4-7 June 2019, University of Nicosia, Cyprus

We are pleased to invite you at the 3rd International Conference on Arts and Humanities, organized by the International Centre for Studies of Arts and Humanities (ICSAH) and the Dante Alighieri Society of Nicosia. After the success of the past events, shaped by a fruitful exchange of ideas, this year our aim is explore the life and accomplishments of women, who left a remarkable trace in history. The conference is to be held in 4-7 June 2019 in Nicosia, Cyprus.

We warmly welcome all papers broadly relevant to the subject without predefining chronological and territorial limitations, as the major goal of the conference is to address questions that involve more than one research field and promote multidisciplinary dialogue and cooperation. The papers will be published online and in a dedicated volume of Conference Proceedings.

Abstract. Politics, science, art, philosophy, education or human rights – women have inspired our world in many ways, with their ideas, talent, courage, resistance, or intellect. We wish to appraise the legacy of women, famed or unrecognized, who have motivated not only other people, but also entire societies, thereby indelibly marking our world.

We invite proposals that study all aspects of women excellence in different disciplines and historic periods, and analyze the premises and the consequences of their activity until modern days. We encourage also papers that estimate the value of inspirational women in terms of cultural achievements, by studying the impact of their accomplishments in an interdisciplinary perspective, or explore the long-term effect of their groundbreaking endeavours.
