EARTH

In the early seventeen hundreds, humans discovered R.E.S.T (Renewable Energy Source Technology), a source of limitless clean energy that eradicated scarcity and catalysed a period of rapid technological, social and scientific evolution on Earth.

By the mid eighteen hundreds, humans had developed stellar travel and were exploring beyond their own solar system. Humanity's technological evolution inspired advances in medicine that had such an impact on life expectancy and infant mortality rates, that overpopulation became the single biggest threat to the survival of humanity.

Measures to address the chronic overpopulation of our planet, from legislation to sterilisation, all failed.

It was kept, that the ideal solution would be 'off-worlding' (populating another planet), but this required finding a planet that met the stringent criteria for 'Terraforming' (the process used to make a planet habitable).

It took almost a century of star searching before a suitable planet was found in a neighboring solar system. NEW EARTH.

NEW EARTH

Terraforming New Earth would involve repurposing the planet's atmosphere and in doing so, decimating its indigenous life. This included a small population of highly sentient alien life forms. The decision was not taken lightly, but in the end, none of the exhaustively explored alternatives were viable and humanity was out of options and out of time.

The Terraforming was swift and complete. Humans successfully populated the new planet and eased human congestion on Earth. A dual planet existence became the human experience and the morality of what we had done was reconciled in the collective consciousness as a survival necessity.

A 'never again' sentiment, saw the root causes of overpopulation addressed and Human evolution continued.

DJIBRIL, EEN, LOYA & ARLO

As New Earth was being Terraformed, four native aliens were just outside the planet's atmosphere, preparing a time vessel for an upcoming expedition. From their vessel, helpless to intervene, DJIBRIL - a philosopher, EEN - a scientist, His child, ARLO and LOYA - an engineer, witnessed the annihilation of their world.

In the desperate moments immediately after the Terraforming, they use the last of their ship's fuel to travel back in time, to Earth, in the hopes they can somehow prevent the attack from ever happening.

THE ALIEN AGENDA

Once on earth, stranded and utterly alone, panic and grief slowly gave way to resolve, as a dark plan crystalised in the minds of our sentient survivors - Surmising that overpopulation caused humans to look for another homeworld, the sentients resolved to influence humanity away from R.E.S.T and towards fossil fuel consumption, in the knowledge that environmental damage would reduce human lifespans and therefore overpopulation.

THE BREEDING PITS

Over time, it became apparent that their plan would need to continue beyond their life-spans. Crossbreeding was the solution they settled on. A breeding system evolved, using captive humans. In vast underground laboratories known as the breeding pits, human females were kept immobile and in a state of perpetual pregnancy and human males were kept brain dead but alive and harvested for their sperm.

EDEN & SHIVA

Generations on, despite human/alien 'cross breeds' being sterile, EDEN, a male cross breed, had fallen in love with SHIVA, a human female, who, against all odds, became pregnant with their child.

This was the catalyst for a journey of discovery for EDEN who until this time had never questioned his role in the agenda or considered that his actions would impact his own children. This changed everything for him, and Eden found himself with a visceral reason to stand against his own people - the protection of his child.

How far will Eden go to defend his own child against an agenda that he was born to serve?
