of Hawaii's most well-attended tennis events. Lajola made headlines at a young age through his tremendous success on the courts. He was chosen to represent the country in the 2004 Junior Davis Cup and played in the main draw of all four junior Grand Slam tournaments. He later became the first University of Hawaii player to win the Western Athletic Conference's Player of the Year.

In 2020, the Hawaii Pacific Section is excited to bring more tennis events to the Hawaiian Islands. The Davis Cup returned to Hawaii in March for the first time since 1992, hosting Uzbekistan in a two-day Davis Cup Qualifier in Honolulu. Later in 2020, the Invesco Series Champions Cup is expected to come back for its third year to the delight of local fans.

SECTION HIGHLIGHTS

Strong leadership and a dedication to collaborative strategies launched another successful year for USTA Intermountain. Throughout 2019, USTA Intermountain celebrated the successes of its six districts (Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Utah and Wyoming) as they collectively exceeded Dashboard goals in 11 out of 12 categories and crushed two Section Choice goals in Coaches Education and Diversity & Inclusion.

More than 600 coaches were trained throughout the year in various Net Generation workshops, junior and high school coaches trainings, junior play symposiums and adaptive play courses, to name a few.

The fourth annual USTA Intermountain Diversity Tennis-Fest week also was a huge success with all six districts participating. More than 1,250 attendees in an array of diverse audiences participated in free clinics and were provided free equipment. From bringing tennis to Native American reservations, to "Vets at the Nets," to LGBT communities, USTA Intermountain celebrated the achievements of pioneers, contributors and adaptive players embodying the message that tennis is accessible to all.

USTA Leagues and innovative social leagues continued to grow and thrive in 2019. Adult League total participation grew to more than 67,000 players (surpassing the goal of 64,500), and participation in mixed play (particularly in the 40 & Over divisions) maintained healthy increases. In 2019, five districts participated in the Adult 65 & Over League (more than 1,100 players), which culminated in a new Section Invitational that included 20 teams. All USTA Intermountain districts also now offer social leagues, which are growing exponentially.

Intermountain junior development continues to exceed expectations and has become a leader at the national level. Youth Progression (launched at the section level in 2018) saw substantial increases in 2019 (up 370 players in 10 and Under play from 2018). Junior Team Tennis offerings, including Team Challenges and Team Tournaments, grew exponentially. More than 58 Team Challenges with more than 1,400 participants were held in 2019 (up from 14 Team Challenges with 277 participants in 2018). Team Tournament numbers were also strong in the format's inaugural year.

USTA Intermountain's Tennis On Campus Sectional

Championship was held in March in Colorado Springs. Twelve unique schools participated, including first-time participants from Durango, Colo. Two schools new to the program in 2018 also brought additional teams to the championships in 2019.

On the national level, USTA Intermountain currently has 13 volunteers serving on USTA National committees, including Alden Bock, chair of the USTA League Committee. Section task forces continue to be the cornerstone of USTA Intermountain's collaborative governance approach with 100 percent completing meaningful and helpful policies, bylaws, rules and regulations, and philosophy clarifications that benefited the section.

In December, USTA Intermountain hosted its annual Awards Ceremony. Nine total organizations and individuals were recognized for outstanding service while two USTA Intermountain members, Jim Landin (originally from Greeley, Colo.) and Jim Osborne (Orem, Utah), were inducted into the Section Hall of Fame.

SECTION HIGHLIGHTS

USTA Mid-Atlantic, a 501 (c)(3) charitable non-profit, is committed to promoting tennis by offering quality recreational and competitive tennis programs for people of all ages and abilities. As an organization dedicated to both the sport and its players, USTA Mid-Atlantic aims to make tennis the most accessible sport in the region. In 2019, through an established philanthropic path forward, USTA Mid-Atlantic strove to create a physically, socially and emotionally healthier community through tennis and provided opportunities for all people to experience the valuable benefits tennis provides.

The top priority for the section is to introduce the sport to more children so they can experience the transformative power that playing tennis provides. USTA Mid-Atlantic's after-school and summer camp tennis programs help introduce tennis to children, many of whom are learning the sport for the first time. In 2019, the program had more than 6,000 youth registered and, since program inception in 2016, has had more than 15,000 youth registered.

Through the Safe Place to Play Grant, USTA Mid-Atlantic supports projects that refurbish and revitalize tennis courts in the Mid-Atlantic to create inviting places to play and contribute to creating healthy, active communities. USTA Mid-Atlantic awarded nearly $30,000 in grants to two local community projects, and each project is expected to break ground in the spring of 2020.

USTA Mid-Atlantic programs and services saw strong success in 2019 as did Net Generation within the section. USTA Mid-Atlantic had more than 1,500 Net Generation tennis providers approved and 152 physical education teachers bringing the Net Generation curriculum into their classrooms. USTA Mid-Atlantic launched new adult social tennis programming in 2019, which included Team Up, Drop-In and Adult Social Leagues engaging 1,525 new adult social participants throughout the year.

USTA Mid-Atlantic adult and junior players had success in national and regional events in 2019. There were 36 Mid-Atlantic teams that advanced to represent the section at USTA League National Championships. Two Mid-Atlantic teams took home national championship titles: Women's Adult 40 & Over 3.5, and Men's Adult 18 & Over 4.5.

Robin Montgomery, a Washington, D.C., native, won the Orange Bowl 18s, and several Mid-Atlantic Section junior players were recognized at national events for sportsmanship, including Frank Thompson (B18s National Indoors); Mid-Atlantic Team B, lead by Coach Brian Flieshman (BG16s Zonals Competition); Ayana Akli (G18s National Clay Courts) and Anusha Iyer (G14s National Hard Courts). Mid-Atlantic Junior Team Tennis teams excelled on the national level as well; Mid-Atlantic 18s Intermediate were finalists and 14s placed third at the USTA Junior Team Tennis National Championships. The USTA Mid-Atlantic College Showcase was tremendously successful this year, helping juniors and seniors in high school find their tennis path in college, with more than 50 collegiate coaches and 200 attendees at the event.

The section proudly earned the CARE Award from the Northern Virginia Family Service for a fourth consecutive year in 2019, recognizing the deep commitment to employees and to giving back and strengthening local communities. In addition, USTA Mid-Atlantic was recognized as a Best Non-Profit to Work For in 2019 by The NonProfit Times, and the section earned the Guide Star Gold Seal of approval for charitable organizations.

SECTION HIGHLIGHTS

Through 2019, USTA Middle States impacted the game in new ways, as the section focused on growing and improving tennis opportunities from the grassroots all the way to the professional levels.

The impact on tennis in schools was a highlight of the year, as USTA Middle States coordinated trainings and tennis in physical education classes, while organizing frequent after-school programming. The Middle States Rally Stars out-of-school program had approximately 50 organizations participating, along with nearly 1,000 participants using the Net Generation community curriculum. These programs have connected with community partners and are running Team Challenges at the conclusion of the season, to give kids an introduction to competition.

On the competition side, USTA Middle States experienced growth in Junior Team Tennis, USTA League and Tennis On Campus, among other programs. Much of this came down to a focus on the section's relationship with all six of its districts and the many volunteers who help move the organization forward. In the adult competition space, USTA Middle States has more than 3,000 players competing in Social Leagues, while adult tournament participation is rising with the introduction of new, creative events. In USTA League tennis, two Middle States teams claimed national championships.

Meanwhile, Middle States players and participants from every situation and background were involved with the game. Special Olympics Team USA Head Coach Mary Moore, from Delaware, traveled with the national team to the World Games and used Delaware as a local training grounds for the team. In addition, USTA Middle States board member and teaching professional Nancy Wilkins ran countless adaptive programs and served on the USTA National Committee. Finally, multiple Middle States players represented the section at wheelchair events, including two players attending the Wounded Warrior Tennis Camp in San Diego.

Meanwhile, our section has been active in other ways in the wheelchair tennis space, as USTA Middle States ran a Wheelchair Tennis Training in February, and also has a great wheelchair tournament in Delaware each September.

