As each class addresses specific technical tools in succession, it is dependant on the individuals' practice and exploration of the weekly task to advance with the group week to week. However, as each student is individual in their technical knowledge, natural ability and application of the weekly topics, each class subject is dependant on the individual student and may vary technical applications according to each students need from week to week. The teacher endeavours to take the greatest care of each individual, professionally as well as their physical and mental well being. However the student must be aware that part of the technical approach is through self awareness and using LIFE EXPERIENCES to enhance their craft and skill set. This may be confronting and acceptance of this emotional journey is required upon attendance in each class.

note: The student is not required to delve into any traumatic experiences too painful to address but are to be the judge of their own emotional safety during certain exercises. At NO time is any student required to divulge any personal information they deem too personal.
