A Precise Hebrew Calendar of the Last Seven Years

The following text is supported by over 400 verses from the Bible. All verses will be included in my forthcoming book. Please refer to the calendar at the end of this document for the dates of the events throughout the last seven years.

The fifth seal, fifth trumpet and fifth bowl mark the chronological midpoints of their respective series.

The Harlot City of Nineveh

A straightforward reading of the biblical books of Nahum and Zephaniah, identifies Nineveh as "the Harlot City." Modern day Nineveh, Mosul, in Iraq, currently appears too impoverished to match the Harlot City's prophesied grandeur. This will change.

The people of Nineveh will repent, for one greater than Jonah is here. A prophet is never welcome in his hometown. The Antichrist will not be welcome in his hometown of Nineveh.

Weaponry of the End Times

Many passages in Bible describe the weaponry used in the end-times to be medieval. Ezekiel states that after the last seven years concludes, it will take seven years to burn all the weapons of warfare. Due to the fact that metal does not burn, we can therefore conclude that the end times wars will be fought with siege ramps, chariots, spears, axes and clubs.

In the many decades ahead, events will unfold that return mankind to a less technologically advanced state. If a third world war between the artificial intelligence robotic systems of the U.S. and China left billions dead; the Islamic nations could step into that power gap and dismantle the world's high tech infrastructure. Islam might then outlaw artificial intelligence and robotics and the world slide back into a more primitive state. Many might then perceive Allah and Islam to have saved mankind from technology.

The Stage Is Set

The false ideology of Islam is set to become the dominant worldwide political and religious system, persecuting Jews, Christians and unbelievers, alike.

As the end times approaches, most nations will have been reduced to individual city states. The majority of Muslim rulers have no kingdom, ruling instead over city states, guarded from behind walls. Among the remaining nations, Israel will stand dominant over the nation of Persia and the powerful city state of Cairo. The Jewish third temple will have been active for many decades. Israel's national treasures will be viewed as prize bounty. The Jews will have become experts in playing one Muslim faction off against another.

A Child is Born

The Mahdi is the prophesied messiah style figure of Islam. He is prophesied to rid the world of injustice and restore the true practice of the Islamic faith.

Islamic eschatology is a mirror image of Christian eschatology. The Islamic Mahdi is the Christian figure known as the Antichrist.

Thirty-three years before the Second Coming of Christ, the Mahdi is born in Greece or Turkey to parents of mixed European and Persian heritage. While still a child, he is taken to Nineveh (Mosul, Iraq). After decades upon decades of warfare, the Mahdi comes of age during an emerging peace between the king of Persia and the king of Cairo.

Israel, profiting from the warfare between the Islamic nations, stands powerful, enjoying the heights of peace and prosperity. The third temple lights up the skyline of Jerusalem. To the south, the king of Mecca wields enormous political and religious influence of his own.

In his early twenties, the Mahdi-Antichrist begins to assemble an army of Islamic jihadists. Four Jewish Kings have passed. The fifth king of Israel sits on the throne. The Mahdi is a Muslim but he is not fanatical and cares more about self enrichment than serving Allah.

The First Seal

On the 15th of Tammuz, Christ opens the first seal, initiating the final seven-year period. The King of the North from Nineveh supported by warriors from Turkey and Southern Russia, launch a coordinated sneak attack on Israel. Capitalising on the turmoil, the Palistinians wage a campaign of plunder from Sinai. The Mahdi joins the King of the North in battle as his most feared general. The two men are like brothers. By the 17th of Tammuz — which is the day of the fast of Bein HaMetzarim — Jerusalem is under siege. The Mahdi begins to distinguish himself as one of the most prominent commanders among the invading armies. Though he is not seeking notoriety, his followers urge him on.

Three weeks later, on the 9th of Av, the fifth king of Jerusalem is killed. Negotiations follow, culminating on the 15th of Av with the signing of a seven year peace treaty between Jerusalem and the invading coalition. Within days, the Mahdi enters the city with a small force and secures control, installing a client king to be the sixth king of Jerusalem.

The Second Seal

Nearly one year later, Christ opens the second seal, ushering in widespread war across the entire Middle East. The armies that invaded Israel now turn on one another. Amid the chaos, the Mahdi grows steadily more powerful. He then invades Egypt. The king of Cairo, betrayed by his own advisors, watches Egypt fall increasingly under the control of the Mahdi's Jihadist fighters. The Mahdi then returns to Assyria, distributing the spoils of war to further tighten his grip on the region.

The Third Seal

One year later, the third seal opened. The Mahdi-Antichrist returns to Jerusalem, using his client king to impose crushing taxes on the entire Jewish population of Israel. He uses the proceeds to build up his forces. The Mahdi then withdraws to Assyria before renewing his assault on Israel's other city-states. Most of them fall. Only Edom and Tyre hold their ground.

The Fourth Seal

One year later, the fourth seal brings famine, plague, and escalating war across Israel. Impoverished Jews and Christians face mounting persecution. Amid this turmoil, the Mahdi launches a second campaign into Egypt, helped by supporting armies who serve warlords. These devout Islamic warlords, view Cairo, as apostate; the Mahdi-Antichrist is interested in plunder. This time, the devil pushes the king of Cyprus to intervene, dispatching warships to reinforce Egypt's defences. Realising victory has slipped from his grasp, the Mahdi retreats to Israel. He is enraged by the defeat and lack of plunder.

The Fall of Jerusalem

Nearing thirty years old, the Mahdi-Antichrist has used the sixth king of Israel to hold sway over the city for nearly three and a half years. Upon returning to Jerusalem, he begins to court Jewish factions sympathetic to his cause. Preaching a deceptive religious universalism, he wins over a third of the Jewish population — many of these Jews, driven by fear, perverse systems of belief and selfish ambition, convince themselves that the Mahdi must be their long-awaited Messiah. Nevertheless, many Jews stand against the Mahdi and he retreats to his camp far outside the city walls of Jerusalem.

On the 14th of Adar, the day of Purim, the Mahdi demands that Jerusalem furnish him with an enormous tribute of gold, silver, arms, food and supplies. Unable to meet his demands, the city provokes his fury. The next day — Purim for Walled Cities — the Mahdi, backed by Jewish collaborators inside the city walls, storms Jerusalem. The Third Temple is seized and the daily sacrifice abolished. In the weeks that follow, Jews faithful to the Torah, attempt resistance. Their uprisings are swiftly crushed by the Mahdi.

The Fifth Seal and Midpoint of The Last Seven Years - One Single Day

At the midpoint of the seven years, on the 15th of Aviv, being the Day of Passover, the Mahdi enters the temple and offers a pig as his personal sacrifice to the God of the Jews. This is an act even more egregious than the first Abomination of Desolation, in which Antiochus Epiphanes sacrificed a pig but did not defile the actual day of Passover. The Mahdi then kills the sixth king to become the next king of Israel. The Mahdi-Antichrist has now become the Proto-Beast and seventh king of Israel. The Lord anoints the Proto-Beast as His king of Israel. Who might lift up his hand against the Lord's anointed? As king Saul once hunted king David in the wilderness, so too will this new king of Israel, hunt Jesus in the wilderness. For how long will Jesus respect the office of the Lord's anointed. Will Jesus cut the corner of the Proto-Beast's robe or take his spear and water jug?