As a section, USTA Middle States is working closely with its facilities and partner organizations. A major highlight is Middle States expanding its grant initiative with the creation of Building A Tennis Community. With innovative section funding, USTA Middle States also provided an additional $70,000 in community grants to providers, as well as $50,000 toward the Build It Forward facility program.

Professional tennis ties and results were strong again in 2019. Professional players who grew up in the section (Alison Riske, Ann Li and Madison Brengle, etc.) had years to remember. On the event side, USTA Middle States hosts three USTA Pro Circuit events, including the Koser Jewelers Tennis Challenge—one of the most popular USTA Pro Circuit events in the country. The event was featured on the front cover of TIA Magazine for its community impact and importance.

The Philadelphia Freedoms of World TeamTennis, meanwhile, had a great season, with players and coaches winning national WTT awards.

Finally, Middle States hosted its Hall of Fame event, which takes place every two years. The inductees included Dan Faber, Ann LoPrinzi, Virgil Christian and Shari Bucklin-Webber. This is a group that not only has grown tennis in Middle States, but also has had a significant impact on the game across the country.

SECTION HIGHLIGHTS

Western & Southern Open

Wheelchair/Adaptive Day. Adaptive Standing Tennis made its match debut at the 2019 Western & Southern Open in a fully umpired exhibition match. The match featured two of the country's best Standing Adaptive players: Carl Mower from Carmel, Ind., and Danny Scrivano from Shelby Twp., Mich. After the singles match, Mower and Scrivano teamed up with Greg Boyd from the USTA Midwest section and Brian Dean from Tipp City, Ohio, to play mixed doubles.

The tournament also welcomed three Adaptive Tennis showcases on five courts. Beginning with the Adaptive Standing clinic, Scrivano and Mower were joined by Troy Lawrence, from Muncie, Ind., and Thalita Rodriguez, from Brazil and an NCAA Division I player from Toledo University in Ohio, to showcase their doubles game. Fun games, drills and coaching were offered by Suzie Booker of Carmel, Ind.

In addition to the Adaptive Standing clinic, Special Olympics-Ohio (SO-Ohio) brought 11 adaptive players with cognitive/developmental disabilities and four coaches from three different programs from around Ohio. SO-Ohio put on a practice for the players, which included warmups, drills and games.

Last, Buddy Up Tennis successfully debuted Net Generation's Team Challenge on three courts with more than 40 athletes, 16 Buddies and eight coaches. Beth Gibson, founder of Buddy Up Tennis, which serves players with Down syndrome, continues to grow the game and opportunity for her players.

A junior wheelchair tennis clinic was held, generating much interest around the grounds. Junior players were treated to a run/roll led by USTA Midwest's Greg Boyd as well as Brian Dean. MacKenzie Soldan, a former Midwest Paralympian who now trains at the USTA National Campus, also helped with the clinic.

Activities Around the Western & Southern Open. It was a record year for visitors to the grounds of the Western & Southern Open, and the USTA Midwest staff enjoyed interacting with many different individuals. With the addition of Play Tennis Cincinnati, a free summer camp for children focusing on the Net Generation curriculum, there were many great activities for the whole family. Here is a look at the tournament by the numbers: Kids' Day—1,200 attendees; High School Day—700 attendees; Pride Night—79 attendees representing five states; High School Showcase—4 matches/5 Teams/37 players; Net Generation On-Court Exhibitions—6 sessions/16 providers/126 participants; Net Generation Player Escorts—8 matches/16 youth; Family Zone—7 days/1,025 participants; Play Tennis Cincinnati—207 youth.

Western & Southern Booth. The USTA Midwest booth ran for the duration of the 2019 Western & Southern Open. While giving away gifts to USTA members, Midwest staff members were able to relay information about all of the exciting programs happening within the section.

It was a record year for attendance at the tournament, and a total of 2,500 members were recorded at the booth.

Midwest Tennis Ambassadors

Ambassadors are volunteers who share their passion of tennis throughout the USTA Midwest section and in their hometowns. They promote the sport on behalf of their tennis facility through social media channels and word of mouth. The program is in its second year with 28 Ambassadors and continues to grow across the Midwest.

Social Play

Nightmare at the Net (CITA). The year 2019 saw the first Nightmare at the Net social play opportunity in the Central Indiana District. The event was a one-night social play opportunity for adults to play in a round-robin doubles format and generated much interest throughout the District. A total of 46 players participated, making the event a success.

Pride Night at Western & Southern. Now in its fifth year of operation in Ohio, the 2019 Western & Southern Open Pride Night welcomed 79 participants, the most the tournament has seen to date.

Originally started by the national USTA Diversity and Inclusion Department at a few of the US Open Series tournaments, the event has morphed from a small movie screening about diversity and inclusion to a large reception. Tournament directors at the Western & Southern Open and staff of the USTA alike have enjoyed watching the event grow over the years, hearing the positive remarks each year and witnessing lifelong friendships form.

Wimbledon in Wisconsin. This event, hosted by the Wisconsin District, was a hit with all participants. The event was hosted at a new facility within the district, where there had been very little, if any, USTA programming. The grass courts provided a unique surface to engage players and encourage something new. Overall, 139 players, ages 6-87, participated in match play and team-style events. Players were unanimous in saying how well the event was run and are eagerly awaiting a second opportunity to play on the grass courts.

Midwest Youth Team Tennis

The numbers for Midwest Youth Team Tennis in 2019 were: Total Participants—4,593; Total Sessions Offered—176; Total Markets/Cities—88.

The USTA Midwest section also featured 55 sessions last year in the new Midwest Youth Team Tennis diversity program, which offers tennis in diverse markets for a significant discount, making tennis affordable for all. These programs were featured in Mid-South Illinois and Northern Illinois districts, along with programs in Chicago, Northeast Ohio and Northwest Ohio.

For the traditional Midwest Youth Team Tennis programs, the Madison, Wis., program had its highest winter program participation ever, reaching nearly 200 participants for the winter session. This was the top in the Midwest section. This is one of three MYTT sessions the Greater Madison Tennis Association runs on an annual basis.

Tennis on Campus

Badger Classic. In November 2019, the University of Wisconsin's Red and White teams welcomed more than 30 universities from across the country to participate in the 15th annual Badger Classic.

Three other sections were represented in the roster of teams present: Intermountain, Northern and Missouri Valley. With play beginning on Friday, November 15, at 8:00 a.m. and continuing through Saturday evening, Purdue University came out on top after their victory against the University of Michigan.

This tournament continues to be one of the largest student-run events in the country.

Wheelchair Tennis Updates

Net Generation Youth Focus. The USTA Midwest section conducted seven junior wheelchair tennis clinics offered throughout the section between May and August, generating three new local wheelchair tennis programs that hit the ground running.

Forty new providers were reached and more than 80 kids were introduced to the sport. New programs in 2019 included: Greater Midland Tennis Center, Toledo, Ohio, and the University of Michigan.

The section also created new marketing tip sheets for new programs to have on hand, as well as materials to have when conducting new clinics and camps that promote all of the programs in the Midwest, all of the tournaments and any information about wheelchair tennis.

Five one-day clinics at various other wheelchair sporting events were held in the section to collaborate with other wheelchair sports for kids.

The section gained two new USTA-sanctioned wheelchair tennis tournaments in 2019 (one each in Indianapolis and Cincinnati). Both were successful, with over 20 participants in each tournament. This increased the total number of wheelchair tournaments in the section to five, two of which are ITF-sanctioned, and draws more players from around the country and international players to section events.

The section held the second annual junior wheelchair tennis camp in Holland, Mich., which attracted 20 kids from around the section to attend a one-and-a-half-day junior camp in June to help jump start summer programs and get kids the additional skills needed.

Article Spotlights

Dream Center. Steve Mazur and his fellow instructor, Don Egler, partnered with the Dream Center of Pontiac, Mich., to provide full scholarships to nine children from the Dream Center program to play for free in the Bloomfield Tennis Club's junior winter programs.

