

Exhibit 2

Josh Freedman <josh@themichiganlawfirm.com>

Raymond E. Butler, II v Ely Eddi, et al.: Rule 11 Letter and Motion

Nick Callahan <nick.callahan@bfkn.com>

Tue, Jul 28, 2026 at 6:37 PM

To: Josh Freedman <josh@themichiganlawfirm.com>, Racine Miller <racine@themichiganlawfirm.com>

Cc: Katherine London <klondon@kmflaw.com>, "RaymondEButler@protonmail.com" <RaymondEButler@protonmail.com>, Andrew Osborne <andrew.osborne@bfkn.com>

Josh and Racine,

As you indicate in your letter, I also understand that you can file a response to the sanctions motion separate from Mr. Butler. Nowhere in my clients' reply brief will I argue that it would be improper for you to do so, and I will address your substantive arguments in my reply brief. However, if you remain concerned and would like to seek clarification from the Court, you may describe that request as unopposed.

As to your request for an increased page limit, a response deadline of August 14, and leave for a sur-reply, I noted your request when I filed my motion. After considering it, the Court entered a more standard briefing schedule and did not grant you a sur-reply. In other words, the Court already rejected that request. Of course, if my reply brief provides a basis for you to seek leave to file a sur-reply, you would be able to do so then.

I'm not going to try to address the pages of legal and factual arguments in your letter. I assume those will be in your opposition brief and I will address in my reply brief.

In your letter, you also ask me to confirm that if you do not file a response by August 10, that I will not file a reply brief arguing you failed to respond and sanctions against your firm are warranted. I do not agree. To make sure there is no misunderstanding, I intend to file a reply brief emphasizing that your firm should pay as a sanction the amount of fees incurred by my clients in responding to your emergency motion and attending the injunction hearing. Your firm was acting as lead counsel for the plaintiff on that briefing and at that evidentiary hearing.

Thank you,

Nick

Nick Callahan

Partner

Barack Ferrazzano

T. (312) 629-5122 | nick.callahan@bfkn.com