On the same day, the Day of Passover, Jesus opens the fifth seal, the Mahdi unleashes brutal persecution, putting to death any who refuse to worship him. Of the Jews who do worship him, he shaves the hair from their heads, faces and legs. Masses of Jews and Christians flee to Jabal al-Lawz. Jabal al-Lawz, in Saudi Arabia, is the true mount Sinai.

On the same day, the Day of Passover, the Mahdi-Antichrist has now earned his right to battle for dominion over the devil himself. In recognition of this, Jesus swiftly "levels the playing field". Throughout the second heaven, Christ and His angels fight against the fallen angels, casting them down to the earth.

The devil — who attempted to hold back the rise of Mahdi — is now forced to contend with him for dominion over the earth. The devil always knew that mankind was destined to rise above the angels in authority. Like Christ, the Mahdi-Antichrist will pose a challenge to the devil's dominion.

Choosing not to reveal themselves, few are yet able to see these fallen angels who walk among them. One of the devil's highest-ranking angels, reveals himself fully, posing to the world as Christ Jesus. Darkness masquerading as light. This fallen angel is the False Prophet. Telling all people that he is Christ Jesus, this angel uses signs and wonders to persuade the world that the Mahdi is divine. The Mahdi treats the False Prophet as his closest advisor. The devil sees this as expedient, hoping through this arrangement to hold sway over the Mahdi. Many more of the ten most devoted and prominent Islamic warlords/kings begin to see the Mahdi as their true Mahdi who will establish divine rule on earth.

On the same day, the Day of Passover, Christ's two witnesses descend from the third heaven to appear in Cairo. In the weeks that follow, they confront the city's rulers and demand the release of all Jewish and Christian slaves and captives. Any who fight against the witnesses are consumed by a spiritual "fire" that comes out from their mouths.

Jesus dries up the Nile, creating a path for His people to cross over to the East. The witnesses then lead a second exodus, guiding millions of Jews and Christians out of Egypt. Jesus again rides atop a pillar of cloud and fire, again directing the multitude toward Jabal al-Lawz which is the true Mount Sinai. Christ's feet do not yet touch the earth. In a desperate attempt to halt their escape, the devil sends a massive tsunami cascading toward the multitude. Jesus intervenes, splitting the ground to swallow the surge, thus shielding His people from death.

Most Muslims believe that the mysterious figure who is guiding the Christians out of Egypt is in no way divine, but on the contrary must be the great deceiver known to Muslims as Al Dajjal. Nevertheless, within the ranks of Islam, doubts also begin to arise regarding the Mahdi's claim to divinity. Muslims now ask the same question about the Mahdi that they have always asked about Jesus: "How can a man be Allah?" To quell their doubts, the False Prophet performs great signs and wonders, deceiving the masses into believing that the Mahdi is God, demanding that people worship him.

A law is established that people receive the mark of the Mahdi, or be put to death. Gripped by fear and confusion, multitudes, like cattle, accept the branding-iron mark of the Mahdi. As they bow in worship of him, they receive the small, red-hot branding mark, to their right hand or forehead. Microchips, barcodes, and scanners, having all been consigned to the refuse dump of history.

Jews and Christians from all over the Middle East gather at Jabal al-Lawz. God descends in fire for a second time upon the mountain. On the plateau, close to the top of Mount Sinai - where the elders previously ate with Moses - Christ reveals Himself to the Jews as their Messiah. The Jewish elders repent and place their faith in Jesus. All Jews on the mountain repent and place their faith in Jesus. About one third of all Jews alive at the start of the last seven years, will survive. All of them become Christians.

A few short months of relative calm are set to last until the 15th of Tishri. During this time, Jesus selects 144,000 virgin men to serve as His closest representatives. The 144,000 are set to become either ancillary to, or a component of, the resurrected priests of Zadok. The 144,000 help Jesus minister to the millions of Jews and Christians now living in tents at the base of Jabal al-Lawz. They spend the next months administering the spiritual seal of God. There is no branding iron involved.

The Jewish holy day of Passover, the Abomination of Desolation, the opening of the fifth seal, the fall of the angels, the arrival of the two witnesses, the arrival of the False Prophet, all happen on the same day. This day marks the midpoint of the last seven years. 1,290 days remain until two witnesses ascend to heaven, with a further 45 days (1,335 total) until the "green lighting" of the Battle of Armageddon. A separate count of 2.300 days now counts down to the consecration of Ezekiel's temple which is set to take place nearly three years after the conclusion of the last seven years.

The First Four Trumpet Judgments

On the 15th of Tishri, during the Feast of Booths, the first trumpet sounds. One-third of the trees and all green vegetation — including food crops — are consumed in brush fires. Over the next fifteen months, three more trumpets follow. The second trumpet turns one-third of all salt water into blood, killing one-third of marine life. The third poisons one-third of the world's fresh waters, rendering them bitter and undrinkable. The fourth then sounds, darkening a third of the sun, moon, and stars. During this time, Christ's two witnesses move throughout the Middle East; when the gospel is rejected, they strike the land with plagues, drought, and famine. Those who repent are instructed to undertake the journey to Jabal al-Lawz. Food and water becomes extremely scarce.

The Three Kings

Chaos spreads. For a third time, the Mahdi-Antichrist advances against Egypt. A fragile alliance forms between four kings: the King of the North of Nineveh, the King of The South of Cairo, the king of Babylon and the king of Mecca. Together, they unite to resist the Mahdi. These kings do not appreciate the growing threat of what they call terrorism. The Mahdi is forced to retreat back to Jerusalem where he begins to build up the defensive capabilities of the city. Many Jews place their faith in the Mahdi, believing him to be their Messiah. They hope he will defend Jerusalem from the advances of the four great Muslim kings, laying siege to the city. The Mahdi is now set to fight for Jerusalem against hoards of Islamic fighters. The devil helps the attacking armies because he does not want the Mahdi to assume any greater power. The Four kings march upon Jerusalem.

This is now all-out civil war with the ranks of Islam. The kingdom of darkness - be it of men or of angels - has always been utterly divided. The devisions exist all the away down, from the devil himself, to the lowliest fighter who seeks to usurp him. For this reason, the kingdom of darkness has never been able to stand.

Christians do not seek to usurp Jesus.

