

Testimonials

“Chris is a fantastic storyteller. Her delivery is comfortable, relaxed and resonates across a diverse audience. Dogs of course are a great draw. Chris had a line waiting to get in! Her stories and analogies from her outdoor adventures evoke emotions that everyone in the audience can connect to in their personal and professional lives. Her humanistic approach brings empathy back into the equation to address workforce challenges.” - Jessica Arky, TC-SHRM

“As a school district, setting the tone for the start of the year is essential. Educational staff are service oriented, they work so hard that they forget their need to be supported and valued. Getting staff at the start of the year to engage is a challenge, as they are thinking of their task lists, instead of themselves. Chris kept them engaged for the entire 90 minutes, laughing, smiling, reflecting, and resetting for the year! The message our staff needed was that while we are all different, we all have a role, and we need to bring our talents and passion to the team...to be WILD! Chris went above and beyond, and in 25+ years in education, I have never gotten such positive feedback about a speaker. Do yourselves and your team the best favor and give them the opportunity to hear Chris speak! This has largely been agreed to be the best start to school in years!”
- Dr. Mandy Stewart, Superintendent, Charlotte Public Schools

“I just can’t believe how much I took away from this! She obviously spoke my language on this one! I haven’t been this excited/engaged in a while!” - IT Professional Cargill

Audiences love the WILD experience!

“Great examples paralleling her sled dog teams to corporate teams and challenges.”

“Extremely introspective on how to work and lead differently.”

“Great openness, nice to have something out of norm.”

