

Surf N' Science Internship

The Surf N' Science Internship is a limited, application-based opportunity for motivated students to take part in our summer camp program while earning 40 volunteer hours. We will accept one intern per week (4 total).

Interns are fully integrated into daily camp operations, assisting with surf instruction support, marine science education, early childhood engagement, and camp activities. This experience is well suited for students with an interest in marine science, environmental studies, education, wildlife conservation, or youth mentorship, and who enjoy working hands-on in an active, outdoor setting.

Applicants should demonstrate maturity, responsibility, and reliability. Priority will be given to prior Sandy Beach Surfing participants who have shown strong character, initiative, and the ability to work thoughtfully with younger campers.

Spots are limited. Interested students must complete an application for consideration.

Application and more details will be available soon; E-mail us if you're interested now and we'll put you on a first-contact list.

With early interest and very limited availability, placement is competitive.