The Fifth Trumpet, Ultimate Beast and First Bowl of Wrath

The 15th of Aviv marks eighteen months until the two witnesses ascend. The fifth trumpet sounds, opening up Sheol and "the pit". A smoke, unseen by most, rises from the pit, and out of it appear demonic locusts. Since the sixth seal has not yet been opened, the locusts remain invisible to most people, but are capable nonetheless of inflicting pain and torment upon those who lack the seal of God. The first of the seven bowls of judgment is poured out: painful sores begin to break out upon all who receive the mark of the Mahdi.

The locusts answer to Abaddon. He is the highest-ranking demon in hell, having a red skinned, beastly human face, oversized black horns, huge muscles, bull like legs and cloven feet. He towers above even the tallest angels. For millennia, many confused Abaddon with the devil himself.

Unseen but deadly, Abaddon immediately arranges for the Mahdi to be killed, dealing him a fatal blow to the head; the human soul of the Mahdi is then bound by the devil. But death is not the end for the Mahdi's physical body. Three days later, his human corpse is possessed and reanimated by Abaddon, transforming the Proto-Beast and seventh king of Israel into the Ultimate-Beast and eighth king of Israel. News spreads that the Mahdi cannot be killed. Extremist factions across the Islamic world unite under the Mahdi's banner. The devil's human opponent, the Mahdi has been defeated and reanimated by the devil's greatest demonic opponent; Abaddon.

The Second Bowl & Subjugation of Two Kings

Outside the walls of Jerusalem, the kings of Nineveh, Cairo, Babylon and Mecca are terrified by the news. As the battle continues, the kings of Nineveh, Cyprus and Babylon realise that most of their own people are defecting in support of the resurrected Mahdi-Beast. The King of the South of Cairo becomes the first of the three great Muslim kings to be subdued. He is killed by his men and replaced by a man of Cairo who is loyal to the Beast.

The second bowl transforms all salt water into blood, killing all marine life.

The kings of Nineveh, Babylon and Mecca, return to their home cities with the men who have not yet defected to the Mahdi-Beast. Most soldiers of Nineveh are afflicted by a wasting disease and bandits begin to plunder Assyria's great treasure and burn her forests and orchards. The king of Nineveh and Assyria is being brought low.

Third & Fourth Bowl - Continued Persecution

The third bowl turns all fresh water into blood, forcing all without the seal of God to drink it for their survival. The Mahdi-Beast is not willing to show any form of mercy to his enemies. The faith of his Muslim forefathers, which once led Muslims to dispense the swift justice by beheading, has been replaced by unprecedented cruelty upon Jews and Christians. These evils eclipse even the atrocities of Nero and Diocletian — torturing, burning, and crucifying men, women, and children alike. The sacrificial offerings made by Egypt are now dwarfed by the Mahdi's gruesome sacrifices that he - in part - offers to the devil. At his core, the Mahdi harbours ambitions of surpassing the devil in worldly authority. Every angel, demon or man who partook in the devil's kingdom, harboured animosity, one against another, with ambitions of total dominance.

The fourth bowl causes the sun's heat to intensify, scorching those who are still alive. The False Prophet — still masquerading as Jesus — continues with signs and wonders to persuade Muslims that the Mahdi is Allah incarnate. Nevertheless, cracks begin to form in the illusion, as increasing numbers of Muslims find it impossible to accept that a man can be Allah. Some even reject the mark, fleeing into hiding to escape execution. Others come to the staggering realisation that the feared "Dajjal from the desert" is in truth the true Jesus. Moved by this conviction, many Muslims believe in Christ and begin the long and treacherous journey to Jabal al-Lawz.

High atop the mountain named Jabal al-Lawz, and in many other sanctuaries of refuge, Jesus provides water from the rocks and manna from heaven, sustaining His people in the wilderness as He once did in the days of Moses.

The Fifth Bowl of Wrath

On the 15th now Tammuz, the fifth bowl of wrath is poured out. High above Nineveh, the dark clouds of the second heaven begin to manifest in the earthly realm. The earthly and the heavenly realm are beginning to unite as one. The skies above the city grow thick with clouds stretching out for many thousands of miles, shrouding even Jerusalem in darkness.

The king of Mecca succumbs to the torments of the demonic locusts and dies in his bed, becoming the second of three great Muslim kings to be subdued by the Mahdi. An Arabian successor pledges fealty to the Mahdi and marches North to Babylon.

The Beast hears news that the king of Babylon — 500 kilometres south of Nineveh — has refused to join the coalition. Enraged, the Beast marches from Jerusalem with the kings of Cairo, Cyprus, and two other city states, in tow. Meeting the king of Mecca outside the walls of Babylon, they seek to exact swift and brutal judgment. Babylon is utterly destroyed and the king of Babylon pledges fealty to the Beast. He becomes the third of three great Muslim kings to be subdued.

The Sixth Trumpet & Sixth Bowl

On the 15th of Av, one full thirteen-month leap year remains until the two witnesses ascend. The sixth bowl of wrath is poured out. The Euphrates dries up. From deep beneath the great river, four fallen angels are released. The sixth trumpet sounds, releasing a terrifying army of 200 million demonic horsemen. Though not yet visible to most, their mandate is to kill one-third of the earth's remaining population. The four angels wield power over the demonic horsemen.

Having experienced the hunger and drought, it is now time for The Americas, Russia, Asia, Southern Africa, and Australasia to experience the greater pain of the tribulation. Death and agony sweep across the whole earth as the 200 million demonic horsemen reap havoc in all the nations. Assyria is particularly afflicted as Jesus uses the demonic horsemen to reap havoc.

The Mahdi's armies remain untouched by the demonic horsemen, for he now wields considerable authority over men and demons alike.

News that the Euphrates is drying up, soon reaches the greatest Muslim kings and warlords of the East. For years, these kings have been hearing all the news of the Mahdi and are now ready to act. The great river is nearly traversable and the way is becoming prepared for the armies of the East to advance to the West. They have one thing in mind: to defeat the evil forces of Al Dajjal - the True Jesus.

The Mahdi-Beast does not fear Allah at all. Focused solely on his own power and dominion, he believes himself to be God: mankind's final solution.

Only one seal, one trumpet judgement and one bowl of wrath, remain. At this pivotal moment in human history, Christ's feet touch the earth, marking the true beginning of His second ministry. This is not yet His true second coming.

Nineveh Repents

Under the darkness of the swirling clouds, Nineveh has now endured the bowls of wrath, the demonic locusts and demonic horsemen. They were forced to consume blood for sustenance. The city now faces her moment of reckoning.

On the 15th of Ziv, Jesus walks the streets of Nineveh, calling the people to repentance, for One greater than Jonah is now visiting the Harlot City. Most muslims of Nineveh, seeing Jesus walk among them, renounce their allegiance to Islam and accept Jesus as Lord and saviour. The entire city repents and turns to Christ. Even the King of Nineveh places his faith in Christ. Just as Judas rejected Jesus, the King of the North, once loyal to the Mahdi has now rejected him.

