

PRIME SUSPECT Collaborate. Solve. Innovate.

Forensic Science takes team building to the next level.
We bring the tools, you work the crime.

POLICE LINE DO NOT CROSS

Every crime scene must pass under the watchful eyes of a host of professionals. These range from the police to the judges to the forensic specialists who dive deep into the gritty details dusting for prints, deciphering clues and identifying suspects through evidence. Although each professional has their own skill set, they must share their knowledge for the common good of the investigation. This is no easy feat! Every scenario is different, requiring an innovative approach to its solution.

Bringing Trained CSI Professionals To You!

With Prime Suspect corporate events, our scientists will share stories of true forensics in action and give you the tools needed to team up and solve the crime. Our activities are the uniquely perfect way to motivate your staff and emphasize these goals: Collaborate. Solve. Innovate

“Never would have thought a forensics activity could relate to our group, but I was wrong. They shared valuable information...then turned us loose to show how well we listened and followed directions! Concentration, attention to detail and mental note taking all came into play. Well done!”

Steven R, Strategic Ops Advisor

WHO WE ARE:

Prime Suspect is a team of scientists, each of us having over 20 years of experience in our respective fields. We're experts in Forensic Science, Molecular Biology, Genetic Engineering and Law, with our careers allowing us to work on some of the largest investigations in the country. Our professionals use their direct knowledge to provide an acute understanding of forensics to educators, attorneys, law enforcement, true crime authors and production companies through professional development and consulting sessions.

TEAM BUILDING:

Prime Suspect is changing the way team building is done, offering your group fun and interactive workshops brought directly to you. Our activities are a great mix of intellectual information and entertainment through motivation, logic and some friendly competition. By learning about forensic science and the key components that go into solving the mystery, you'll quickly realize how CSI translates from our crime scene to your office.

“As a repeat attendee of Prime Suspect's events, I definitely recommend them as a professional development or team building activity. The professional instruction and information given...lays the groundwork for problem solving, teamwork, and a little friendly competition... Both times were a great mix of the intellectual information and fun.”

Michelle M, Training and Conference Coordinator

“The perfect activity which allowed us to best leverage our individual strengths for the benefit of our team. It gave us an opportunity to think outside the box.”