Dorothy Kohl. Caty McNally, Francesca Di Lorenzo, Reese Brantmeier, Caroline Dolehide and Ellie Coleman were winners of the Dorothy Kohl Award, which helps rising Midwest stars fund their travels, tournament entry fees and more.

SECTION HIGHLIGHTS

In 2019, USTA New England continued to thrive in fulfilling its mission, “to promote and develop the growth of tennis,” by maintaining focus on its strategic priorities: junior and adult participation growth in USTA programming with a special focus on youth tennis, enhancing our delivery infrastructure, partnership development, diversity and inclusion, and volunteer and staff development.

Our community tennis staff worked tirelessly to uphold the relationships they have built over the years in schools, parks and recreation departments and other organizations while expanding into new areas. By the end of 2019, USTA New England trained 330 PE teachers and community partners and connected 130 schools through workshops. The number of schools that signed partnership agreements increased from 42 to 128 in 2019.

Tennis in the Parks became a priority in 2019, with nine successful programs completed across five states (four of which completed multiple seasons). Nine new Tennis in the Parks programs were secured for 2020, with many more expected to come.

In addition, 3,941 Junior Team Tennis players competed on 562 teams throughout New England. The summer season culminated with New England Sectionals, which featured 17 teams competing for their shot at Nationals.

As Team Challenge continues to grow nationally, its numbers are increasing in New England as well. The section hosted 145 Team Challenge events with 2,733 players in 2019. In addition, New England hosted 52 Team Tournament events with 922 players.

Among our junior tournament players, 11 New Englanders finished in the Top 50 on the USTA National Standing List. Our junior standouts included: Lauren Zhang (No. 13, girls' 12s), Alex Visser (No. 15, boys' 16s), Daniel Milavsky (No. 17, boys' 18s), Walker Oberg (No. 21, boys' 16s), Joseph Oyebog (No. 22, boys' 12s), Sydney Jara (No. 24, girls' 12s), Jennifer Riester (No. 34, girls' 18s), Nathan Mao (No. 34, boys' 16s), Alex Finkelstein (No. 41, boys' 18s), Lana Mavor (No. 47, girls' 18s) and Max Frias (No. 48, boys' 12s).

New England juniors also saw several individual achievements throughout 2019. Alex Finkelstein earned a bronze ball at USTA Nationals in the boys' 16s singles, while Walker Oberg took home a silver ball in boys' 16s singles at Indoor Nationals. At the same tournament, Alex Visser earned a bronze ball in boys' 16s doubles.

New Englanders Sasha Wood (No. 219), Alex Finkelstein (No. 315), Jennifer Riester (No. 426), Victoria Hu (No. 681) and Olivia Lincer (No. 891) each earned ITF World Junior Rankings, while Maria Mateas (No. 505), Safiya Carrington (No. 955) and Emma Davis (No. 1,210) earned WTA Rankings.

On the adult side, New England USTA League once again saw growth in 2019. Participation was up almost 3 percent for the second straight year, with 34,622 total players on 2,595 teams in 102 local leagues. New England also hired 14 Local League Coordinators in 2019 to run the day-to-day operations throughout 10 local areas. New England's best finish at League Nationals came courtesy of Captain Jennifer Licciardi and her Mixed 40 & Over 6.0 team, out of Cedardale Health & Fitness in Haverhill, Mass. The team finished fourth. The huge League success in New England is driven by the important work and dedication of more than 200 energetic volunteers.

The Tennis On Campus program had another terrific year in New England, with a record 36 teams. Total participants grew by 64 percent, reaching approximately 1,150 in 2019. Three new teams were added in 2019: Quinnipiac University, University of New Haven and Amherst College, while at least two more are set to join in 2020. New England's TOC program continues to demonstrate strong growth and is recognized as one of the most successful Tennis On Campus programs by USTA National. Brown University highlighted this year's season by winning the New England Championships.

Lastly, our New England social tennis league continued to make headlines in 2019. Total participation increased by 39 percent from 2018, with league participation up to 918 players. It continues to be one of the most successful adult social leagues in the country.

In the end, we never could have accomplished all of this without our committed base of volunteers. From the USTA New England staff and board of directors, we want to thank you for your hard work and dedication to help "Promote and Develop the Growth of Tennis."

SECTION HIGHLIGHTS

In 2019, USTA Northern broke new ground in its mission to promote and develop the sport in Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and northwestern Wisconsin. The section experienced huge growth in Junior Team Tennis, developed social play opportunities for adults and continued the success of its Tennis In Your Park program from previous years.

Participation in Junior Team Tennis increased by 143 percent in 2019, reinforcing recent research about kids’ preference toward team play in youth sports and generating a broad universe of potential players for future programming. Sadie Reiners of the Hastings Tennis Association won the Janet Louer JTT Organizer of the Year Award for her fantastic work building a successful program and promoting community involvement.

Meanwhile, USTA Northern’s adult recreational lesson program, Tennis In Your Park, grew by 15 percent. Tennis In Your Park is made possible through coordination between the section and community parks and recreation departments and was held in more than a dozen communities with 508 total registrations.

A brewery tour provided social play opportunities for adults from June to September; the section partnered with multiple area breweries to host red ball pop-up tennis throughout the summer.

With nearly 13,000 registrations in 2019, USTA League enjoyed another good year, while both the Twin Cities area and Fargo recorded substantial increases in local league participation. Forty-three teams represented USTA Northern at the National Championships, capturing two titles: Men's 55 & Over 6.0 and Men's 55 & Over 7.0.

Huge strides were made on and off the court in youth tennis. Registration fees were cut by 25 percent to make participation more affordable for players attending a National Team event. The plan is to reduce fees again in 2020. The section also hosted two Team USA Camps in April and September and eight Early Development Camps throughout the year.

Additionally, staff has been—and continues to be—hard at work educating parents, players and tournament staff on the changes coming in 2021 to the junior competitive pathway.

It was also a year of “firsts” for the section, holding its first Unified Doubles Championship and sending an adaptive athlete to the National Championships, and hosting the inaugural Minnesota Tennis Teachers Conference with the Minnesota Tennis Coaches Association and the USPTA Northern Division. The event brought together 200 attendees and coaches of all levels from around the section for three days of workshops, guest speakers and more.

USTA Northern donated nearly 400 racquets, bags and shoes around the section as part of its culture of giving. Additionally, more than $100,000 in funding was awarded to support community tennis programs and facilities.

SECTION HIGHLIGHTS

USTA Northern California continued its efforts to drive innovation and increase tennis participation in 2019, focusing on not only growing the existing membership base, but also engaging players at multiple levels across the community.

NorCal's youth programs saw significant growth across the board in 2019. Participation in the H.I.T.S. program, which focuses on helping youth build life skills and character development, was strong, with more than 5,000 kids participating and training provided for more than 100 teachers and coaches. Building off 2018's launch of the H.I.T.S Red Ball Junior Team Tennis Program, more than 1,500 players participated in 2019, leading to more 10U players transitioning into local orange ball programs. Support for training and education was also a top priority in 2019, with 18 school workshops hosted for more than 150 P.E. teachers to implement the National Shape Tennis P.E. Program, as well as close work with 17 NJTL programs to enhance their tennis and educational development. USTA Northern California also continued to foster its partnerships and collaborated with close to 50 CTA programs in the section and its Capacity Building Chapter, the Sierra Junior Tennis and Learning, to support the growth of our tennis initiatives. Lastly, NorCal also hosted the first ever High School Play Series Events.

Junior Team Tennis (JTT) leagues greatly increased its footprint with participation growing from 5,700 players to 8,400. In addition to increases in youth participation, NorCal junior teams had an excellent record of success in 2019. Most notably, the USTA Northern California 14s Intersectional team won the BG 14s Intersectional Team Championship, the highest level of team competition in the U.S. between teams from the 17 sections of the USTA. They also took home the Team Sportsmanship Award voted on by their peers and tournament staff.