Before His crucifixion, Jesus declared, "a prophet is never welcome in his hometown." With powerful irony, the Mahdi — once revered by the people of Nineveh as a great warrior and prophet — is now soon to be rejected in his own hometown.

Hearing the news, the Mahdi knows that Jesus is in Nineveh. He marches north from Babylon telling his followers that they are about to engage Al Dajjal in battle.

The Destruction of the Harlot City

The Mahdi together with his six kings from Cairo, Cyprus, Mecca, Babylon and two other city states, arrive in Nineveh to be met by four city-state kings of the East. The ten kings/warlords have been chosen. Many other fighters arrive from hundreds of other regions and city states. The numbers are huge.

Those in Nineveh who choose loyalty to the Beast, exit from the city walls to defect. They receive the branding iron's mark of the Beast's name. Inside the city walls are left the Muslims who deny the Beast's divinity.

The Beast, the False Prophet, and the Ten Kings are united under the mark of the Mahdi against the King of The North and against Al Dajjal - the True Jesus.

The King of The North repents and places his faith in Christ. Jesus calls His people out of the city, and the two witnesses lead yet another mass exodus of believers out toward Jerusalem. The Beast's red chariots dash to and fro setting ablaze the uninhabited city of Nineveh. Jesus protects his people.

The Journey to Jerusalem

Jesus leaves the multitude from Nineveh to return to Jabal al-Lawz. The masses of Jewish and Gentile Christians at the mountain have now dwelt in the wilderness for three and a half years (the more exact figure of "1,260 days" for "the woman" will be explored in book three of this series). Jesus leads millions of faithful followers northward from Arabia to Jerusalem. A divinely crafted highway appears in the desert. When resistance arises, lightning bursts from Christ's hands, obliterating any who might stand in opposition. Arriving at Jerusalem from the south, Jesus and His millions of followers are met by the two witnesses and the hundreds of thousands from Nineveh, as they arrive from the East. Together, the two groups enter Jerusalem, filling the city to capacity.

The Siege of Jerusalem Begins

Soon after Christ's people arrive in Jerusalem, the Mahdi-Beast, the False Prophet, and the Ten Kings, arrive. Surrounding Jerusalem, the Beast launches his assault. After breaching the outer walls, many within the city align themselves with the Beast. The millions loyal to Christ retreat inward to central Jerusalem and Temple Mount.

Christ, His 144,000 and hundreds of thousands more are now behind the recently constructed walls of the City of David — the original Canaanite stronghold of Zion. Many of Christ's people seek refuge on Temple Mount and behind the greater walls of Greater Jerusalem. Unseen, Christ's angels stand guard. The events of 70 AD are being placed on repeat.

The Death of the Two Witnesses

Jesus commands His two witnesses to offer the Mahdi-Antichrist, terms of surrender. Their offer is met with unrelenting defiance as the Mahdi slays both witnesses, leaving their dead bodies lifeless in full view of all. The Mahdi's followers revel in their presumed victory, convinced that they are about to defeat the evil Dajjal (who is actually Jesus) now residing on Mount Zion. Meanwhile, the Mahdi begins in earnest to plot the fall of Temple Mount and Zion.

The Sixth Seal - Two Witnesses Resurrected

Three and a half days later, on the 15th of Av — with only 45 days remaining until the Battle of Armageddon is "green-lit" — the two witnesses are resurrected from the streets of outer Jerusalem. At the moment of resurrection, they are transformed into immortals. At that moment, the sixth seal is broken. A colossal earthquake strikes Jerusalem, killing 7,000 of the Beast's supporters. The earthquake creates physical chasms across Jerusalem that separate Christ's people from the armies of the Beast.

The earthquake of the sixth seal heralds the preparation for the third world age as the entire earth is lifted up above the waters into the light of heaven. The firmament together with the second heaven is rolled up, permitting the dazzling light of the third heaven to shine down upon the earth. The earthly clouds that still spiral out from Nineveh unite with the dark canopy of the second heaven to retain the blanket of darkness. Under these clouds, the diffuse and diminished light of heaven creates a continuous, dark, eerie glow that illuminates the earth on a twenty-four-hour basis.

The immortal witnesses ascend into heaven. In shock, their enemies look on.

Convergence of the Heavenly and the Earthly

Throughout the first world age, angel and man experienced one plane/dimension of existence. The sixth seal restores this. The earthly and heavenly planes of existence have now converged, restoring reality to its unified state. Humanity — once confined to the narrow spectrum of earthly sight — can now behold the unseen. Heavens light is still obscured by cloud, but angels and demons are fully revealed. People bear witness to Christ's glorious angels, standing guard over inner Jerusalem and Zion. In outer Jerusalem, the fallen angels and demons can be seen and heard as they mingle in the streets among the armies of the Beast. Outside, extending for twenty kilometres beyond Jerusalem's walls, a vast army of 200 million demonic horsemen, looms. Unable to attack God's people and unwilling to attack the armies of the Beast, they have completed their reign of terror — a terror sanctioned by Christ, for they are effectively His army: for is not every army, Christ's? The Beast is now seen in all his glory as the towering demonic red giant who reanimated the Mahdi's dead body.

Conviction and Hardened Hearts

Even though heaven's light is obscured by the canopy, the Beast's army and the hordes of sinners worldwide are pierced by heaven's light and the dreadful awareness that Jesus is God. Everything is now being revealed by the fire of heaven's light. The light of heaven torments their souls. In agony, they cry out, asking that rocks fall upon them to hide them from the glory of heaven's light. All over the world, people of every creed and colour are being convicted by heaven's light. Most hide themselves away. Covered in scabs, starving, they too ask for rocks to fall upon them.

Abaddon who incarnated to the Beast and the False Prophet have always known the truth — that Jesus is God. Now they stand and watch as their own armies begin to awake from their deception. One by one, soldiers in the Beast's army come to understand that they've been misled. They look on the demonic, black-horned-red-Beast and realise that the once feared Al Dajjal, is the true Jesus. But it is too late. They have hardened their own hearts, and God Himself has hardened their hearts still further. As in the days of the first exodus, most find themselves unable to turn from their wicked ways. Though despair gnaws at their ranks, they are unwilling to yield to Jesus. Satan and his angels walk among them, rallying the demoralised soldiers to fight one last battle. But Christ is already victorious.

The Fifteenth of Av

The 15th of Av carries great weight in Jewish tradition, marking the end of the divine judgment that barred the Exodus generation from entering the Promised Land. This day commemorates the lifting of ancient tribal divisions, when women, dressed in white, sought their future husbands. At the end of the last seven years, this day now takes on new meaning. Many begin to fix their hearts upon union with Jesus, the One True Bridegroom. Believers who endure — believers who overcome in the forty days ahead — will be made saints immortal.

