ONTARIO COURT OF JUSTICE UPDATES:

SCJ's GUIDELINES TO DETERMINE THE MODE OF PROCEEDING IN CIVIL, FAMILY, CRIMINAL, & SCC:

The Ontario Superior Court of Justice's Guidelines to Determine the Mode of Proceeding in Civil, Family, Criminal and Small Claims Court came into effect on April 19, 2022. In his message to the Bar announcing the Guidelines on March 17, 2022, Chief Justice Morawetz explained that the Guidelines are living documents and would be reviewed in the new year after the Bar and the Court had some time to work with them.

Accordingly, the Office of the Chief Justice of the SCJ is seeking input on the Guidelines. The Guidelines set out the presumptive method of hearing for any given matter and were developed with consultation and input from the Bar, the Court's specialized working groups and the judiciary. Consideration of all justice participants' needs required a careful and thoughtful balance between the continued availability of both in-person and virtual attendances. The framework of those considerations are captured in the over-arching principles accompanying each set of the Guidelines and which inform the Court's application of them.

For your convenience, summary charts of the Court's Guidelines in Civil, Criminal and Family, with reference to any Regional variation, can be found here.

If you are interested in providing input on the Court's Guidelines, FOLA would be pleased to receive your input by March 15th for consideration in FOLA's submission to the SCJ. Please send comments to Katie at Katie.Robinette@fola.ca.
