What people are saying about Denise...

“As a first generation American and a daughter of a refugee and immigrant, there was always this gnawing sense that I didn’t quite fit anywhere. It’s something I couldn’t articulate until hearing Denise speak. She “gets” cultural dexterity and why it matters. She helped me understand the value of cultural fluency and unlock (what I call) my super power so that I can be of service to others.”

Belonging 1.0: The Magic of Belonging

For Denise Soler Cox, Co-Producing and Co-Directing the award-winning film, “being eñye.” revealed a foundational truth: Belonging is a universal human need.

Worldwide audience reaction to “being eñye” reinforced that the desire to belong, feel included, and valued, is not limited to a group or minority. It is a desire in the hearts of everyone. What began as her personal project, became a crusade to positively impact individuals, companies, and communities.

Her research-driven program emphasizes why Belonging matters to us personally and collectively. She provides a blueprint that improves lives and relationships.

Additionally, for companies, it enhances retention and the bottom line. As it turns out, Belonging not only fulfills a basic human desire, it’s also good for business!

No Place I'd Rather Be.

Belonging 2.0: Embracing Imperfection

Denise shares how creating a life that brings you joy, excitement and purpose does not require waiting until you've met some imaginary level of perfection or standard, and how belonging is something we can create for ourselves.

Through her inspiring personal story, attendees will walk away with three powerful takeaways:

1. Embrace Vulnerability: It doesn't get any scarier or real than this but you'll discover how strength and belonging grows from what we feel might be "weakness" in our lives, and can very often turn into our most important blessing and superpower.
2. Persist: You're not always going to feel like you know what you're doing. And you'll certainly bump into internal and external resistance. Denise's message offers a fresh perspective and inspires her audiences to shake off self-doubt and move forward through any setbacks.
3. Finding Belonging Within: Nothing can cause us more stress than being mean to ourselves. Denise lays out in clear words a path that helps lead to greater emotional resiliency, compassion and a sense of belonging no matter where you find yourself.

Embark on a journey of self-discovery, resilience, and the profound impact of embracing imperfection on the path to belonging.