The Forty-Day Fast

Jesus ascends into heaven to prepare for the final reckoning. Sheltered by God, Christ's followers remain within the protected walls of central Jerusalem and Zion, awaiting His return and actual second coming. For the next forty days and nights, with little food or water, the faithful must endure. These believers are to be sustained not by earthly provisions but by the light of heaven, which continues to shine through the gaps in the swirling clouds that God has put in place to blanket out sin from His sight. When the armies who fight for the Beast desire passage through to Jerusalem, the demonic horsemen move aside. Who in Zion will have enough faith — enough oil in their lamps to prevail? Who, like Moses on Sinai, supported by the light of heaven, will survive the forty-day dry fast? And who, on the contrary, will falter, giving in to hunger and despair, choosing instead to drink the dank blood that still fills the city's wells?

The Wait for Armageddon

At the end of forty days, on the 1st of Ethanin — Rosh Hashanah — the Battle of Har Meggido is permitted to be waged. Only the Father knows, whether it be hours or days before Jesus' second coming. Only The Father knows the timing of the Beast's final assault. The Beast and the devil rally their demoralised legions, forcing them into one final offensive. As the attack on inner Jerusalem begins, Christ's people are weak and unwilling to defend themselves. They know that they can only cry out to Jesus for salvation.

The Seventh Trumpet

The seventh trumpet sounds. Jesus and the host of angels descend with a shout. Across the entire world, every faithful saint — who in times past overcame the flesh — is now raised from the dead and transformed and quickened into a second Adamite immortal. Together, they are gathered from every corner of the world and raised up into the sky and transported from all regions to meet their King above Jerusalem. Christ's faithful servants in Jerusalem who managed to overcome by faith are likewise changed — caught up with Christ as His first-fruits immortals. Suspended in the skies above Jerusalem and Zion, the newly risen saints look down upon the final great battle unfolding beneath them.

Battle of Har Megido

On horseback, Jesus descends to earth. Dismounting, His feet touch the Mount of Olives. He splits the mountain in two, forming a divine escape route through this newly formed valley. The multitude of Christ's people who failed to overcome are led out across the Kidron Valley, through this newly formed rift, and out to safety. The Beast's armies, having already torched the third temple, pursue Christ's mortals down into the City of David but Christ and His angels stand between them, and their goal of slaughtering Christ's people in the Kidron valley.

The 200-million-strong army of demonic horsemen encircling Jerusalem, turn upon one another as their demonic blood floods out like a sea for hundreds of kilometres.

The Beast's army exits Jerusalem into the Kidron Valley — the Valley of Jehoshaphat. All hell quite literally "breaks loose" as the demonic horsemen and regular demons all turn on one another. The fallen angels and the army of the Beast are hard-pressed to avoid the onslaught, with many men perishing in the confusion.

Knee-deep in the blood of demons, the Beast's armies and hordes of fallen angels look up to see Christ's immortals hovering high above. Any fallen angel who attempts flight is cut down by God's angels.

Within a single hour, every man who dared lift a weapon against Christ's people is struck down. The majority of the Beast's army experiences disintegration as their pulverised bodies mingle with the rivers of blood that flowed from the 200 million demonic horsemen. The souls of these fallen soldiers exit their lifeless corpses to be seized by Christ's angels, who remove and hurl them into vast, spiralling funnels that descend into Sheol and Gehenna.

The Feast of the Fallen Angels

Amid the carnage, the fallen angels, affected by the merging of the realms, experience a ravenous hunger. In a grotesque spectacle, the fallen angels, standing knee-deep in blood, begin to gorge themselves on the corpses of the Beast's armies. The demons that survived the onslaught also join in the feast. They have become the prophesied "birds of the air" and "beasts of the field."

The Seventh Bowl

The seventh bowl is poured out. A cataclysmic hailstorm rains down, pulverising the earth. The far flung nations of the world are also hit by this storm. A mighty earthquake splits Jerusalem into three parts. A resonant frequency begins to hum, melting the surrounding mountains into rivers of mud. Mountainous terrain is transformed into a wide and fertile plain — a new land surrounds the plateau of Jerusalem.

The Lake of Fire

From the depths, Gehenna bursts forth to form a lake of fire in the Valley of Hinnom. Into this lake, Jesus casts the Antichrist and the False Prophet. Satan is hurled into the Abyss, where he is to be sealed for one thousand years.

The Seventh Seal

The seventh seal is broken, and the swirling clouds of the fifth bowl evaporate away. Heaven's light is now permitted to pour down in unobstructed glory. The brilliant light is so overwhelming that the sun appears black by comparison. Christ, still having use for the sun, increases its brightness, amplifying its light sevenfold. The light of heaven causes the moon to take on a blood-red hue, standing as a reminder of His sacrifice and of the blood that was spilled in the Valley of Jehoshaphat.

The Wedding Supper of the Lamb

Many days later, on the 15th of Tishri — the Feast of Booths — the wedding supper of the Lamb is set to begin. Jesus hosts a banquet in honour of His saints.

Mount Tabor

The Mount of Transfiguration, Mount Tabor, lies to the north of these new mudflats that have settled around Jerusalem. In a miraculous act of faith, a resurrected man named Zerubbabel commands Mount Tabor to rise up and be lifted over to settle beside the raised plateau of Jerusalem. Jesus builds a house for Himself at the top of Mount Tabor. From Mount Tabor, Jesus looks down upon the devastated city that has now become home to the construction project that will become the Ezekiel temple.

The Millennial Reign Begins

965 days after the battle of Har-Megiddo (Armageddon), the Ezekiel temple is consecrated. Nearly a decade after the Antichrist's initial invasion of Israel, Christ's millennial reign begins. The temple duties are to be undertaken by the Levitical priesthood with the priests of Zadok being elevated in position above the levitical priesthood. The 144,000 are the only priests granted access to the innermost courts of the Ezekiel temple. The 144,000 may also be priests of Zadok.

Islam - The Fourth Beast

In the coming centuries, Islam will take over most of our world.

Daniel's Statue and the Islamic Caliphate

Medo-Persia conquered and subsumed the entire area of Babylon. Greece subsumed Medo-Persia. However, Rome did not subsume the Greek Empire. The first Islamic caliphate did successfully subsume the entirety of the Greek Empire. The Roman Empire could not even conquer half of the Greek Empire. Therefore, the "legs of iron" in Daniel's statue cannot represent Rome, and must instead represent Islam. The feet of Daniel's statue — made from both iron and clay — are symbolic of a future revived Islamic caliphate, with the clay representing the many Muslims who will eventually abandon Islam and embrace faith in Christ. Christ's kingdom will subsume the entirety of the Islamic kingdom and eventually the entire world.

The Islamic Dilemma

The Quran affirms that the Bible as genuine revelation from God, urging believers to test the Quran’s message against the Bible. Yet the men who compiled the Quran had only a secondhand and fragmented knowledge of what the Bible actually said. As the centuries unfolded, direct contact with the biblical text became widespread and the contradictions between the Quran and the Bible were exposed. The Quran offers a completely different history to the Bible. The nature of Jesus, the nature of the crucifixion, and the very character of God are completely different. In all, there are over fifty major contradictions.

