

Join the world's first repository for cannabis specific testing services

Connecting important cannabis partners in a transparent and technology-driven manner is integral to The Cannabis Directory. This worldwide repository is intended to help those working within the cannabis industry seamlessly locate essential information while allowing labs and testing facilities the ability to convey their services, increase market visibility, and expand current market share. Whether searching for testing laboratories or industry-specific services, The Cannabis Directory meets WTO TBT transparency initiatives while offering a customized online search tool to meet customer needs. From a wealth of company and product information to an up-to-date domestic and international geolocation tool, users can expect to have ongoing access to the most current and centralized Cannabis Directory on the market.

- Trusted resource for international testing services & lab listings
- Creates market visibility for labs seeking to engage in new markets
- Allows customers a centralized directory for labs by utilizing keywords, locations, and international standards
- Expands laboratory market exposure to a global audience
