About Us

Our Mission:

The Guyan River Cloggers was founded to ensure every child — regardless of financial background — has access to the arts. We are dedicated to preserving the cherished Appalachian tradition of clogging while making it accessible, inclusive, and relevant for today's youth.

Who We Are:

We are a not-for-profit dance organization based in rural Appalachia. Our group offers clogging classes, performance & competition opportunities, cultural education, and community engagement at no cost to families. We serve children and families in our area with a strong focus on accessibility and heritage.

Keeping Tradition Alive:

While rooted in traditional Appalachian clogging, we're reimagining the art form by blending it with modern music and choreography. This innovative approach keeps the dance fresh, engaging, and appealing to younger generations—ensuring it thrives for years to come.

What Makes Us Unique:

Unlike many dance studios that charge high fees or focus solely on competition, the Guyan River Cloggers prioritize cultural preservation and community access. We come from a small, economically challenged area, yet our passion, creativity, and commitment run deep. Our mission goes beyond dance—we're building pride, resilience, and opportunity through the power of culture and movement.

Marlei

Kaiah Faith

Six-year-old Marlei Kaiah Faith is bursting with personality, sparkle, and sass, and she lights up every room she enters on the Guyan River Cloggers Girl Power team! A recent kindergarten graduate, Marlei brings big energy and an even bigger heart to dance class. From the moment she met the team last year, she knew she wanted to learn to clog — and she says seeing how sweet Brandi was made her even more excited to join!

Marlei loves all things pink and gold and enjoys snacking on Oreos and western omelets. She loves listening to Morgan Wallen and watching The Emoji Movie. Outside of dance, she has a huge imagination and loves playing dress-up. Her favorite animals include otters, cheetahs, dolphins, cats, werewolves, and even baby alligators!

Reading is one of Marlei's favorite things in school, and when she grows up, she dreams of either delivering babies or becoming a veterinarian. She's already talented at clogging and singing, and she proudly says she sings "very good!" Marlei describes herself as sassy, pretty, and friendly to her cat Rex — which might just be one of the cutest descriptions ever.

Marlei's happiest moments are spent with the people she loves most — whether that's family dinners, jumping on the trampoline, hunting Easter eggs, fish fries with Uncle Rexall, or shopping trips to the Hello Kitty store and Claire's. She especially loves spending time with Momma, Taylor, Sheila, Kristen, and Papaw.

In dance class, Marlei's favorite things are "bounce, bounce, down" and all the people who encourage her, including Brandi, Rocki, Izzy, David, James, and Addy.

Inspired most by Momma, Taylor, and Rocki, Marlei brings confidence, laughter, and nonstop fun everywhere she goes. And if you hear someone saying "Hey Google!" followed by giggles... there's a good chance Marlei is nearby!

Guyan River Cloggers

★ Girl Power ♥

Six-year-old Isabell Grace brings fun, friendship, and lots of smiles to the Guyan River Cloggers Girl Power team! Currently in kindergarten, Isabell is full of energy and loves spending time with her teammates and friends. From the moment she saw clogging, she knew she wanted to give it a try — and now she's become such a special part of the team!

Isabell loves all kinds of colors, especially pink, purple, blue, white, and black. Her favorite foods are grilled cheese and brownies, and she enjoys listening to "Thank You Lord." When she's not dancing, she loves playing with Lauren, Marlei, and Chey or watching SuperKitties. She also loves frogs and cats.

Math is one of Isabell's favorite subjects in school, and one day she hopes to become a teacher. She says she's really good at going upside down on the monkey bars, which also happens to be one of her hidden talents! Isabell describes herself as fun, kind, and cute, and her joyful personality shines through everywhere she goes.

Playing with friends is what makes Isabell happiest, and she loves spending time with family and friends playing games together. In dance class, her favorite thing has been clogging with her Girl Power team — also known as the "Powerpuff Girls!"

Inspired by James, Isabell brings excitement, laughter, and sweetness to every practice. And when asked her favorite quote or saying, her adorable response was simply, "What's that?" — which perfectly captures her fun-loving spirit!

★ Girl Power ♥

Seven-year-old Lauren is full of energy, kindness, and creativity, and we're so excited to have her on the Guyan River Cloggers Girl Power team! Whether she's dancing with friends, giving hugs, or showing off her artistic side through drawing, Lauren brings a sweet and friendly spirit everywhere she goes.

