

When I came here to live, the land had never been touched."

excerpt from a conversation with William Bidlingmeyer.