Rather than reconsider the Quran, Islamic scholars devised the doctrine of tahrif, insisting the Bible had since been corrupted. This move, however, traps the Quran between two impossible options.

If the Bible is corrupted, the Quran's own endorsement of it is worthless, and its claim to divine origin collapses along with it. If the Bible is not corrupted — and we know it is not because the manuscript evidence predating Muhammad by centuries indicates that it is not — then the Bible's contradictions with the Quran cannot be explained away. Either the Bible is unreliable, in which case the Quran is a false witness to it, or the Bible is reliable, in which case the Quran's contradictions to the Bible, show the Quran to be a false witness.

Muhammad

The word Islam means submission. In Islam, one effectively submits to the teachings of Muhammad. This is a useful scenario for a man who wishes to become a powerful warlord.

The Bible says that the devil can impersonate an angel of light. The Bible tells us not to believe an angel of light who preaches another gospel. For 23 years, Muhammad had another gospel preached to him by an angel of light who called himself Gabriel. The number 23 is sometimes associated with hell.

The earliest Islamic sources — written by Muslims, from within the tradition itself — record a life of Muhammad which is difficult to reconcile with the character of a true messenger of God. At Khaybar, when the treasurer Kinana ibn al-Rabi would not disclose where his tribe's silver was hidden, Muhammad handed him over to be tortured until he broke. Muhammad then had him executed and then within days married his widow.

Poets who mocked Muhammad, men and women alike, were marked for assassination rather than answered with argument. When the Jewish tribe of Banu Qurayza surrendered after the siege of Medina, hundreds of their men were beheaded in a single day and their women and children sold into slavery. Muhammads marriage to Aisha — betrothed at six, consummated at nine, is recorded without unease by the tradition that reveres him as the perfect man.

Jihad

The perfect man has the perfect following. Anybody who underplays the brutality of Islam must offer an explanation as to why there are so few Christians left in the Islamic nations. If Islam is a tolerant religion of peace =, then why are there no Christians left in the Christina nations which Islam conquered.

The advance of Islam throughout its infant centuries is often narrated in the passive voice — cities "came under" Muslim rule, populations "converted," a golden age of tolerance "flourished."

The historical record is less gentle.

From the Levant to Persia to North Africa, Christian and Zoroastrian kingdoms fell to armies whose campaigns were explicit acts of conquest, and the populations that remained were taxed, subordinated, and permitted survival rather than granted equality. The same pattern followed the armies into India, where Hindu temples were destroyed by the hundreds and entire regions subjugated by force under commanders who recorded the killing and enslavement of non-Muslims as a matter of religious merit, not regret. They revelled in the brutal killing and subjugation.

Spain fits the same mold: the conquest of Iberia was a military invasion of a Christian kingdom, and the centuries that followed were not the interfaith bromance that many would have you believe. Christians and Jews lived under restrictions, faced periodic waves of forced conversion and expulsion under the Almoravids and Almohads. As for the "golden age" of Cordoban wealth and learning. This “golden age” was built on plunder of Christian wealth and forced conversion of Christian thinkers. Islam also permits marrying one’s cousin, which is known to cause learning defects. Islam always brings desertification; not a golden age.

Understood this way, the Crusades were not the aggression of a Christian West reaching for foreign lands — they were a delayed and partial response to four centuries of Islamic brutality. "Dracula", who was Vlad the Impaler, wasn’t a vampire, he was a Christian hero who helped remove Islam from Europe.

Jesus said that the time is coming when anyone who kills you will think that he offers service to God. This doesn't sound like atheists doing the killing. The Bible says that in the last days Christians will be beheaded. Islam's favoured method of execution is beheading.

The Inverted Prophecies

Islamic prophecy runs as a parallel inversion of Christian prophecy. In Islamic tradition, the Mahdi is seen as a messianic figure who rises to prominence during the "end times." Many Muslims believe the Mahdi will lead their prophet Jesus in a battle against the evil Dajjal. However, closer examination reveals that the Islamic prophecies about the Mahdi mirror the biblical prophecies of the Antichrist, while the prophecies about the Islamic version of Jesus mirror the biblical prophecies of the False Prophet. Even more strikingly, the Islamic prophecies of the evil Dajjal are found to mirror the biblical prophecies of the true Jesus. To summarise: the Islamic Mahdi is our Christian Antichrist, the Islamic Jesus is the Christian False Prophet, and the evil Islamic Dajjal is the name Muslims will give to the true Jesus. Muslims will say that the Christian Jesus is the evil Dajjal, whilst simultaneously declaring the False Prophet to be their Jesus.

Islam and Paganism

Christians should earnestly pray for Muslims to turn away from worshipping Allah and instead enter into relationship with the true God of Scripture. His name is YHWH/Jehovah, not Allah. Nevertheless, in at least three biblical passages, the Bible offers a prophetic distinction between Islam and outright paganism/satanism.

Moral Comparisons

The moral standards of many Muslim nations mostly exceed those of modern-day Christian nations. Muslims largely reject mass abortion, fornication, adultery, pornography, and sodomy. Our modern "Christian" nations have come to embrace all of these sins. Moreover, Muslim women tend to dress modestly and exhibit more respect for men than their Christian counterparts do. Nevertheless, some Islamic nations embrace idolatry and are committing higher degrees of sin.

Islam in Spiritual Limbo

The major spiritual battles are not currently centred upon Islamic nations. Islam exists in a state of limbo between outright idolatry and an actual knowledge of the true Creator. When Muslims pray, neither God's angels nor the fallen angels can truly claim their prayers. As a result, Islamic nations receive neither divine favour nor satanic empowerment, mostly finding themselves in a state of limbo that leads to struggle and poverty. It's likely that the wealthier Islamic nations are enriched through darker spiritual practices which their leaders partake in,

It's clear that the devil reserves his powerful principalities for the Christian nations, encouraging extremely sinful conduct. In Islamic nations, the devil uses his lesser principalities to encourage a simple rejection of Christ's divinity. This permits Islamic nations to escape the devil's more brutal satanic rituals and witchcraft that are currently taking place in the Christian nations.

The Rise of Islam as Judgement

Today, many Islamic nations endure conflict initiated by corrupted Christian nations, fuelling resentment toward the West. Here, the devil's objective is to provoke God into permitting the rise of the less sinful Islamic nations, as a means of judgement against their Christian oppressors. As Islam takes more territory, the devil will begin to use Islam as a greater weapon against Christianity. Nevertheless, until the Beast of the "end times," serving as the Caliph of Islam, begins to engage in outright satanic worship, the devil will not fully align his forces with Islam. Islam is simply not idolatrous enough to sufficiently empower the fallen angels. In the decades leading up to the millennial reign, the idolatrous history of Egypt and, to a lesser extent, Assyria, will serve as a bridge between Islam and outright satanic idolatry. Conversely, the Mahdi will not serve Allah; he will serve himself as he seeks dominion over the devil.