Lauren loves all things teal and pink, enjoys ice cream and trips to The Cheesecake Factory, and can often be found singing along to music by Forrest Frank. When she's relaxing, she loves watching Bluey or playing on the playground. She also thinks axolotls are the coolest animals around!

Math is one of Lauren's favorite subjects in school, and one day she hopes to become either a singer or a dentist. She describes herself as kind, cute, and friendly — and anyone who knows her would agree! Lauren says her family makes her happiest, and one of her favorite things to do with friends and family is dance together.

A fun fact about Lauren is that she has played soccer for over four years! Her path to clogging started in a funny way when her mom missed dance class sign-ups in September and wouldn't agree to gymnastics — and we're so glad it worked out the way it did! Lauren says her favorite thing about dance class so far is getting to see all her new friends there.

Inspired by Jesus, Lauren shines with joy, kindness, and a big heart every time she steps into class!

Guyan River Cloggers
★ Girl Power ♥

Chey

Seven-year-old Chey brings sunshine, sparkle, and a whole lot of heart to the Guyana River Cloggers Girl Power team! This pink-and-purple-loving dancer joined clogging simply because she loves to dance, and her favorite part of class so far has been all the amazing people she's met along the way.

When Chey isn't dancing, you can usually find her riding her scooter, listening to "Gobble, Gobble" by Matthew West, or watching Pokémon. She loves mini muffins, thinks orcas are the coolest animals ever, and enjoys math at school. One day, she hopes to become a singer!

Chey describes herself as nice, cute, and inclusive — and those around her would definitely agree. She says being kind to others is something she's really good at, and it's easy to see why she makes everyone feel welcome. Her family makes her happiest, and she loves spending time playing with friends and family whenever she can.

One fun fact about Chey? She's swam with manatees in Florida! In dance class, she looks up to Addy and James, who mentor and encourage her as she grows as a clogger. With her sweet personality, joyful spirit, and lots of giggles (especially if tickles are involved!), Chey is such a special part of the Girl Power team, and we can't wait to watch her continue to shine!

Guyana River Cloggers ★ Girl Power ♥

Rocki Leann

Nine-year-old Rocki Leann brings confidence, creativity, and lots of personality to the Guyan River Cloggers Girl Power team! A third grader with a playful spirit, Rocki loves learning new things and having fun with her teammates both on and off the dance floor. She first became interested in clogging because she was fascinated by the sound of the shoes — and now she's loving every minute of it!

Rocki's favorite colors are red, blue, white, and black, and she could happily eat spaghetti any day of the week. She enjoys listening to "Believer" by Imagine Dragons and loves watching The Lion King. Outside of dance, one of her favorite things to do is play in the mud, showing off her adventurous and fun-loving side! She also loves leopards, cheetahs, and cats.

Math is Rocki's favorite subject in school, and it's also something she's really good at. One day she hopes to become a teacher. Rocki describes herself as kind, funny, and playful, and she always brings laughter and energy wherever she goes. Singing songs and playing make her happiest, and she loves spending time hanging out with friends and family.

One impressive fun fact about Rocki is that she can do five cartwheels in a row! In dance class, her favorite part has been learning new routines and steps alongside her teammates. Rocki says she is inspired by her friend Kaylee, who plays softball, and admires her dedication and talent. With her playful personality, big imagination, and love for learning, Rocki brings so much joy and excitement to the Girl Power team. And if you hear someone saying "UM UM Um," there's a good chance Rocki is nearby making everyone laugh!

Guyan River Cloggers ★ Girl Power ♥

Linda Adele

Meet 13 year old Linda Adele, one of the founding team members of the Guyan River Cloggers and a bright, creative spirit in 7th grade at GVMS! Linda brings a joyful, playful energy to the dance floor and a love for the outdoors that shows in everything she does.

Her favorite color is green (very fitting for someone who loves nature so much!), and when she's not dancing, you can usually find her outside exploring, playing in the creek, or creating something beautiful out of flowers and whatever treasures she finds along the way. She's also known for being able to climb trees like a pro—just one of her many hidden talents!

Linda's favorite snack is corn, and she jams out to Imagine Dragons when she's in the mood for music. She also enjoys My Little Pony, proving she's got a fun mix of imagination and heart. At school, she's currently enjoys CTE class with a focus on sports management, showing her interest in learning and leadership.