In addition, 2019 proved to be a fruitful year for NorCal's Adult League program, as it ranked third in the nation in participation and ranked fifth in unique player registration. The Get Connected program, connecting adult players with teams in their area, was a big contributor to players' satisfaction, assisting more than 500 players in finding a team. The Daytime League continued its success from last year and supported 4,137 players in 273 teams across multiple levels in three leagues. There was also a great turnout for entry-level adult tennis with close to 350 participants in the Ready, Set, Rally! program and many participants following that up with Try Team Tennis events.

The 18-39 league hosted 431 players in 2019 and took action to expand the league to the age of 45 based on valuable insight gained from past participants. The launch of the 18-45 team singles league kicked off with 691 players participating. NorCal League teams represented well on the national stage and finished the championship season with three national championship teams and five teams that placed in the top four at their respective levels. In addition to league play, NorCal had 125 tournaments and 4,900 unique adult tournament players in 2019.

USTA Northern California continued its rich history of making tennis inclusive to everyone with the ninth annual North/South Wheelchair Tennis Challenge at the Copper River Country Club in Fresno. Always a fun, competitive showdown between sections, NorCal edged out a 16-7 victory and retained the trophy for the second year in a row.

In 2019, USTA Northern California's Diversity and Inclusion (D & I) team furthered its mission to create an organization that fosters diversity and inclusiveness and was integral in promoting the growth of tennis through grants, sponsorships and community outreach. Several notable accomplishments included grants that helped three tennis organizations enhance their existing programs; sponsorship of the D & I's first travel team helping 12 diverse junior players with tournament, match play and practices; and establishing the first all-women USPTA Women's Coaches Conference in collaboration with USPTA. The D & I team also helped promote USTA NorCal programming and resources and engage with the community at 17 events impressing more than 40,000 people, held a Hispanic Heritage Month event in collaboration with the Pancho Gonzalez Foundation, and sponsored and hosted its annual Kids' Day at the Mubadala Silicon Valley Classic tennis festival.

In addition to receiving National funding, these initiatives and programs were made possible by membership dues and fees collected from participation in tournaments and leagues. As a 501(c)(3) association, USTA Northern California relies on membership dollars to support community programs, committees, schools, parks and recreation, educational programs and adaptive tennis, as well as the incredible tournaments and league events hosted during the year. USTA NorCal thanks its members for their continued support of these successful programs, and we look forward to building on the momentum for 2020!

SECTION HIGHLIGHTS

The USTA Pacific Northwest section believes the game of tennis is a vehicle that can transform lives. Tennis promotes life-long fitness and wellness, instills leadership and sportsmanship, teaches teamwork and life skills, and builds stronger families and more healthy communities. We believe that our primary responsibility is to live our mission to “promote and develop the growth of tennis.” It is this philosophy that guides USTA Pacific Northwest to achieve continued growth in participation year after year.

In 2019, USTA Pacific Northwest continued to introduce, expand and support the USTA’s Net Generation to providers throughout the section, especially in clubs and schools.

Our RecTennis™ provided upwards of 39,000 play opportunities for the year, and the suite of products is made possible through strong and growing partnerships with park and recreation departments, school districts and community organizations. In the section's continued efforts to build a footprint in every community, more than 350 seasonal jobs across four states were created, drawing staff from diverse local neighborhoods and also simultaneously providing job training and positive economic impact. Overall, the goal of RecTennis™ is to provide affordable, fun and accessible health and wellness opportunities through tennis to as many people as possible. These new players are then fed into existing indoor facilities and Net Generation products.

USTA Pacific Northwest had another outstanding year in USTA League play, including three national champions and four national finalists. USTA Pacific Northwest continues to be one of the nation's leaders in player retention, as well as Total and Unique Participation Growth, coming in the top four in every category. Leading this growth was Northwest Washington Area League Coordinator Jill Borgida, who once again finished second in the country in Total Participation Growth.

The year 2019 demonstrated success for junior competition as well. Junior Team Tennis total participation grew 8 percent from the previous year. PNW juniors were well represented during the 2019 National Championships and Easter Bowl with three semifinalists and three quarterfinalists. Annika Renganathan (girls' 12) and Thomas Paulsell (boys' 16) were Easter Bowl semifinalists. Lamija Avdik was a girls' 14 semifinalist. Katja Wiersholm (girls'

16) and Cash Hanzlik (boys' 18) both reached the National Championship quarterfinals, and Vincent Yang made it through to the Easter Bowl boys' 12 quarterfinals.

USTA Pacific Northwest continues to live its mission-based strategic initiative to revitalize and manage indoor tennis facilities, while expanding the tennis infrastructure and collaborating with communities to provide accessible play opportunities for all. For the Galbraith Tennis Center and Vancouver Tennis Center, 2019 was the first full year of operations under USTA Pacific Northwest management, with membership and participation growing each month, while continuing to provide free court hours to nearby public high schools and engaging in multiple partnerships with parks and recreation departments, elementary school districts, local foundations, and military bases and families. Investing in facility infrastructure with revitalizing facilities like the Galbraith Tennis Center and Vancouver Tennis Center continues to address the single greatest challenge of growing the game of tennis specific to the Pacific Northwest: public access to indoor courts for all.

In working with the various departments, USTA Pacific Northwest continued to deliver target marketing strategies that integrated traditional, print and grassroots efforts with new and engaging digital platforms, with an emphasis on social media engagement and outreach. By using these various mediums, USTA Pacific Northwest was able to communicate its organizational story in a visual and engaging manner to inspire a new group of traditional and non-traditional players.

SECTION HIGHLIGHTS

The terms “innovation” and “elevation” best describe a banner year for USTA Southern California, named the Racquet Sports Industry magazine Section of the Year in 2019 for making extraordinary strides in developing the game at all levels throughout the year.

The section officially announced plans for the Carol Kimmelman Athletic & Academic Campus in Carson, launching the initiative to create one of the largest and most extraordinary nonprofit community-serving centers in the United States.

Working with the City of Los Angeles Rec & Parks, as well as the Los Angeles Unified School Districts, USTA Southern California provided training for more than 250 R&P staff in 2019, introduced tennis curriculum to physical education classes at more than 150 LAUSD schools and incorporated tennis into after-school programs at 18 schools in the region under the USTA Net Generation initiative. Additionally, the section escalated capacity building for six local NJTL chapters.

In junior tennis, the Final 8 Masters Championship premiered in 2019. Held along the picturesque Malibu shores, the tournament pooled the top eight players in each junior age division in round robin play, culminating in a Sunday finale that saw each age level crown an inaugural Final 8 champion.

The 117th SoCal Junior Sectionals added much pomp and circumstance to the largest youth sectional tournament in the nation. Among the highlights was the performance of top-seeded Thea Frodin, who collected the girls' 10s singles, doubles and mixed doubles sectional titles in 2019.

Several SoCal-based players excelled on the national level, including emerging pros Brandon Nakashima, Junior Fed Cup champion Katrina Scott and Zachary Svajda. In winning USTA Boys' Nationals, Svajda earned a berth in the US Open men's singles main draw and made his Flushing Meadows debut in front of a boisterous crowd.

UCLA triumphed at the Tennis On Campus National Championships to conclude an impressive collegiate club tennis season. The team won its first TOC title since 2011 with an exciting win over California.

At Adult Open Sectionals, Riley Smith swept the men's singles and doubles, including a win alongside his father, Peter Smith. Midori Castillo, along with Delanie Dunkle and Maia Sung—all winners at Junior Sectionals—stepped into the adult competition to notch the women's open singles and doubles crowns, respectively.

In national play, the women's 75s team captured yet another Gold victory at Intersectionals, helmed by captain Suella Steel along with Cathie Anderson, Anne Russ and Teri Eggers. Southern California teams also notched silver medals in the 65s and 55s divisions, plus a bronze medal in 35s.

At the ITF Super Senior World Team competition in Croatia, captain Tina Karwasky helped Team USA continue its dominance at the Kitty Godfree Cup women's 65+ competition, earning a crucial singles win to help the squad sweep Germany in the championship final. Liane Bryson and Team USA's 70+ team swept Great Britain in the final of the Althea Gibson Cup. David Dollins and Dean Corley competed as part of the men's 75+ team that outlasted Austria, 2-1, in the Bitsy Grant Cup finale.

