

I caught this rainbow that swallowed a plastic worm and it went entirely through it's digestive system. The worm with the hook is coming out of his butt, and the spit shot with a barrel swivel is coming out of his mouth. I took the photo, cut the line at the hook and pulled the line out of his mouth.. This fish was caught about a mile and half below Montauk park. so either the fish drifted down stream that far, OR someone was fishing illegally in the blue ribbon section with a plastic worm.

Start Them Early And Take A Kid Fishing

I can still remember my first fishing trip with my father and I'll bet that you can remember your first trip. I was using a cane pole and a worm we dug up from my grandmother's garden. It was on the Licking River in Kentucky. I was about 6 years old and we were visiting my grandparents at the time. What was the first fish I can remember catching? A Longear sunfish with brilliant colors and yes we put it on a stringer. I have photos of me holding fish that I caught on the Snake River in Idaho, but I really can't remember catching them, I think I was 4.

When I saw these kids fishing at the bridge in Montauk Park I had to stop and take the photos... it made me smile and still does..