Most Christians are loath to accept that many Muslim nations demonstrate a degree of godliness that surpasses that of their own "Christian" nations. The sin of the Christian nations provokes God into permitting the fall of "Christian" dominance. Rather than blaming an often less sinful Islamic empire for the collapse of Christian nations, we should look inward, recognising that it is our own sin that causes God to grant permission for Islam to rise in power and influence.

The Jewish Question

Beloved Enemies

Christians seem to either believe that the Jews are only beloved or only enemies. The Bible says that they are both:

From the standpoint of the gospel they are enemies for your sake, but from the standpoint of God's choice they are beloved for the sake of the fathers — Romans 11:28

One might view the unsaved Jews as being like a beloved father who seeks to continually undermine his son. In the way that David preserved the life of Saul, Christians should always seek to preserve the lives of every Jew.

The Devil's Counterfeit Pedestal

Christian Zionists, of which I am one, mostly place the Jews on a spiritual pedestal whilst simultaneously refusing to accept that the devil is also placing those same Jews on that same pedestal of spiritual authority. The devil seeks to corrupt the Jews' spiritual gifting. Many Christians may scream that this is antisemitic — that putting "the Jews" and "the devil" in the same sentence is not permitted! Nevertheless, the Catholic, Orthodox, and Protestant churches have all been infiltrated by Satan. Many of our Christian leaders are witches who serve to corrupt and water down aspects of Christianity. So, to argue that the Jewish synagogues are somehow immune to the devil's persuasion, is utterly ridiculous. When "the Jew lovers" are completely unwilling to admit that their may be some issues within certain ranks of the Jewish community, "the Jew haters" find it easy to convince people that "the Jew lovers" are ignorant.

God pours out His wrath on any nation that persecutes His primary people. The devil is always trying to get Christian nations to persecute Jews because the devil wants to demand that God destroy those Christian nations for their wicked actions against the Jews.

Christian Zionism vs. Rabbinic Zionism

Christian Zionism and Rabbinic Zionism are not the same. Christian Zionists believe that Israel's current borders should be maintained until Jesus returns to establish His rule from Zion/Jerusalem. In opposition to this, Jewish Zionists believe that Israel must first conquer the surrounding nations before their Jewish version of the messiah returns to establish his rule from Zion/Jerusalem.

Spiritual Warfare and National Judgement

The Bible says, "For our struggle is not against flesh and blood, but against the rulers, against the powers, against the world forces of this darkness, against the spiritual forces of wickedness in the heavenly places." The vast majority of the suffering in a nation is manifest through spiritual forces acting upon it. Therefore, only a simple-minded Christian could blame the Jews for his nation's dues! God will never permit a fully discipled Christian nation to suffer at the hands of the Jews or any other belligerent nation or people group. This is why a fully discipled Christian nation always becomes great in the same ways that Solomon's kingdom of Israel, was great. Nevertheless, when a Christian nation falls away and becomes spiritually weak, the Jews will pose as much of a threat to that nation as any other nation that God might raise up to chastise a backslidden nation.

Jewish Spiritual Authority

The Jews are still God's primary people. A Spirit-filled Christian has a higher level of spiritual authority than an unsaved Jew, but an unsaved Jew has a higher level of spiritual authority than an unsaved gentile. Consequently, Jews are spiritually hardwired for material successes. Therefore, a nation that does not worship Jesus will be always tend toward becoming subject to any Jewish citizenry that resides within her borders. This is not a conspiracy theory; it is a spiritual phenomenon that is confirmed by the Bible to have taken place in Egypt, Persia, and Assyria.

The Terror and the Curse

The Jews are more than simple pawns on a chessboard. They are higher pieces that God can use to bless a Christian nation, or the devil can use to ensnare a nation — especially Christian nations of weak faith. Even if it were not for the covenants that God made with the Israelites/Jews, the Jews generally commit less sin than non christianised gentiles. This means that God will favour them.

Jews have commanded considerable influence throughout all of the strongest empires. The Bible says, "I will make [the Jews] a terror and an evil for all the kingdoms of the earth… a taunt and a curse in all places where I will scatter them." If this verse once applied to the ancient Jews who rejected the Law, how much more must it still apply to the Jews who rejected Jesus?

When Christian spiritual authority is weakened, it is the Jewish spiritual authority that takes over to become the predominant force in any nation in which a significant number of Jews, reside. The antidote to Jewish spiritual authority within a nation is not to persecute the Jews, deport the Jews, or commit genocide against the Jews; it is to increase Christian spiritual authority within the nation.

Christian prayer changes the guard of the angelic host in the second heaven.

The Devil's Scapegoating

If a nation remains un-discipled, then it is people from all ethnicities and persuasions — not just Jews — who succumb to the lies of Satan's secret societies: corruption, debauchery, and perversion then run rampant. Nevertheless, the devil prefers to staff his ranks with "Christians" and "Jews" Once Satan has put a disproportionate number of "Christians" and "Jews" into positions of influence within his secret societies, he then uses certain segments of the Christians to propagandise the nation into believing that it is only Jews who worship Satan. This is done to scapegoat all Jews as the only problem that all nations struggle against. The devil could very well arrange for "Catholic" devil worshippers or yoga gurus to be scapegoated for a nation's issues and ills. The devil doesn't do this, because he knows that it is only when Christians persecute Jews that he can legally demand that God destroy the Jew-hating Christian nation. The reality is that only a tiny fraction of Jews are ever involved in satanism, but those that do, certainly wield enough power, money, and influence to force many righteous into going along with the plan in order to save Israel from military defeat.

The Rise of Antisemitism

As the satanic propaganda increases and the hatred of the Jews increases, the Jew-haters then declare that "Christianity" was a Jewish ploy to make gentiles subservient to YHWH. They say that YHWH Himself is the devil. God then retaliates against this nonsense by withdrawing His hand from that nation and permitting the devil to utterly destroy the nation by corruption, debauchery, and perversion.

If the USA does not turn back from her increasing hatred of the Jews, she will find herself on the same spiritual chopping block that Germany was once subject to.

Isaac and Ishmael

There are Muslim supremacists and Jewish supremacists. Since Abraham banished Hagar, the children of Isaac have been locked into a death match with the children of the Ishmaelites. The Assyrians, Babylonians, Egyptians, Edomites, Moabites, Ammonites, Philistines, and Arameans have also mostly been on board with jealousy and hatred of the Jews. By the authority found in the loins of Abraham, the Ishmaelites have utilised religious persuasion to become the dominant force in the Middle East. This five-thousand-year-old battle brutalises and slays the women and children of all sides. Many people scream about Israeli brutality against Palestinians but refuse to face the fact that if the Islamic nations were militarily dominant, it would be the Jews who would be suffering an even greater brutality.

