WHAT IS MUAY THAI?

Muay Thai, also known as "the art of eight limbs" or "the king of martial arts," is a martial art that originated in Thailand in the 13th century. It is a combat sport that utilizes the hands, feet/shins, elbows, and knees to strike and defend. It is not only a physical discipline, but also a mental one, as practitioners must develop strength, speed, and accuracy in their movements.

Muay Thai is a martial art that is deeply rooted in the cultural and spiritual traditions of Thailand. At its core, the practice of Muay Thai is based on a set of values such as respect, humility, self-discipline and community.

THE WAI KRU, A TRADITIONAL PRE-FIGHT CEREMONY

The Wai Kru is a traditional dance that is performed by the fighters before a Muay Thai match. The dance is a way for the fighters to pay respect to their teachers and ancestors, as well as to prepare themselves mentally and spiritually for the upcoming fight. The dance typically involves a series of moves and gestures that symbolize different aspects of the sport, such as the fighter's strength, agility, and respect for their opponents.

TRADITIONAL ARMBANDS (PRA JIAD)

The armbands worn by fighters during the Wai Kru and fight are traditional Thai items known as "Pra Jiad". The Pra Jiad are believed to provide protection to the fighter during the match and are considered sacred. The fighter will wear the Pra Jiad throughout the Wai Kru and the fight.

TRADITIONAL HEADBAND (MONGKON)

The headband worn by fighters during the Wai Kru is a traditional Thai item known as a "Mongkon". The Mongkon is believed to bring good luck to the fighter and is considered sacred. The fighter will wear the Mongkon during the Wai Kru, and will place it at the corner of the ring for the duration of the fight.

TRADITIONAL THAI MUSIC

Traditional Thai music is an important aspect of the cultural and spiritual tradition of Muay Thai. The use of traditional Thai music in Muay Thai matches serves several purposes. For example, it adds to the cultural significance of the sport and helps to connect the fighters with their heritage. In addition, the music is believed to have a psychological effect on the fighters, helping to prepare them mentally for the match. The rhythm of the music is believed to help the fighters to focus and to enter into a trance-like state, which is thought to enhance their performance.