SECTION HIGHLIGHTS

For USTA Southwest, 2019 was a banner year, as we underwent a significant leadership transition and a new mode of operation, transitioning away from a district structure to a more centralized and streamlined form of governance in which the section takes on more tasks and responsibility for what happens locally. This move was spearheaded by the USTA Southwest board and volunteers, and is designed to propel the section forward and better deliver our programs.

Our League program continues to be a beacon of optimism, as total registrations in the program in the Southwest remained on an increase, as it has every year since the program's origination nearly four decades ago. USTA Southwest squads fared well at USTA League National Championship events, and it was our women who led the show. We had a USTA National 40 & Over 4.0 championship squad from Scottsdale, and our 5.0+ 18 & Over women (from Albuquerque) were runners-up nationally.

We continue to push forward and develop new offerings locally in our adult realms, especially in the areas of social league tennis with millennial-aged players. Our team tournament and event numbers across the section are growing exponentially and seem to show a real trend we already knew about and embraced: This sport is inherently social, and our players will do just about anything to create and be on a team with friends or develop new ones from the sport.

In junior areas, our focus has worked on trying to be a leader nationally in how to run events and making clear, understandable pathways for our juniors to follow. Our Junior Team Tennis programs are continuing to thrive and be added in smaller communities, which is also a goal. We held our Section Championships for JTT in Flagstaff, the first time the city has ever hosted a sectional event.

Our great segue programs such as Tennis On Campus keep taking off as well, as we add ever more collegiate teams to our annual event. The University of New Mexico was our 2019 Tennis On Campus section champ for the second year in a row and for the third time overall.

Both our junior and adult tennis participation numbers in tournaments (particularly in Phoenix with the advent of yearlong "Series events") have grown slightly. We try to be creative in increasing opportunities and use new formats—from Fast Four concepts to different types of pairing events (e.g., Junior Dynamic Duo, with one girl and one boy playing as a "team," competing in singles, doubles and mixed). We will continue to try to innovate in these areas.

The recently created USTA Adult NTRP National Championships have been a success and have reached down locally, as players opt to play more local tournaments in the hope of making the national event. One of our players—Thomas Roller of Morristown, Ariz.—captured a national title at the 4.0 level in the 2019 50 & Over USTA NTRP National Championship event.

In the competitive junior realm, players from the Southwest garnered some impressive results in 2019. Gianna Piolet of El Paso, Texas, and Niroop Vallabhaneni of Paradise Valley, Ariz., reached the 2019 US Open Junior Championships. Piolet (girls' 18s) and Adam Sun of Phoenix (boys' 14s) also finished with Top 10 national rankings.

Our adults, led by Santa Fe's Jimmy Parker, also had stellar years. Parker's was quite amazing, sweeping the men's 75 singles USTA National Hard Court, Clay Court, Grass Court and Indoor titles. He came one match short of a full Grand Slam in doubles (losing in the semifinals of the Hard Courts), on his way to the No. 1 ranking in both singles and doubles for 2019. It was the second year in a row he won all four major singles titles.

Our USTA Southwest community tennis programs are going strong, and we continue to support them with nearly $25,000 in grants annually. A new professional event also was added to the calendar in 2019, as the Arizona Tennis Classic, a high-level ATP Challenger event, took place in Phoenix in the spring.

Lastly, one of our best-ever juniors and former WTA Top 11-ranked player, Meghann Shaughnessy, was inducted into our Hall of Fame in 2019, along with immediate past president and former University of New Mexico Lobo great Tim Garcia.

SECTION HIGHLIGHTS

Texas hosted its first-ever Fed Cup tie in 2019, welcoming Team USA to Freeman Coliseum in San Antonio. Twenty-year-old Sofia Kenin clinched a 3-1 victory for the U.S. Fed Cup team over Switzerland on April 21. With the win, the Americans clinched a spot in the 2020 Fed Cup Qualifiers.

The University of Texas men's tennis team won its first NCAA Division I National Championship on May 19. The Longhorns feature two Texas juniors—Nevin Arimilli and Colin Markes—on their roster. Baylor University and Texas Christian University also reached the Elite Eight.

On July 14, Carrollton's Savannah Broadus won the Wimbledon girls' doubles championship. The 16-year-old teamed with fellow American Abigail Forbes to capture her first junior Grand Slam tournament title.

On July 23, USTA Texas announced that the city of Georgetown won the three-year bid to host the Texas Slam, one of the largest junior tennis tournaments in the United States. Georgetown beat out several other applicants for the event, with a special selection committee of volunteers reviewing the bids and ultimately choosing the next host city. Abilene served as the tournament's host from 2017 to 2019, welcoming nearly 1,000 players a year to play in the Texas Slam.

In addition, 2019 marked the third year of the USTA Texas College Showcase, an event that helps high schoolers learn more about the college recruiting process. On July 27-28, 25 coaches from across the country watched more than 130 players at Baylor's Waco Regional Tennis Center.

The USTA announced that Soldier Spring Park of Weatherford, TBarM Racquet Club in Dallas and SMU Tennis

Complex in Dallas were winners in the USTA Facility Awards program. The award recognizes excellence in the construction and/or renovation of tennis facilities throughout the country. The winners were honored at the USTA Semi-Annual Meeting in New York City on August 29.

USTA Texas dominated at the USTA League National Championships, held from October 4 to November 17. Six Lone Star teams won titles, as USTA Texas boasted the largest number of winners from any one section in 2019.

Texas hosted the USTA Junior Team Tennis National Championships in San Antonio in mid-November and defended its home turf. Austin Tennis Academy won both 18U Championships, and the Texas Select Bears (Dallas) won the 14U Intermediate title. King Daddy Tornados (Houston) and the Texas Select Longhorns (Dallas) both finished as runners-up.

The US Open showcased the sport of tennis to a record number of fans in 2019. Over the course of three weeks—beginning with US Open Fan Week, followed by the two-week Main Draw event—total attendance surpassed 850,000 for the first time in tournament history, with 853,227 fans coming to the USTA Billie Jean King National Tennis Center.

US Open Fan Week, the tennis and entertainment festival that helps raise awareness of the US Open and drives attendance, gave fans of all ages the opportunity to experience the excitement and atmosphere of the US Open for free. Fan Week kicked off on Monday, August 19, with the US Open Qualifying Tournament, which for the first time offered more than $3.5 million in prize money, nearly a 20 percent increase over 2018 (and a doubling of prize money over the past four years). The fifth-biggest tennis tournament in the U.S., the Qualifying Tournament was expanded to five days—beginning a day earlier than in previous years—to allow for greater scheduling flexibility in case of weather issues, as well as to broaden its role as the anchor of Fan Week. A record total of 115,355 fans came through the facility's gates over the seven days of Fan Week.

Along with the Qualifying Tournament, Fan Week highlights included fan access to player practices in Arthur Ashe Stadium for the first time; top ATP Tour and WTA players participating in Featured Practices in the Grandstand; Doubles Clinics and Legends Matches with tennis greats such as Tracy Austin, Jim Courier, Lindsay Davenport, John McEnroe, Martina Navratilova and Andy Roddick; the US Open Draw Ceremony, which was staged for the public on the US Open grounds for the first time; US Open Media Day, with fans in Louis Armstrong Stadium invited to watch the media interview leading players; a US Open Pride Panel Discussion, presented in association with the Billie Jean King Leadership Initiative; a nightly Heineken Happy Hour; Chase Sound Check evening concerts in the South Plaza; a new Net Generation Kids' Zone in Backyard Court 17; and the 24th annual Arthur Ashe Kids' Day, whose stadium show included guest artists Blanco Brown and Meg Donnelly, who co-hosted the show with JD McCrary and Radio Disney's Morgan.

