To My Siblings in Christ at Lord of Life:

The people of God at Lord of Life have faced significant challenges in recent months. There is no doubt that God has been with you, and will continue to be with you move forward in ministry.

Let me introduce myself. I am Pastor Carol Jeunnette. I am a retired (theoretically) ELCA pastor. My husband, John, and I moved to Racine a couple years ago. Your congregational council has contracted with me to serve as a pastoral leader and consultant for the interim period. I see my 'call' as helping you to sit back and regroup a bit, to re-examine your many strengths and gifts, to consider what God is calling you to be and do in this time and place, and to help you move into the process of calling a new pastor to walk with you.

I have a special place in my heart for congregations that are facing challenges. My background is in a family systems theory of human behavior that has helped me understand ways in which frustration, fear and anxiety get in the way of trying to live as Christ's body. In leading multiple congregations in very difficult situations, I have learned the value of being clear, honest, calm and connected in my pastoral ministry. I admit - sometimes I forget, but that is always my goal!

There is significant work we will do together. But first, we will get to know each other, and continue work on the Zeidler process.

Two things that I would like you to know: First, because of my prior commitments during November, I'm going to be away more than I am here. The council and I discussed delaying my start to early December, but we all think it will be helpful to the congregation to know that things are moving forward. So, I will be here as much as I can. When I am out of town, there will be pastors here for worship and pastoral care will be covered. Second, my position is part-time. I plan to be in the office two days a week (after November). Although there are weekends I will not be here, there will always be pastoral coverage for worship. I am seeking a second pastor to assist with worship about once a month, and possibly to help out with other things. I'm still working on this.

I look forward to our time together. One thing I ask - if you are considering standing back during this interim time - waiting to see what happens - please don't! All members of the body of Christ at Lord of Life need to be part of this!

Please keep the congregation in your prayers, and keep me in your prayers, as I hold you in prayer.

Peace,

Pastor Carol Jeunnette
Pastor and Consultant for the Interim

COUNCIL'S CORNER

Lord of Life is going through change. Change from what we knew as normal and from what we had become content with. Change is hard, but you don't have to do it alone. We, as a congregation, will do it together.

The Lord Himself goes before you. He will never leave you nor forsake you. Do not be afraid, do not be discouraged.
Deuteronomy 31:8

Trust in the Lord with all your heart and lean not on your own understanding; in all your ways submit to Him, and He will make your paths straight. Proverbs 3:5 -6

These are two verses from the Bible, about change, that I found interesting. Change is hard, but we must remember that we are not alone. We cannot rely on just one person, a Council, a Pastor, or a particular ministry to define us. With the Lord as our guide, "We" have the unique opportunity to decide who Lord of Life is and what Lord of Life can become. Together, we will change, and be better for doing so.

Change does not come without challenge and responsibility. Our entire congregation must be a part of it and accountable for the words it speaks. I have heard tremendous and positive words being spoken at our Zeidler Center sessions. Words only go so far and we must back our words with action. We can do this by participating in the Zeidler sessions and by learning where we have succeeded and where we have more to be done.

Let us embrace this change. Let us learn from our past. Let us grow together and thrive together as we enter a new chapter of Lord of Life's history. Together, we can be everything each and every one of you wants Lord of Life to be.

So how do we get there? We start small. Our focus must not be who we were, but rather who we will become. Appreciate and nurture what we do have and build on that foundation. I am excited for our future and look forward to sharing it with you!

Joe Nosalik, Council Vice-President

We have the opportunity to partner with Gloria Dei Lutheran Church in Northbrook, Illinois to attend a mission trip through "Serve Boldly". This is an organization that plans and facilitates mission trips for youth in several areas of the United States each summer. We are in the initial stages of organizing this trip. Look for an e-mail with a Google Form that will allow you to let us know if your child(ren) would be interested in attending and if you would be interested in chaperoning. Once we have a clear understanding of how many want to attend, we will be able to arrange transportation and finalize the cost for the trip. We are working on arranging opportunities for youth from both churches to meet a few times before the trip. In addition, opportunities for fundraising are also being explored. Please feel free to visit their website; <http://www.serveboldly.net> for further information – remembering that the cost listed is only the fee for the organization and does not include travel, transportation, and other "extras".

October was a busy month in Sunday School! The kids had fun singing in church and working hard learning about Jesus in class. We sent 12 care packages out to our young adult college students. Thank you all for your support and donations. The children had a great time writing letters, coloring pictures and putting the packages together.

Sunday School supports Lord of Life's Ministry of the month! Don't forget to put your offering in the donation pot when you make a name tag for Sunday School.

Dear Friends,

As we celebrate both All Saint’s Day and Thanksgiving, may we experience the peace that comes from a living relationship with our Loving God. November is also recognized as National Diabetes month, and I would like to visit with you about this serious disease and how we can live healthier and fuller lives.

Diabetes Mellitus is a chronic disease which affects our ability to produce and respond to insulin. This causes high levels of glucose (sugar) in the blood which may cause complications ranging from blindness, kidney and circulation problems and even death. There are two major types of diabetes –Type 1 insulin-dependent diabetes (generally affects children and young adults) and Type 2 non-insulin-dependent diabetes (generally affects persons over 30 years of age)

There are 29.1 million children and adults in the United States who have diabetes. Unfortunately, 8.1 million may be underdiagnosed and about 1.4 million new cases of diabetes are diagnosed every year. More than 1 in every 10 adults, 20 years or older has diabetes. (ADA 2017)

Diabetes often goes undiagnosed because many of its symptoms seem so harmless. Recent studies point out that the early detection of diabetes symptoms and treatment can decrease the chance of developing the complications of diabetes. If you have the following symptoms on a regular basis, please visit your healthcare provider:

- Frequent urination
- Excessive thirst
- Frequently feeling very hungry
- Unexplained weight loss
- Extreme fatigue
- Irritability
- Blurry vision from time to time

Common risk factors for type 2 diabetes are: over 40 years of age, 20% or more overweight, a woman who has had more than one baby weighing over 9 lbs at birth, a Native American, an African American or Hispanic descent, having a parent, brother or sister with diabetes.

