The kayak trips are led by Sam Kaviar, the founder of the new wildlife watching eco sea kayaking company Olympic Kayak Tours LLC that has opened up as a concession in Fort Flagler State Park lower campground. Sam worked for the USGS studying salmon habitat restoration at the Nisqually delta and at delta's around Washington State. He was also a scientifically published pygmy sloth researcher in Panama and Fulbright recipient. He has kayak guided in the San Juan Islands, Norway, and San Diego and previously operated Kayak Nisqually.

Sat. Jul. 17th @ 2:45pm – Paddle to the mouth of Kilisnoet Harbor by Rat Island and observe and learn about the Pacific Harbor Seals. There is a rookery on the island and July is a perfect time to watch the pups with the moms. We will be staying at least 150' away from the mothers and pups and observing them through binoculars. Harbor seals are very curious creatures and may come to check us out. Meet at the OKT Kayak base in the lower campground.

Fri. Aug. 20th @ 11:30 – Paddle on the eastern side of Marrowstone Island and look for wildlife such as Harbor Porpoises and Bigg's Orcas. We can never guarantee wildlife sightings, but this is usually a good place to see them. This trip is also dependent on weather conditions. Meet at the OKT Kayak base in the lower campground and then caravan over to the Marrowstone Point parking area.

Sat. Oct. 16th @ 10:30 - Kayak around Rat Island to see migratory birds, especially shorebirds. 10:45-11:45 orientation, 11:45-2 kayaking and wildlife watching. Meet at the OKT Kayak base in the lower campground.