In dance, Linda says her favorite part so far is meeting all the new people who join—she loves how fun everyone is. Her clogging journey started dancing with her family, and now she's excited to keep growing and learning more advanced steps with her team. She is mentored by her brother James with direction from her mom, who helps guide her as she continues to build her skills in clogging. Under their mentorship, Linda has competed in multiple events and brought home many awards, proving her dedication and talent on the stage.

When asked what makes her happiest, Linda simply said: life. That perfectly sums up her outlook—joyful, grounded, and full of appreciation for the little things.

She's inspired by Jesus, describes herself as creative, nice, and playful, and admits that almost everything makes her laugh. Her dream is to be a mama one day, and something she's especially good at is turning natural finds into little works of art.

And if you hear her around the studio, you might catch her signature saying: "WOMP WOMP"—said religiously and always guaranteed to get a laugh!

Guyan River Cloggers

James Edward

Meet James Edward, one of the founding members of the Guyan River Cloggers and a dancer whose talent, leadership, and energy make him impossible to miss on stage! At 15 years old and a 10th grade student at LCHS, James has already made a huge impact within the clogging community through both his skill and dedication.

James says he likes all colors, loves a good bowl of mac n' cheese, and enjoys listening to "Take Me Home" by Drake McCain. When he's not dancing, you can usually find him involved in band—one of his biggest passions in life. In fact, his dream is to one day become a band director! His favorite subject in school is band, and it's clear music plays a huge role in who he is both on and off the stage.

Known for being crazy, funny, and outgoing, James has a personality just as big as his talent. He jokes that what makes him laugh most is "myself," and honestly, anyone around him knows he keeps everyone smiling. He also says he doesn't really have a hidden talent because he "shows them all," which fits his confident and fun-loving personality perfectly!

James first started clogging as part of a family activity, but it quickly became much more than that. Over time, he discovered a deep love for the people, places, and opportunities clogging has brought into his life—especially the memories made alongside his beloved "Papaw Jeff." James says one of the things that inspires him most is Jeff Driggs, who has played a special role in his journey both on and off the dance floor.

As a competitor, James has already won multiple awards and continues to impress audiences everywhere he performs. He is an incredibly fast learner who has mastered not only traditional Appalachian clogging, but also Appalachian flatfooting and contemporary clogging styles. His versatility and natural rhythm make him an outstanding performer in every setting, whether it's a traditional routine or a high-energy workshop combination.

Beyond dancing, James has stepped into leadership within the Guyan River Cloggers family. Under the mentorship of Brandi, he helps co-direct and mentor teammates, encouraging others and helping younger dancers grow in confidence and skill. His leadership, patience, and passion for preserving Appalachian dance traditions make him a valuable part of the team's future.

James says his favorite thing about dance class is the interaction and friendships built along the way, and nothing makes him happier than when family—especially Papaw Jeff—comes to support him at concerts and performances.

Guyan River Cloggers

David Daniel

Meet David Daniel, one of the founding members of the Guyan River Cloggers and a fun-loving force both on and off the dance floor! At 17 years old and an 11th grader at LCHS, David brings energy, humor, and a big heart everywhere he goes.

David's favorite color is purple, his go-to food is tacos, and when it comes to music, "Shut Up and Dance With Me" is right up his alley—fun, upbeat, and impossible not to move to! He's also a fan of How to Train Your Dragon, enjoys playing video games in his free time, and says lions are his favorite animal.

At school, his favorite subject is art, which makes perfect sense for someone with such a creative personality. While he's not completely sure what his future career will be yet, David says he's focused on enjoying life and making the most of every moment. And if you ask him what he's really good at, he'll jokingly tell you: "everything." 🤪

David describes himself as kind, outgoing, and caring, and anyone who knows him would agree. One of his favorite things to do is go out to eat with family, and when he finally gets a chance to relax and unwind, that's when he's happiest. He also has a pretty impressive hidden talent—he can forge knives!

David first got into clogging by dancing with his family, but over time he discovered a real love for workshops and fun dancing. In fact, around the clogging world, he just might be known as the king of fun dancing! Workshops quickly became his favorite part of the clogging experience because of the excitement, creativity, and friendships they bring.

One of the things David loves most about dance class is getting to spend time with all the younger dancers afterward. Whether he's joking around, playing games, or just hanging out, he's like a big brother to many of the kids on the team.

David says he's inspired by Jeff Driggs because of his fun personality and for introducing him to the workshop side of clogging that he enjoys so much. He's also known for constantly calling for his "ma," which has become one of his signature funny moments around the team! 🤪

As a founding member of the Guyan River Cloggers, David has competed with the team and helped bring home multiple awards, but for him, some of the best memories are made in workshops, surrounded by music, laughter, and friends.