The American Diabetes Prevention Program has discovered that diet and exercise can really make a difference for those that are trying to prevent type 2 diabetes. Just 30 minutes a day of moderate physical activity, coupled with a 5-10% reduction in body weight, produced a 58% reduction in diabetes progression.

May we strive to make faith pleasing choices about diet and exercise and be encouraged by these words, “For we do not have a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses...let us then approach the throne of grace with confidence, so that we may receive mercy and find grace to help us in our time of need.” (Hebrews 4:15-16)

Shalom,

I came across this article and really enjoyed its meaning and content! Grab a cup of coffee and sit for a bit and read. I bet next time you come to church you will think differently about not wanting to sing!

-Jodi Iorio, Connections Ministry Coordinator

Your Church Needs You to Sing

Your brothers and sisters in your local church need you. They need you to show up. They need you to be engaged. And, perhaps more than many of us realize, they need you to sing. Congregational singing can be polarizing. For some people, singing is their favorite part of the church's gathering. Others prefer to arrive on Sunday mornings just as the worship team is wrapping up and the sermon is about to begin. For those in the latter category, perhaps you're highly self-conscious about your lack of ability to carry a tune, or maybe you don't jibe with the style of music your church's hipster music director tends to choose. Whatever the reason, I want you to hear that your church suffers when your voice is silent.

Get to the Heart

The Bible is full of singing and songs. It wouldn't surprise me in the least if God's divine speech, by which he spoke the world into existence, sounded more like a song than a seminar. Adam's first words to Eve are beautifully poetic (Genesis 2:23). The largest book in the Bible is a collection of songs. At least once, if not more often, the apostle Paul quotes or crafts what seems to be an early Christian hymn (Colossians 1:15–20). And Jesus himself sang (Matthew 26:30; Mark 14:26).

And for good reason: singing uniquely engages our heads and our hearts, our intellect and our affections. That's basically what Paul says in Colossians 3:16, where he connects "the word of Christ dwell[ing] in you richly" with "singing psalms and hymns and spiritual songs." Good songs take the truths hovering in our heads and sink them down for our hearts to dwell on.

"When life is falling apart, your singing becomes a forceful testimony to the faithfulness of God." We experience the power of singing in songs like Horatio Spafford's famous "It Is Well with My Soul." As we sing the third verse, we cannot help but feel the solemnity of the line, "My sin — oh, the bliss of this glorious thought — my sin not in part but the whole . . ." Yet suddenly the minors of the first half of the verse give way to the bright major chords of the second half, and we confidently declare, ". . . is nailed to the cross, and I bear it no more: praise the Lord, praise the Lord, O my soul!" And as we sing, we feel the major lift of the music raise our hearts to soar in proportion with the glory of that truth.

Sure, we could speak the lyrics, and the truth in them should still move us to worship. But the elements of rhythm and melody arrest our affections in transformative ways not typical of speech alone.

Teach and Admonish

But congregational singing isn't only about you and engaging your emotions. It is that, but there is more. In Colossians 3:16, Paul also instructs the church to continue "teaching and admonishing one another in all wisdom," and he implies that congregational singing is one of the means of doing so. In Ephesians 5:19, Paul makes the implication of Colossians 3:16 explicit, telling the church to "[address] one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs."

Singing is vital to the edification of the church. And it's not enough that just a few people sing — Paul is telling you to sing for the benefit of your brothers and sisters. But how does your voice benefit your church — especially if your singing voice sounds like a dog's howl?

The power of your participation in congregational singing is not in the quality of your tone but in your voice's testimony to God's faithfulness. Your participation in singing signifies to all those around you that you love Jesus and trust his gospel. By heartily singing, "What can wash away my sin? Nothing but the blood of Jesus!" you are exhorting those around you to lay hold of that precious truth. By singing of your sin and salvation, you are instructing your church, spouse, children, friends, and neighbors in gospel truth.

Declare His Faithfulness

What about when you don't feel like singing, though? When your soul is downcast, and your faith is diminished? These are the times when your church needs your voice the most!! These are the folks whose singing can spur on my faith as much as any sermon. Their act of declaring the faithfulness of God through their participation in the church's songs makes me love the truth we are singing with affections that I could never muster if I were singing on my own. The songs of suffering saints speak life to my soul. So, when the music starts this weekend, don't underestimate what happens as you sing. You are engaging your heart, teaching those around you (and receiving teaching), and declaring God's faithfulness. The simple act of lifting your voice in song may well be the most significant way you serve your church this Sunday.

Ministry of the Month

Bountiful Harvest Food Baskets

The week before Thanksgiving we will assemble Harvest Baskets that will be gifted to designated families at Lord of Life. We will use Woodman's gift cards, purchased through the Scrip program (so the church can benefit from the rebates), & shop specifically for each family selected. If you are able to make a donation, please use one of the designated envelopes that are available on the turkey located on the Scrip table & place it in the offering basket. Checks should be made payable to Lord of Life.
