

Just a Speck

By Julie Dueker

Just a speck, some would say,
But God brought me to life that day.
Just a speck but He could see
All that I was and all that I'd be.
Just a speck never was I, never will I be,
Not to God who created me.

Just a speck some would say,
But I was part of God's plan from my very first day!
Just a speck, not for a minute,
The Creator of this world wanted me in it!
Just a speck never was I, never will I be,
God's world wasn't complete 'til He made me!

Wonderful, marvelous, God's perfect design,
Precious and priceless, He says, "You're mine."
Unique and beautiful, He treasures me.
His beloved child forever I'll be!

From the hair on my head to the gifts I possess,
My cells were programmed for nothing less
Than the story He's written, His plan for me,
To bless this world for His glory.

Just a speck, some would say,
But God brought me to life that day.
Just a speck but He could see
All that I was and all that I'd be.
Just a speck never was I, never will anyone be.....
Our Creator be praised eternally!
