

form

body-building, recovery-promoting vegan-powered protein

what is form?

FORM is a plant and seed-based protein supplement designed for ultimate performance. Its unique blend of ingredients allows it to promote muscle growth, decrease recovery time, and aid in essential, post-workout nourishing. No other protein has this complete of a nutrient profile.

how does form help your body?

Our vegan protein is a complete body builder. It builds muscles naturally, and its plant-powered protein is highly bioavailable, allowing your body to utilize it more efficiently and completely. Additionally, its seed-powered ingredients work to provide BCAAs that aid recovery, antioxidants that protect, and fatty acids that work to build and nourish. FORM truly is a do-it-all protein supplement.

form's bcaa profile

BCAA is an acronym that stands for Branch Chain Amino Acid. These amino acids are building blocks of protein and, when broken down in this form, act as potent muscle builders and components of recovery. Each serving of FORM has more than 3g of natural BCAAs, including 8 essential amino acids your body can't create. It's difficult to find any protein on the market with a BCAA profile this robust. And that is the true power of seed-based nutrition.

key ingredients

pea protein: A power-packed protein whose natural profile allows for easy absorption and anabolic gains. This ingredient is also powerful because it provides high yield with minima caloric intake.

chia seed: Contains high levels of polyunsaturated and monounsaturated fatty acids, as well as key vitamins that assist in healthy body function. Additionally, its antioxidant profile helps ward off damaging free-radicals to aid recovery.

sacha inchi protein: An incredibly robust, all-natural protein profile that provides all eight essential amino acids that the human body cannot create itself.

inulin: A natural fiber that aids digestion and protein absorption. This not only increases your gain potential, but helps your body feel and function great.
