

Josh Brooks bio

Josh was born in the mountains of North Georgia in a town called Blueridge. Josh's dad is a bluegrass fiddler and Josh grew up with the sounds of mountain bluegrass in his home. Josh started playing the banjo at the young age of four and the rest is history.

Brooks had been dubbed as (“The best kept secret of the mountains”) and is one of the most solid banjo players in bluegrass. His former bands include Blue Ridge Grass and Firehawk.

Josh joined Honi Deaton & Dream in the fall of 2004 and has been with the band ever since. With Josh's soaring high tenor vocals, he helps to make up that DreamGrass trademark vocal harmony sound.