The current church was dedicated on Sept. 9, 1928.
(The rectory is missing; it was added in 1955-56.)

The church today, after a century of worship.
How lovely is your dwelling place, Lord God of Hosts!

Longtime organists included Mae Hunter & Marian Becker.
Our bell was cast in 1892 & consecrated by Bishop Cotter.

Stained glass windows were installed in 1953 & 1955.
They trace the life of Jesus and Mary.

In 1953, Fr. Boecker remodeled the sanctuary (T. Boecker)

Bill & Margaret Noble Wedding, 1960

First Communion, 1963 (Carol Heimerman)

Note the new free-standing altar, 1965 (Dorothy Green)

Fr. Boecker remodeled the sanctuary again after Vatican II (Fr. McNallan added the west entry; wedding, 1980)

Fr. Halloran remodeled the sanctuary in 1987 (Bob Becker photo)

Fr. Dernek added new lighting & ornamentation in 2005-06.

An account of the dedication liturgy, 1928: St. Columbanus Church [is] a beautiful brick structure trimmed with stone, of Romanesque architecture ... The Bishop and assisting priests marched around the church on the outside, during which the celebrant recited the dedicatory prayers and sprinkled the walls with blessed water. Then, entering the building, the procession went directly to the [sanctuary], where the Litany of Saints was sung, the response being sung by the clergy, after which the procession again formed and encircled the interior of the edifice. Arriving again at the sanctuary, the dedication prayer was brought to a close.
