

"This is a great time for music. While the commercial country music industry swirls in electric pop sounding songs, the independent labels have created homes for young talent that's creative and unafraid to meld various sounds to form their own unique sound. One of the most exciting of these new groups is Honi Deaton and Dream. This band is the perfect --and I mean perfect --melding of bluegrass, country and mountain music. Deaton has a clear, distinctive voice that delivers emotion with subtle power and sensitivity. Top all this with smooth intricate harmonies and you have one of the best country/bluegrass groups today. it's music brimming with feeling, tradition and distinction. I love this group."