When the Main Draw event began on Monday, August 26, the tournament continued its tradition of combining sports and entertainment and using its global stage to champion key initiatives and beneficial causes. On Opening Day, the USTA honored trailblazer and tennis great Althea Gibson by unveiling the tournament grounds' newest attraction, the Althea Gibson Sculpture Garden, located in front of Arthur Ashe Stadium. That evening, Broadway came to Ashe Stadium as part of the Opening Night Ceremony, in which Grammy, Emmy and Tony Award-winning actor and singer Ben Platt performed on center court and Tony Award-winner Ali Stroker sang the national anthem. Billie Jean King also took part in the festivities before Serena Williams and Maria Sharapova put on a show of their own, playing each other for the first time ever at the US Open. Opening Night also featured the USTA Foundation's 19th annual Opening Night Gala, which raised more than $1.2 million for the Foundation.

All told, Opening Day drew a record 41,050 for the day session and concluded with more than 68,000 fans visiting the US Open grounds (27,009 attended the evening session) for the highest-ever Opening Day daily gate. The 2019 US Open also set a tournament mark for a night session, when 29,053 fans attended the evening matches on Saturday, August 31. The next day, the tournament established a record for first-week attendance with 481,508 fans.

Special events added to the fans' US Open experience, including the annual US Open Food-Tasting Preview with celebrity chefs; Kim Clijsters's induction into the US Open Court of Champions on Wednesday, August 28; the renaming of Military Appreciation Day on Monday, September 2, in honor of Lt. Joe Hunt, who in 1945 became the only U.S. Nationals or US Open champion to lose his life in service to his country; and the honoring of Rod Laver on Friday, September 6, during an Ashe Stadium ceremony in which he was presented with a plaque by representatives from each of the four Grand Slam tournaments in tribute to his second Grand Slam, which he completed at the 1969 US Open. In-stadium entertainment also made the tournament more fan-friendly. For the first time, specialized LED screens surrounded the backwalls and sidewalls of Ashe Stadium, allowing the entertainment to be amplified prior to matches, during changeovers and in the middle of set breaks.

Ninety-seven percent of the US Open attendees rated their overall experience as "Good," "Very Good" or "Excellent." Half of the attendees came to the tournament for more than one session, and 85 percent of the fans stayed at their session for five hours or more.

The 2019 US Open averaged 1.28 million viewers across ESPN and ESPN2, up 23 percent compared to 2018, which is the largest-ever average audience for the US Open on ESPN, as well as the largest cable audience since 2001. The women singles final averaged 3.3 million viewers, and the five-set men's singles final telecast averaged 2.8 million viewers. Additionally, coverage of the men's singles semifinals averaged 1.5 million viewers, up 20 percent compared to 2018. The average audience on ESPN and ESPN 2 increased on 13 of the 14 days of the Main Draw, and 28 of the 29 live telecasts were up year over year.

THE 2019 US OPEN ATTRACTED MORE THAN 850,000 FANS TO THE USTA BILLIE JEAN KING NATIONAL TENNIS CENTER FOR THE FIRST TIME IN EVENT HISTORY.

In total, the 2019 US Open on ESPN and ESPN2 reached 44 million people, and Time Spent Viewing also increased by 12 percent. ESPN networks aired 178 total hours of coverage during the three weeks of the US Open. Also, more than 1,300 hours streamed live on the ESPN app, featuring all 11 court feeds, and the new US Open Now channel, which debuted as a digital-first lifestyle companion show, as well as daily press conference and Spanish-language feeds. Worldwide, the tournament was broadcast in more than 200 countries and territories, with global coverage totaling 76,129 hours.

The tournament's official digital properties, USOpen.org and the US Open app, resulted in 40 million visits and 15.6 million content views, a 35 percent increase over 2018. US Open social channels drove record engagement across all platforms with 321 million total interactions and video views, a 72 percent gain over 2018. On Facebook and Instagram, there was a 115 percent increase in interactions over the previous year. US Open Radio, which featured improved user experience across owned and operated platforms, provided 24-hour coverage for the first time and had a quarter of a million unique listeners. A total of 1,346 media credentials were issued to representatives from 49 countries. The 2019 US Open aimed to create an impactful message to help change a statistic that showed only four percent of media coverage featured female athletes. Partnering with the women's equality organization, ShesS, as well as other sports entities around the country, the USTA designed a campaign that invited fans to take matters into their own hands and help change the way women athletes are seen not only in tennis, but in all sports. The USTA also celebrated the 12th year of its US Open sustainability initiative to drive global climate awareness and action.

All the while, the 2019 US Open provided an opportunity to strengthen the tournament's new brand story, capitalize on the momentum and excitement of the 2018 US Open and propel the event into the future. Keeping the "Built for Glory" tagline from 2018, the advertising campaign evolved from looking back on US Open history to focusing on the present and what is to come. The creative was enhanced with a new design and new "Built" adaptations and expanded with new high-impact, out-of-home opportunities.

The 2019 US Open offered the richest purse in the history of the sport, with total compensation for the players topping $57 million, including a record $3.85 million to both the men's and women's singles champions. Throughout the Main Draw, the tournament's headlines were filled with upsets and up-and-comers. None of the four top-seeded women made it through the first week, marking the first time in either the women's or men's field that all four of the top seeds failed to advance to the quarterfinals, while rising young stars such as 15-year-old phenom Coco Gauff created a great deal of excitement.

History loomed over the entire tournament as Serena Williams reached the women's singles final in pursuit of her elusive 24th Grand Slam singles title, seeking to tie the all-time mark held by Margaret Court. But in the women's singles title match, Williams came up against Bianca Andreescu, a supremely talented teenager with a surprisingly mature game, and fell short of making major history. Adding to the record books did not elude Rafael Nadal, however. In a grueling, utterly compelling and intense four-hour, 49-minute slugfest against Daniil Medvedev, Nadal held on for a five-set victory in the men's singles final to earn his fourth US Open title of the decade and his 19th major title overall. Meanwhile, three U.S. players came away with titles at the 2019 US Open: Bethanie Mattek-Sands, who teamed up with Jamie Murray to successfully defend their mixed doubles title, and Eliot Spizziri and Tyler Zink, who captured the boys' doubles crown.

Kicking off the second 50 years of US Open tennis, the 2019 US Open closed out the Grand Slam tournament calendar as it always does—in memorable fashion.

US OPEN SERIES

Serving up the best of summer, the US Open Series brought together the world's leading players on the WTA and ATP Tour in its 16th season, linking seven WTA and ATP Tour tournaments to the US Open. Forming a true summer season of North American tennis, the Series in 2019 featured a cohesive schedule that not only allowed for appointment television, but also centralized the way tennis is viewed in North America, across multiple television and digital platforms. Fans saw top champions go head-to-head with emerging stars for five consecutive mid-summer weeks.

Since its inception in 2004, the US Open Series has been responsible for the introduction of cutting-edge innovations in the sport, including instant replay technology and "US Open" blue tennis courts for improved visibility of the ball. The Series also has helped to grow the game by making it possible for the next generation of tennis talents to compete against the tours' best players and see if they have what it takes to succeed at the sport's highest level.

In 2019, each US Open Series tournament had activities in place to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the National Junior Tennis and Learning (NJTL) network. These activities included honoring local NJTL chapters with a wide range of Net Generation experiences, including high school days, kids' tennis clinics, on-court demonstrations, coin tosses and player escorts. Each tournament also engaged its local community with such experiences as adult league initiatives, Hispanic community outreach and player appearances that help attract new players and fans. Through these efforts, the Series supported the USTA mission "to promote and develop the growth of tennis" both on and off the court.

Bianca Andreescu and Daniil Medvedev were named the Breakout Performers of the 2019 US Open Series. Following the Series, Andreescu captured the women's singles title and Medvedev reached the men's final at the 2019 US Open.

In November, it was announced that the new WTA event to be hosted in Albany, N.Y., the week prior to the US Open, as well as the Hall of Fame Open in Newport, R.I., are officially joining the US Open Series. In becoming part of the Series, the Newport event will kick off the 2020 summer tennis season and also connect the US Open with its original home.

