

Trip L2: Lock 6 Site to Alexander Creek Ramp

Trip Information

Total Trip Length: 6 mi
 Launch: Lock 6 Site (182)
 GPS: 37.206505 N 86.261184 W
 Take out: Alexander Creek Ramp (176)
 GPS: 37.149846 N 86.295641 W

Points of Interest

Brownsville Bridge (180.5)

Remember: safe use of rivers and any designated trails, at any time, is your responsibility! Water trail maps are for informational and interpretive purposes only and are not meant for navigational purposes, nor do they take into account level of skills or ability required to navigate rivers. The partners of the Green and Nolin Rivers Blueways assume no responsibility or liability for any injury or loss resulting directly or indirectly from the use of water trails, maps, or other printed or web-based materials. Learn more about water safety and see the next page for additional information.

Launching watercraft is prohibited within Mammoth Cave National Park when river levels are at or exceed 20 feet on the water level gauges within the park.

While this trip is not within the boundaries of the national park, we offer the same guidance. Strong, swiftly moving currents as well as large drift flowing in the river channel pose a hazard to safety. To find out whether conditions on the Green River are suitable to launch your canoe or kayak, visit the USGS website, https://waterdata.usgs.gov/ky/nwis/uv/?site_no=03309000&PARAMeter_cd=00065,00060.

Paddling Safety guidance from the American Canoe Association:

1. Always wear your life jacket.
2. Don't drink while paddling
3. Stay low - learn how to enter and exit your boat
4. Keep your balance
5. Practice the wet exit
6. Don't get left in the cold
7. Plan ahead
8. Never paddle alone
9. Be in command
10. Learn about your boat

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources also suggests this paddle sports safety course as a safety resource:

<https://www.boaterexam.com/paddling/canada/>

Remember: safe use of rivers and any designated trails, at any time, is your responsibility! Water trail maps are for informational and interpretive purposes only and are not meant for navigational purposes, nor do they take into account level of skills or ability required to navigate rivers. The partners of the Green & Nolin Rivers Blueways assume no responsibility or liability for any injury or loss resulting directly or indirectly from the use of water trails, maps or other printed or web-based materials. Learn more about water safety.