WE KNOW OUR WHY

Our mission is healthier communities. OBGS is laser-focused on developing data driven strategies that progress the needs of rural and urban populations as it relates to healthcare by applying a single question, what if?

We've curated effective strategies for asking hard questions that lead to critical decision making. Through planning, training, and dedication we engage stakeholders to invest in health policy, science, population health, and health equity in powerful ways.

Maternal Health Emphasis. Each year thousands of women die or suffer long-term consequences from what are often preventable pregnancy related complications. This number is even higher among women of color. A woman's paycheck or racial background should not impact her access to or outcomes of care.
