The annual Mid-Year Meeting for Sanitarians was held at Cedar Lakes in Ripley, WV, May 5-8, 2009. Tuesday afternoon began with OEHS updates from Barb Taylor, Director and the 3 Division Directors. WVAS also held the mid-year business meeting and the annual picnic. This year saw a high number of attendees due to having two excellent learning opportunities. FDA provided a Food Est. Plan Review Course. FDA sent a cadre of 5 instructors who were all very informative and outstanding instructors. We all picked up good information along with the latest guidance documents. Jeff Smith, Readiness Coordinator, arranged for an Environmental Health Training and Emergency Response. This course was also very well attended and everyone seemed to appreciate the information. The Army National Guard 35th Civil Support Team gave a demonstration of their equipment and made everyone aware of their activities and capability. The American Red Cross also brought an Emergency Response Vehicle as a learning tool. Thanks to Jessica Lucas and Jeff Smith who coordinated the agenda topics as well as the breaks. Jeff Fowler, Bill Nestor, and TJ Witten were our chefs and arranged the picnic again which was enjoyed by all.

It's getting near that time again that all Sanitarians renew their registration with the West Virginia Board of Sanitarians (WVBORS). Current registrations expire June 30, 2009. You should receive a renewal application in the mail or you can find it on the Board website at www.wvdhhr.org/phs/bors. The paperwork is easy and the fee is only $20.00 but the real hang-up every year is to get everyone to obtain and submit their required 15 hours of Continuing Education Hours. Everyone by now should have received a report from the Board on how many hours have been submitted and approved for them. If it did not show 15 or more hours you need to be attending and submitting more hours. Do NOT be caught short. The educational hours MUST BE BETWEEN July 1, 2008 and June 30, 2009. By law the Board cannot renew your registration without the 15 hours. You could face a 1 year suspension from your job if enough CEH’s are not submitted. You must be registered with the WVBORS (or be in Pre-Sanitarian training class completion status) to work as a Sanitarian in West Virginia. If you have a question on your reported hours or recent submittals contact Sandy Dearien or Anita Ray at 304-358-8050.

Passing of a Friend and Colleague

Joe Wyatt, Past Director of the Public Health Sanitation Division, passed from this life on Friday, May 8, 2009. Joe was a dedicated public health professional for over 30 years. He served as President of the WV Public Health Association as well as President of the WV Association of Sanitarians. Joe also served his local community in various capacities at the Cowen Fire Dept. He was instrumental in establishing emergency medical services for southern Webster County. Joe leaves behind a wife, Bettie, and children, Rob, Sherri and Kaleena, as well as other family and many, many friends. We will always remember that Joe was kind, willing to listen, and would go the extra mile. He also enjoyed a good time with friends. Joe, we will miss you!
The Fall 2008 Training class ran from August to December of 2008. There were 16 trainees in which 4 were returning from the previous course. 1 trainee was returning to Public Health after working for DEP and wanted a refresher on the Food and Wastewater sections. 6 of the students will be returning for the 2009 course to complete their training. So, welcome to Bruce Ullom-Morgan Co., Bob Stump-Morgan Co., Carolyne Baker-Hancock Co., Michelle Trickett-Raleigh Co. (now working as an Epidemiologist), Judy Ashcraft-Pleasants Co., Stephanie Dewees-Jackson Co. (Nurse/Sanitarian), and Don Jones-Jefferson Co. Efforts have been made in hopes of making attendance more affordable. Some changes include reduced registration fees ($110 for the full conference), reduced section fees ($5 for Environmental), and a reduction in the amount of break food. The Environmental Section agenda for Thursday, September 24, consists of topics that will address the Food, Sewage, Mobile Home Park and Child Care Center programs. The speakers include representatives from Yum! Brands, Inc., the Mobile Home Park Task Force, WV State Fire Marshall, Child Care Licensing and Canaan Valley Institute.
