FAQS REGARDING VET-PRESCRIBED GS-441524 TABLETS*

- How will the dosing differ between what is currently available and what Stokes will be offering?
 - The currently available GS pills and capsules are advertised by the amount of absorbable GS per unit - the Stokes version is being advertised by the TOTAL amount of GS per pill.
 - What does that mean? It means that of the 50mg of GS in the Stokes tablet, only about 25mg will actually be absorbed.
 - This makes each Stokes pill just about equal to any 24mg pill or capsule currently on the market.
- What should I do if I want to switch from the GS I'm currently using to Stokes GS tablets?
 - FIP Warriors® and our volunteer vets recommend that you CONTINUE treating with your current GS while you work with your vet to acquire Stokes GS.
 - Stopping GS treatment before your kitty has been cleared for observation can risk a relapse and/or kitty developing GS-resistance.
- Should I just wait until June 1st to seek treatment for my FIP kitty?
 - NO! Cats with FIP should start treatment as soon as possible as the disease can move VERY quickly and untreated can be fatal in a matter of days. <https://www.facebook.com/groups/fipwarriorsoriginal>
