

Kids Feeding Kids Fellowship Opportunity

Overview:

The Kids Feeding Kids Fellowship (KFKids) offers high school teachers an opportunity to create meaningful change by addressing food insecurity, sustainability, and family mealtime through innovative classroom projects. Fellows will join a select, national cohort of educators committed to fostering community-driven solutions while advancing their professional growth. The one-year Fellowship, running from July 2025 to July 2026, includes mentorship, hands-on training, and deliverables designed to amplify the impact of the KFKids program.

Commitment Highlights:

- Cohort Size: Limited to 10 invited educators nationwide, chosen for their passion and vision for pioneering innovative Real World Learning solutions to critical issues around food insecurity and sustainability.
- Kickoff: One-week training in Kansas City, covering topics related to food insecurity, sustainability, and reducing food waste, including hands-on cooking labs. Travel expenses are covered for this training (transportation, lodging, meals).
- Ongoing Engagement: Complete 2 KFKids lessons and meal donation projects 25-26 SY (funded by KFKids). Participate in scheduled, virtual Professional Learning Community (PLC) meetings and meet milestone tasks tied to additional stipends throughout the school year.
- Capstone Project: Design and implement a project advancing the Kids Feeding Kids mission, culminating in the creation of an Impact Report or other evidence of how the project enhances or increases the capacity of KFKids.
- Stipends: Earn $3,000 total as specific program milestones are completed throughout the year.

Fellowship Benefits:

- Professional development tailored to real-world learning and community impact.
- Mentorship from the Kids Feeding Kids Education Director.
- Collaboration with a national cohort of like-minded, leading educators.
- Potential graduate credit opportunities. (Under discussion.)
