Textured landscape by Jack Murphie Year 7

- Here is my landscape art using things around my home. I used my mum's cardigan for the sky and ruffled it up to create texture. I used kitchen roll to make the clouds - I did try out garlic bulbs but they looked weird. I used a Sharon fruit for the sun. For the ground I used my shorts and then lots of different leaves and weeds for the forest. I used some bark for a tree trunk and reeds off a house plant for a tree. Finally I used slate from our garden to make a mountain. I really enjoyed this task.

The Fifth

By John D. McDonald

The view through my window is like looking into a portal.
There is a totally different world out there,
But nobody knows it until it seizes me.

There is rolling hills, as green as emeralds,
Lakes so vast you couldn't see the ends of them.
There are birds that would fly higher than the clouds,
And ones that need no wings.

Wash could dance about the clouds, higher than ever before,
Laughing with the birds as I go,
I wish that I could dance about with the fish,
Under the mirror like surface of the lake.

But since it cannot be done,
 And I know there is no point even thinking about it,
 I'd even rather ignore and shy without,
 Hoping,
 Dreaming
 Waiting
 Wanting
 Wanting to be free.

My Favourite D-Day
Image

I have chosen this picture as my favourite because it shows simple people coming together to celebrate a gracious occasion and it just shows so much joy. Also it looks like they are having real fun there and it just shows so much pride in their country.