Guyan River Cloggers

Lynsay Kylene

Newest Guyan River Clogger team member Lynsay may be new to dance, but she has already jumped into the clogging world with courage, heart, and a willingness to step far outside her comfort zone. As a wife to Justin for 17 years and mom to Lauren and Jake, family has always been at the center of her life and continues to inspire everything she does.

Although Lynsay came into clogging with absolutely zero dance experience, she embraced the challenge head-on. Usually the person working behind the scenes to make things happen, stepping onto the dance floor has been both exciting and intimidating—but also incredibly rewarding. What first drew her to clogging was spending time traveling and practicing alongside Lauren, and eventually deciding, “Why not jump in too?” She especially loves that clogging feels like adding percussion to music rather than simply dancing to it.

Professionally, Lynsay is an educator who made such an impact in the classroom that she eventually became a principal. Even so, she still deeply misses teaching and working directly with students every day. Math has always been her favorite subject, though she simply loves learning in general and is always eager to take on a new challenge. While she jokes that she still doesn’t know what she wants to be when she “grows up,” one thing she knows for certain is that being a mom has been one of her greatest accomplishments and biggest joys in life.

Looking ahead, Lynsay dreams of building a future centered around family, entrepreneurship, purpose, and creating the kind of flexibility that allows for more time together. She describes herself as determined, resourceful, and creative—qualities that shine through in everything she does. She loves bringing ideas to life and figuring out ways to make things happen.

If she had to pick a spirit animal, Lynsay says it would definitely be a raccoon: a little chaotic, endlessly curious, active at night, and always collecting little treasures along the way! Her faith in Jesus keeps her grounded, while her husband and mom are the biggest supporters cheering her on behind the scenes. She also credits her friends, staff, and students for keeping her laughing constantly.

Outside of dance, Lynsay loves traveling, Disney, thrifting, coffee, birthday cake, and just about anything connected to nature—including nature-inspired colors. Her family would also quickly tell you that one of her hidden talents is cooking, though Lynsay believes kitchens are simply meant for singing and dancing while meals are being made.

One of her favorite things about clogging class so far has been how uplifting and stress-free it feels. What started as a leap outside her comfort zone has quickly become a positive outlet, a creative escape, and something that has genuinely brought joy into her life.

Guyan River Cloggers

Brandi Nicole

Meet Brandi Nicole, a founding member of the Guyan River Cloggers and the heart behind so much of the passion, energy, and dedication that keeps this team moving forward! At 39 years old, Brandi brings experience, creativity, and an undeniable love for Appalachian clogging into everything she does.

Her favorite colors are orange and watermelon pink—bright, bold, and full of life, just like her personality on and off the stage. When it comes to food, she says you can't go wrong with grilled corn on the cob, and she enjoys all kinds of music depending on the moment. One of her favorite shows to unwind with is The Big Bang Theory or any Disney movie, and when she's spending time with family, she loves a good movie night—especially on rainy days.

Brandi has a deep appreciation for all living creatures, but if she had to pick a favorite, she jokingly leans toward the possum—proving she's got a fun and lighthearted side too! In her adult life, she was drawn to law and society studies, and today she proudly shares that she is already living her dream and feeling truly blessed.

Outside of dance, Brandi is incredibly talented in all things creative—painting, beading, and crafting are just a few of the ways she expresses her artistic spirit. She's known for being loving, playful, and determined, and she says what makes her happiest is her children, fur babies and her clogging family.

Her journey into clogging started long before she ever put on a pair of shoes. Growing up, she watched cloggers perform at her grade school and was completely fascinated by the sound of the taps. That spark turned into passion—she would go home and tape pop can tabs, coins, and anything she could find onto her shoes just to try and recreate the rhythm herself.

Today, Brandi is not only performing but also teaching and sharing that same joy with others. Her favorite part of dance class is getting to meet and teach so many people and introducing them to the joy of Appalachian clogging. She is inspired by Jesus and her children, and lives by a powerful motto: "There's no such thing as can't—you either don't know how, or you won't."

Brandi has competed with her team and brought home many awards, but her biggest focus is bigger than trophies. She continually pours her heart into the Guyan River Cloggers, working to build something lasting—something that will impact lives for decades to come. Her passion for this tradition runs deep, and her love for the art form is truly what helps keep it alive and growing.
