THE WINDY HOLLOW STORY

In 1923, twins Hal and Tom Miller were born in Owensboro, KY. Not long after, the Miller family moved to the hills of Windy Hollow where the twins spent much of their youth. The Miller family - T.P. and Pansy Miller, their sons John W., Bob, Hal and Tom, and their daughter, Ione.

The kids rode horses, cleaned barns, fed animals, and played at their father's coal mine and around the farm. Around the late 1930's, TP Miller built Miller's Lake. It would later be operated by Ione Miller Jones and her family until the late 1980's.

The twins dropped out of high school to serve together in the Army during World War 2. When they returned to Owensboro after the war, finishing high school was top priority. The 23-year-olds then took advantage of the GI Bill to go to the University of New Mexico for 4 years.

It was in the early 1960s, that Tom started his work to develop Windy Hollow into a tourist area. Tom and his wife Nancy (sons Mike Ford and TP, III) built the campground and restaurant while Hal and his wife Deanna (daughters Karen, Kathryn, and Evelyn) opened and operated the country store, museum, jamboree and racetracks.

At Windy Hollow, visitors could camp, swim, fish, race, play putt-putt, visit the museum, see music shows, ride horses, hike, and so much more!

When Tom passed away in 1974, Hal ran the campground for 4 years and the restaurant for 40 years! Hal was 83 the restaurant burned in 2006. They reopened on Highway 81 in 90 days. He operated it until his passing in 2014. Deanna stayed on. She passed away in 2020.

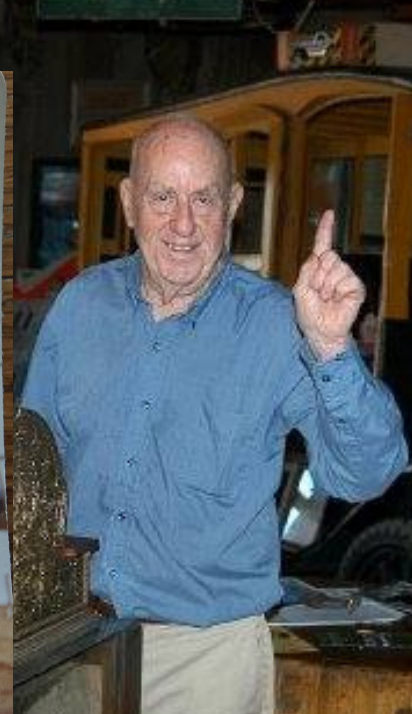

Evelyn "Rooster" Miller, and her daughter Hallie McCarty, still operate the restaurant on Highway 81. They then opened a second location, the Windy Hollow Biscuit House, in May 2022.

Fun Fact: American Pickers visited Hal's museum in 2016. The episode is called "Slim Pickings".

MORE WINDY HOLLOW STORY

In the late 1930's, TP Miller Coal Co miners started building lakes and cabins at what became Miller Lakes. It was available to rent but opened daily to the public in 1950's. Lone Miller Jones, her husband Jack, their 4 daughters and grandchildren operated the resort until the 1980s.

In the early 1960's, Tom Miller started work on building Windy Hollow Recreation Area with a huge campground, swimming, lots of fishing lakes and hiking trails, a giant slide, mini golf and restaurant.

Hal Miller opened Windy Hollow Country Store in 1968 as a gift shop/antique store. As he and his wife, Deanna, bought antiques and then he wouldn't want to part with them. She kept telling him to "take them to the barn". Well, it didn't take long for that former tobacco barn to open as a museum.

In 1972, the Marshal of Windy Hollow was filmed around the campground and the coal strip pit lakes. Just a few days into filming, the Windy Hollow Restaurant burned down. Tom and Nancy immediately rebuilt. The new restaurant opened just 3 months later! Tom then added a dining room overlooking the lake to double the seating.

Hal and Deanna took over the restaurant in 1974. Over the years, they continued to grow! Eventually, the restaurant held thousands of collectibles and memorabilia and seating for 240.
