

Reverend William Gilpin’s ‘Picturesque’ Wye Tour - On a wet day in the Summer of 1770 Rev William Gilpin took a rowing boat from Ross on Wye down River to Chepstow. Along his journey he took notes and made sketches, which he later enlarged into ‘Observation’s on the River Wye and several parts of south Wales’. This was an instant success, probably the first British guidebook published, and by 1800 on its fifth edition.
