What are cookies?

A cookie is a small text file that is downloaded onto a device when a user accesses a website. It allows the website to recognise that user’s device and store some information about the user’s preferences or past actions.

We use cookies on our website to distinguish you from other users of our website. This helps us to provide you with a good experience when you use our website; and it also helps us to improve our website. We collect cookies when you visit our website from any device (e.g., a mobile, tablet or PC).

Cookies set by us (the website owner) are called “first-party cookies.” Cookies set by any other parties are called “third-party cookies.” Third-party cookies enable third-party features or functionality to be provided on or through our website (e.g., advertising, interactive content, or analytics). The parties that set these third-party cookies can recognize your computer both when it visits the website in question and also when it visits certain other websites.