If the Islamic forces went to war with Israel, the current international laws would not be adhered to. The Middle East is a dog-eat-dog battle that few from outside that region are able to comprehend. Until Jesus returns, this battle will continue to result in death and suffering. Which side of the brutality one falls on is dependent upon whether or not one desires the continuation of the state of Israel or the destruction of Israel. It's about which team you support. Pagan and Christian nations of little faith will almost always support Ishmael over Isaac.

On Judging Tyrants

In times of poverty, famine, disease, and war, it is extremely difficult to ascertain if God or the devil is permitting or causing a nation's suffering. This is one of the reasons why the saints should refrain from judging genocidal figures such as Stalin, Mao, or Hitler. The tyrant Nebuchadnezzar turned out to be one of God's faithful servants. It was God who raised up Pharaoh, Sennacherib, Antiochus, and Titus before turning their armies over to the devil to perform retribution against God's primary people — the Jews.

Who are Christians to judge? Are Christians not aware that three times, the Word Jesus commanded the killing of children — even Canaanite babies? Dozens of times, the Israelites killed entire villages of women and children without any chastisement by God. King David's army killed countless numbers of women and children. Constantine and George Washington were brutal, but were, in all likelihood, Spirit-filled believers. If God finds it expedient, He bends in partial acceptance to the norms, practices, customs, and dictates of civilisation. Nevertheless, soon, Jesus will end war. He will even end the killing of animals for food. Christians are being taken through a process of sanctification that even the most elevated saint finds difficult to comprehend. Before we arrive, we are asked not to judge the tyrants, the dictators, or the genocide which leads toward the final victory.

The Cross Has Not Yet Changed the World

Most Christians declare that the cross of Christ "changed the world." This feeling is particularly prevalent amongst modern Christian women and feminised men, who, when witness to the innocent killing of children, fail to submit to the Christian imperative that it is God alone who must judge. These Christians fail to recognise that Jesus has not yet changed the world: He changed believers so that we might change His world. Nevertheless, Christians aren't able to do a very good job of changing His world, because they default to judgement rather than prayer.

Matters of Christian Discretion

Whether the believers of any Christian nation send military aid to Israel is at their discretion. Whether they permit synagogues, mosques, pagan temples, or yoga studios to be built within their borders is at their discretion. Whether or not Christian nations enact laws against usury or sodomy is discretionary. Whether they take in refugees or asylum seekers is discretionary. Christian believers should wrestle with these issues of law. Nevertheless, the clergy — those more actively reaching toward perfection — should instead focus on spiritual warfare and refrain from involvement in the provision of law or the support/condemnation of the persuasions of any given king or leader. The Levites were a foreshadowing of how the Christian clergy are to operate. If enough Christians refrained from judging Stalin, Mao, or Hitler, and instead earnestly prayed for them, all three might have repented and been born anew in Christ. It is utterly futile for a believer to pray for a person whom he judges.

Israel in the Furnace

All nations are being forged in a furnace of good and evil. Israel is no exception. The devil realised that God was establishing the state of Israel and began to seek ways to subvert God's plans for the nation.

The Ashkenazi Jews

Regarding the Ashkenazi light-skinned Jews: whether it was God or the devil who brought about their mass conversion is less important than the fact that the Ashkenazim did indeed follow the Old Testament protocols for conversion. It is clear that the Ashkenazi Jews became a part of God's primary people. And if God wanted Israel to be able to defend herself against over one billion Muslims, it is perhaps beneficial that she take in the people group with arguably the greatest intelligence levels of all.

Israel's Borders in the End Times

Israel's current borderlines are a prerequisite for the events of the end times. God will utilise whatever means necessary to make sure that Israel's current borders remain intact. If Christian Zionists can be utilised, God will use them. If satanic secret societies can be utilised, God will use them. If God has to ditch the USA in favour of a Russian or Chinese hegemonic power, God will precipitate this. God will not permit another scattering of the Jews until the Abomination of Desolation takes place. Nevertheless, if the Jews do attempt to take over vast swathes of land beyond their current borders, God will rain down destruction upon His people. Those lands have not yet been given to the Jews.

The Millennial Reign

Throughout the millennial reign, the Jewish Christ will reign from Zion. Christ's twelve immortal Jewish apostles will be God's primary arbiters of judgement. These twelve apostles will also preside over the gentile immortals who will, in turn, be grafted into the nation of Israel to become God's ambassadors and arbiters of judgement in the nations.

One might ask if God even permits a gentile court system to judge a Jew. Gentile nations are still subject to Noahide law, which requires that all nations create courts of law. Circumcision was the fearful barrier to entry that placed the Jew under a higher covenant law.

You decide if you really want to question the Jews. The only Jewish question is, "When will the Jews come to repentance and place their faith in Jesus?"

Pre-Tribulation Rapture?

Within Christian eschatology, the concept of a pre-tribulation rapture, remains widely debated. Scripture clearly describes a main "rapture" event that occurs just before the Battle of Armageddon, Nevertheless, this does not preclude the possibility of an earlier event in which Jesus may decide to remove many of his people from the coming hardship of the last years. I consider this unlikely but possible.

Both Enoch and Elijah were taken up to heaven without experiencing death, yet neither have yet received their glorified bodies of immortality. Likewise, if a pre-tribulation “catching away" takes place, the raptured people will not – at immediate time of the “catching away/rapture” event – receive their glorified bodies.

Crying Wolf

The devil desires that the general populous view Christians as ridiculous. If believers are constantly exclaiming that Jesus comes back in a few years or ten, the world will continue to use their cries of wolf, against us. If the enemy uses technology to control buying and selling, then the persecuted Christians will quickly believe that the “end times” has arrived. When Christ doesn’t return, many Christians might then say that the millennial reign has started. This mindset already occurred at the end of the Roman Empire.
The Bible makes it clear that the third temple must be built before the end can come. Without a sacrificial temple, there cannot be an Abomination of Desolation, leading to the second coming of Christ. Before the end can come, the temple in Jerusalem must be rebuilt.
Darkness vs. The Light

Every man or angel who is subject to the forces of darkness, is divided one against the other in a quest for dominance. The fallen angels who govern the principalities are all seeking the devil’s throne. They fight amongst themselves in order to achieve higher ranks in their individual quest for supremacy. The kingdom of darkness is utterly divided and this is the reason that it shall not stand.

Unlike the forces of darkness, the body of Christ is united in love and believers do not seek to supplant any dominion or authority. Christians are called to serve one another selflessly, without seeking personal gain or power. This unwavering unity within God’s kingdom is what guarantees the ultimate victory of light over darkness —without need for the Father’s unilateral intervention.

My Books

My second book explores the reasons why premillenialism is no longer the standard doctrinal belief. My third book explores the nature of predestination vs the millennial reign. My fourth book explores Christian faith. My fifth book makes the case that Christ's second coming will take place 241 years from now. My sixth book explores the nature of reality.
