Bookly Litvertise

Where Artistry and Literature are Valued

© 2025 Essence Enterprises Publishing

This magazine is intended to be used as an advertisement magazine for authors, artists, publishers and other literary or artistry goods and/or services.

This magazine is created and owned by Essence Enterprises, a sole-proprietorship that owns Literate-Ly Magazine, Essence Enterprises, Amy Shannon's Services, and Amy's Bookshelf Reviews.

This magazine is ALL full page 8x10 advertisements, and the ADs can range from authors selling their books, publishers promoting themselves, writing contests, artists selling their work, and basically anything artistic or literary. The caveat is that that with this magazine, in order to have an AD in it, there will be fees. The upside is that the business or person can create their own AD if they wish, or I can do it, and that would be free of charge. All Ads would have a QR Code so it can be scanned, rather than clicked on.

It will be a monthly magazine that goes live the first of every month starting January 1, 2025. Press Kit Covers will also be allowed as Advertisement.

For one-three months: $15

For six-months: $25

For 12 months: $35

Any ne who currently has an AD in Literate-Ly Magazine, those Ads will be in this magazine for 3-months for free.

If a person purchases an AD in Literate-Ly, they will get AD space for three consecutive months for free.

Think of this as a "Fivrr" version of a magazine. You can sell brand, your services, or advertise your work.

So, YOU want to Write a Book? What now?

A writer's guide from the first word to publication

This book is designed to support authors at every stage, from novices to experienced writers, as they navigate the publishing journey. It covers the entire process, from drafting to finalizing the manuscript. Learning from someone who has experienced this journey can offer invaluable insights, though it's important to remember that what works for one writer may not work for another.

Many people often say, "I should write a book." If you feel this way, then go ahead and write it. You won't know until you try. Some people discover their writing talent early in life, while others find it unexpectedly later on. So, if you have the urge to write, just do it.

THE CENTAUR CHOICE

BY

Christie Valentine Powell

Everyone knows that centaurs carry off young women, but when Bree meets a stallion in the wilderness, he's kinder and more interesting than any of the estate's highborn visitors. He can't be the monster that her brother describes.

But Dale the centaur has a secret: he needs a woman to transform into a centaur to save his young son.

Both families are torn and broken by the conflict between species. Bree could find healing and redemption among the centaurs, but how much should she change for a chance at a new beginning?

Amy Shannon's Chains

Ronnie clings to her memories and inner strength, determined to remember who she once was, and wonders if she will ever be the same again.

Veronica "Ronnie" Lawrence's life changed in an instant at the age of 12, when she was taken by "Mister." For over 3,000 days, she was held captive, enduring relentless abuse—sexual, physical, and emotional. Despite Mister's efforts to break her spirit, Ronnie clung to her memories and inner strength, determined to remember who she once was. As she grew older, Mister continued to take others, but he vowed never to release her. He filled her mind with lies and deceit, so much so that even on day 3385, when she was finally rescued, she believed he would come back for her.

Ed Borowsky's The Great Mongolian Bowling League of the United States of America

Harold Kushner and his roommate of thirty years, Murray Schwartz, are average senior citizens facing down their mortality in a trailer park in Land O' Lakes, Florida. Two self-professed "best Jewish bowlers ever" wind up contestants in the first-ever Great Mongolian Bowling League Tournament in the U.S.A. The rivalry becomes a high-stakes roll-off as Harold approaches "perfection" (defined in the bowling world as three 300-score games in a row) despite a fix set by the alley's mobster-owners. As the reporters and camera crews swarm to cover his amazing feat, Harold finds himself in a life review spanning back to his Bar Mitzvah and a past incarnation as a Mongolian warrior in the era of Genghis Khan, as he ponders profound questions we all ask as we near the end of our lives: Did my life have meaning? Did I fulfill my potential? Was I a good person?

Can Harold roll perfection to help his new Mongolian friends and live to tell the tale? The uncanny action unfolds in this beautiful comedy illuminating that although we come from worlds far apart, we share a common humanity. The outcome will impact millions... and strike you right in the heart.

Amy Shannon's workbook for writers!

Depths of Characters:

A writer's resource & workbook for character building

Amy Shannon is an author, Book Reviewer (Amy's Bookshelf Reviews) and host of the Amy's Bookshelf Reviews Podcast.

Amy has written over 140 novels, poetry, short stories, and two nonfiction books. This being the first nonfiction workbook, and her second nonfiction book was published in March of 2024, called Balls-Town: A Community of History, Friends, Neighbors, and Lingering Spirits

Most of her stories are fictional dramas featuring strong, female characters, though a few of her stories have a male protagonist and main character.

Depths of Characters is meant to be a writer's workbook for character development. Inside, this book provides tips, shares experiences, and gives examples that fit the character categories. Categories include, but are not limited to character names, building character profiles, protagonists and antagonist.

"Don't just write what you know, write what you want to know," -Amy Shannon

Ed Borowsky's Lizard of Transition

On his deathbed, a World War Two veteran, Joe Rubin, confesses to his son that he murdered a Japanese prisoner in the jungles of New Guinea seventy years ago. In his last hours, Joe enters the world between life and death, known as the world of transition. He tells of his journey, with an odd lizard leading the way, as he recants the tale of the murder prior to his imminent death.

He reveals to his son, Joshua, that he possesses a Good Luck flag - Hinomaru Yosegaki, that he had taken from the Japanese soldier he murdered on the island of New Guinea during the battle of the Druinimor River. The flag has handwritten messages from the prisoner's family and friends, which reveals his identity and the village in Japan he came from.

His son, Joshua, is under tremendous pressure. He's separated from his wife, who comes to visit her father-in-law, bringing the two together to face their problems under the gut-wrenching veil of his father's passing. By attempting to reunite the flag with the son of the soldier his father killed seventy years ago, will the family find their way forward?

From the wisdom of the ages, and from the Jewish perspective on death and redemption, "Lizard of Transition" shines a light on how understanding death and dying will lead us to live rich and fuller lives.

Amy Shannon's Shattered Pages

When fiction becomes reality, the line between author and suspect blurs.

Best-selling mystery author Tristan Wyatt, as known by his pen name, is really Lincoln McLaren. He is deep into writing the third volume of his series. As he trains his new assistant and navigates life beyond his novels, his neighbors view him as the eccentric recluse in the large, imposing house — just the way Link likes it. His house assistant, Sally, does her best to keep him focused. Past losses have only added to his quirks, including his preference for minimal clothing.

Suddenly, Link becomes entangled in a series of murders in his small town of Bridgeport. These crimes eerily mirror the plots of his books, including the one he's currently writing.

Micah Dawanyí's When the Record Stops Spinning

Even in darkness, a spark can ignite a revolution.

Once destined for stardom as an artist, college senior Kairo Young now finds himself dancing with despair and disaster- two of many symptoms from the world-ending tragedy that robbed him of his ability to create.

Still preparing for what now feels like a pointless graduation, he encounters Sahara Williams, a fellow senior and science prodigy at his university. Their introduction spotlights the stark differences between their worlds - but soon evolves into destiny when Sahara presents a groundbreaking opportunity: a chance to revisit the past through the creative power of music.