USTA PRO CIRCUIT

The USTA Pro Circuit serves as America's main pathway for men and women who seek to compete at the highest levels of professional tennis. Formed in 1979 to provide additional competitive opportunities on American soil for players who aspire to earn the professional ranking points needed to gain entry into the higher-level tournaments, the USTA Pro Circuit has since grown into the largest Pro Circuit in the world.

In 2019, the USTA Pro Circuit offered more than $4 million in prize money and served up five times as many tournaments in the United States as the ATP Tour and the WTA tour combined. Tommy Paul was the American man who earned the most ATP ranking points on the 2019 USTA Pro Circuit (295), followed by J.J. Wolf (231) and Marcos Giron (215). Ann Li led the American women in WTA ranking points earned on the 2019 USTA Pro Circuit (330), edging past Whitney Osuigwe (328) and Usue Arconada (311).

DAVIS CUP

In 2019, Davis Cup, the premier international team event in men's tennis, introduced a new World Cup-like format that kicked off in February with a preliminary round of 12 head-to-head matches hosted by national federations. The winners of those home-and-away matches—along with the previous year's semifinalists and two wild-card nations—then advanced to the 18-team Davis Cup by Rakuten Finals, which were played November 18-24 at La Caja Magica in Madrid, Spain.

The United States earned an automatic entry into the 2019 Davis Cup Finals by virtue of its semifinal finish in 2018, which marked the end of Jim Courier's eight-year tenure as U.S. Davis Cup captain. His replacement—former world No. 7 player and Davis Cup veteran Mardy Fish—was named in January 2019.

"Ever since I started playing professionally and started understanding what the Davis Cup was and how special it was, even as a player, I wanted to be the Davis Cup captain," said Fish, who became the 41st captain in the team's 120-year history but had to wait 10 months for the Davis Cup Finals to begin before he could make his debut courtside for Team USA.

The 18 nations taking part in the 2019 Davis Cup Finals were divided into six round-robin groups of three teams each, with the winner of each group and the two top-finishing second-place teams advancing to the knockout quarterfinal stage. Each tie consisted of two singles and one doubles match, all best-of-three tiebreak sets. The U.S., as the No. 6-seeded nation, was placed in Group F, to which Italy and Canada were also drawn.

To represent the United States in the 2019 Finals, Fish picked two Davis Cup newcomers: Taylor Fritz and Reilly Opelka, whose respective world rankings of No. 31 and No. 37 made them the top-ranked members of the squad. Joining them on Team USA were Sam Querrey, Frances Tiafoe and Jack Sock.

The United States opened its group play on November 19 against Canada, with Fish calling on his two rookies, Opelka and Fritz, to play singles, and tiebreaks featured prominently in both of their matches. Opelka faced Vasek Pospisil in the opening contest and served 28 aces, but fell short in two tiebreak sets, 7-6(5), 7-6(7). A tiebreak also decided the first set in Fritz's match against Denis Shapovalov, who won the set, 7-6(6), and then captured the second set, 6-3, to give Canada an insurmountable 2-0 lead in the tie, as well as its first victory over the United States in 16 tries. The doubles point went to Team USA when Sam Querrey and Jack Sock won in a walkover.

The next afternoon, the United States faced Italy, with both teams seeking one of the quarterfinal spots available to second-place Group teams. Fabio Fognini defeated Opelka in the opener, 6-4, 6-7(4), 6-3, before Fritz evened the score with an upset victory over Matteo Berrettini, 5-7, 7-6(5), 6-2—effectively ending either nation's chance of advancing to the quarterfinals before the decisive doubles match was played.

Even so, both the Americans—Querrey and Sock—and the Italians—Fognini and Simone Bolelli—did not let up when the doubles teams took the court at 1:15 a.m. Neither side could generate a break of serve in the first two sets. The Italians won the first set tiebreak, 7-6(4), and the Americans captured the second set tiebreak, 7-6(2). In the third and final set, Italy finally earned a break for a 3-1 lead, but Querrey and Sock broke back, then broke again at 4-4 and served out the match to give the United States a second-place finish in Group F, behind Canada, in the first Davis Cup under the new format.

"They were firing on all cylinders for a while; so we had to stay with it," said Sock. "We could have gotten down, especially at this time of night. Just happy we regrouped."

The match ended at 4:04 a.m. and was the latest-finishing match in Davis Cup history. In fact, it was the second latest finish of all-time, surpassed only by a match between Lleyton Hewitt and Marcos Baghdatis at the 2008 Australian Open that ended at 4:34 a.m. Most of all, it reminded observers near and far how Davis Cup can bring out the very best in players when they compete for their countries.

FED CUP

The United States began 2019 intent on advancing to the Fed Cup Final for the third consecutive year. In 2017, under the guidance of first-year captain Kathy Rinaldi, the U.S. Fed Cup team won the Fed Cup championship for a record 18th time. In 2018, Team USA again reached the Fed Cup Final, only to cede the crown to Czech Republic.

Ready to regain the title in 2019, the U.S. Fed Cup team opened its campaign on February 9-10 at the U.S. Cellular Center in Asheville, N.C., where it hosted Australia in a World Group first-round matchup. The tie made the Asheville arena the first site in the U.S. to host consecutive Fed Cup ties since the Delray Beach Tennis Center in Delray Beach, Fla., in 2005-07. It also brought together two longtime rivals. The United States had defeated Australia in the first Fed Cup Final in 1963, and the two nations had faced one another 14 times over the years, although only once since 1985, in a 2016 World Group Playoff in Brisbane, Australia.

The 2019 first-round tie in Asheville marked Australia's first World Group appearance in four years, and Australia captain Alicia Molik and her squad embraced the opportunity. Ashleigh Barty opened the tie with a 6-1, 7-6(2) win over Sofia "Sonya" Kenin. Next, Madison Keys leveled the score by defeating Kimberly Birrell, 6-2, 6-2, to set up a climactic second day of competition.

When Day 2 got underway, Barty restored Australia's lead with a 6-4, 6-1 victory over Keys. The tie became knotted once again when Danielle Collins, substituting for Kenin, recorded her first win in Fed Cup by besting Daria Gavrilova, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2, to set up a winner-take-all doubles match for the decisive point. Barty, who teamed with Priscilla Hon, became the first player to win three points in a Fed Cup tie against the United States since Caroline Garcia of France in the 2014 World Group Playoff when the Aussies defeated Collins and Nicole Melichar, 6-4, 7-5, to clinch the tie. Australia ultimately advanced to the 2019 Fed Cup Final, which was won by France, 3-2.

For Team USA, the 3-2 loss to Australia meant that instead of advancing to the semifinal round, it entered the World Group Playoffs, with a spot in the World Group in 2020 on the line. For its opponent, the United States drew Switzerland. The United States entered the tie with an 8-0 record against Switzerland, although the two nations had not met since 1993, when they played in Frankfurt, Germany. Six of their other encounters were also contested at a neutral site, as Fed Cup was held at a single location rather than home or away sites until 1995. The only time either nation enjoyed a home-court advantage was in 1976, when the event was staged in Philadelphia in honor of America's bicentennial year.

The 2019 tie between the United States and Switzerland was staged on April 20-21 at the Freeman Coliseum in San Antonio, Texas, and marked the U.S. Fed Cup team's first appearance in the Lone Star State. Team USA experienced an early scare when Viktorija Golubic swept past Madison Keys, 6-2, 6-3, to start things off. Sloane Stephens evened the tie with a 6-4, 6-3 win over Timea Bacsinszky and then gave the Americans the lead on Day 2 with a 6-3, 6-2 victory against Golubic. Rinaldi then subbed Kenin, who was originally nominated to play doubles, for the fourth rubber, and Kenin wrapped up the tie for the United States with a 6-3, 7-6(4) win over Bacsinszky.

"We have confidence in everybody, and we're one team. And when one player is down, another player picks up, and that's what Sonya and Sloane did this weekend," Rinaldi said after the tie, which ended at 3-2 when Conny Perrin and Ylena In-Albon defeated Jessica Pegula and Jennifer Brady, 7-5, 6-2, in a dead doubles match.

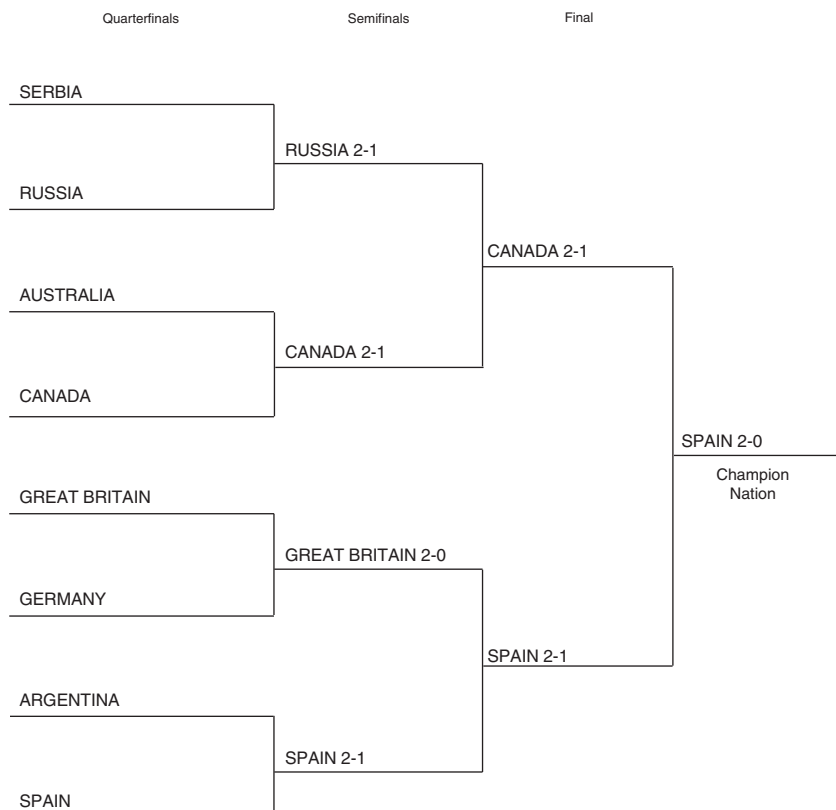

In June 2019, the ITF announced that Fed Cup was undergoing a restructuring and would feature a "World Cup of Tennis" format beginning in 2020. The competition was slated to kick off with 16 teams competing in eight home-and-away Fed Cup Qualifiers and would culminate in the Fed Cup Finals, with 12 teams—the previous year's two finalists, the host nation, a wild card nation and the eight winners of the Fed Cup Qualifiers—competing during one week at a single location. By winning its 2019 World Group Playoffs, the United States earned a spot in the 2020 Fed Cup Qualifiers.

USTA ADAPTIVE NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

The USTA National Campus in Orlando, Fla., served as the host site for the USTA Adaptive National Championship on October 12-13. The event, in its second year, featured unified doubles, with one athlete (a player with an intellectual disability or special needs) teaming up with his or her unified partner (a player without an intellectual disability) in a round-robin format. Unified doubles helps to break down stereotypes about people with intellectual disabilities in a fun way by empowering individuals to engage through the power of sports.

USTA LEAGUE NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

USTA League, the nation's largest recreational tennis league, celebrated its 39th year in 2019. Developed and piloted in 1978 and given national status in 1980, USTA League provides adult recreational tennis players with the opportunity to compete against players of similar ability levels. USTA League totaled more than 310,000 participants in 2019.

The 2019 USTA League season culminated in the USTA League National Championships, which were spread among four locations during the course of seven weeks, from Oct. 4 through Nov. 17. Each national championship division had men's and women's teams representing each of the 17 USTA sections, and 14 different sections captured titles at NTRP levels ranging from 2.5 to 5.0+, as well as doubles-only teams ranging from 2.5 (individual NTRP) to 6.0 through 10.0 (combined NTRP). More than 6,660 players competing on nearly 600 different teams participated in the fall USTA League Championships. A total of 36 national championship titles were awarded, generating a flood of social media activity—more than 7 million impressions across Facebook, Instagram and Twitter.

For the 32nd year, Penn Racquet Sports was the official ball for USTA League.

NTRP NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

The NTRP National Championships were launched in 2018 and leverage the National Tennis Rating Program (NTRP) rating system to create level-based competition at the 18 & Over and 50 & Over age groups. Competitors in the NTRP National Championships represent their sections, qualifying for the national event either through sectional playoffs, their sectional rankings or other means of sectional endorsement. The NTRP National Championships feature round-robin draws that lead into non-elimination playoffs.

A best-of-three-short-sets format is played, with no-ad scoring and a nine-point tiebreak at three-all.

In 2019, the 18 & Over championships were held at Academia Sánchez-Casal Florida in Naples, Fla., with the singles taking place March 29-31 and the doubles played April 5-7. The 50 & Over championships were held at the Surprise Tennis & Racquet Complex in Surprise, Ariz., with the singles contested March 29-31 and the doubles April 5-7.

USTA TENNIS ON CAMPUS NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

Tennis On Campus is the USTA's program for college club tennis players. It has been designed for and organized by college students who want to stay involved in the game, make friends and compete in events all around the country. Over 400 colleges and universities participate and compete in the program, with more than half of them competing to make it to the National Championship. Originally developed by the USTA in partnership with the National Intramural Recreational Sports Association, World TeamTennis and the Intercollegiate Tennis Association, Tennis On Campus has been enabling college students across the country to enjoy the excitement of tennis through coed team play since 2000.

The 2019 USTA Tennis On Campus National Championship featured a 64-team field and was held April 11-13 at the Surprise Tennis & Racquet Complex in Surprise, Ariz. In an all-California final, the University of California—Los Angeles defeated the University of California—Berkeley, 23-22, after trailing, 19-17, heading into the fifth and decisive mixed doubles set. For the Bruins of UCLA, who had finished in the top five the past two years, it was their second national championship; they won their first title in 2011. The Golden Bears of California were looking to capture their fifth national championship, having won its most recent crowns back-to-back in 2014-15. Seven schools made their Tennis On Campus National Championship debut: Lone Star College—CyFair, the University of Texas—Dallas, the U.S. Air Force Academy, the U.S. Naval Academy, Valley City State University, Winona State University and Wesleyan University.

USTA Tennis On Campus also stages a pair of national invitational events each year: the Spring Invitational, which complements the National Championship, and the Fall Invitational, which serves as a national kickoff tournament. At the 2019 Spring Invitational, held March 29-31 at the USTA National Campus in Orlando, Fla., the University of Georgia, which was the national champion in 2013 and winner of the Fall Invitational in 2015 and 2018, defeated Boston University for its first Spring Invitational title. At the 2019 Fall Invitational, held November 1-3 at Cary Tennis Park in Cary, N.C., Cornell University defeated fellow first-time Fall Invitational finalists North Carolina State University to claim the championship.

USTA JUNIOR TEAM TENNIS

USTA Junior Team Tennis, the largest youth tennis program in the country, was established in 1991 to provide girls and boys with all of the health and social benefits of tennis in a coed, fun and competitive team environment. For kids ages 6 to 18, USTA Junior Team Tennis enables them to play the sport with friends and against individuals of similar ages and skill level by bringing them together on teams and having them compete in singles, doubles and mixed doubles against other teams. Teams are coed and made up of at least six players (three boys and three girls) based on similar ages and skill levels, with more than 85,000 players participating nationwide.

The emphasis is on skill development, fun, teamwork and friendly competition, all with the possibility of advancing to the crown jewel of the USTA Junior Team Tennis season—the National Championships. Teams compete for a national championship at intermediate and advanced skill levels in two divisions: 14 and under, and 18 and under.

The 2019 USTA Junior Team Tennis National Championships were held at the McFarlin Tennis Center in San Antonio, Texas. The 14-and-under divisions played November 7-10, while the 18-and-under divisions competed November 14-17.
