

Four Things to Look for in a Junk Removal Company

At first glance, junk removal seems like a straightforward service, and many people are tempted to go the cheapest route. However, there are some critical factors to consider when choosing a junk removal company. Factors that go beyond the pocketbook and start to get personal.

Here are 4 things to look for in a junk removal company to ensure you are safeguarding your property and family.

Fully Insured. Junk removal inherently carries risk. From maneuvering trucks in tight spaces to moving bulky objects down staircases and around corners, there are plenty of opportunities for things to go wrong. Any reputable company should be prepared for accidents. It is smart to make sure the junk removal company carries a full general liability policy. This insurance policy will protect you in the event something does go wrong. Don't feel bad asking for a certificate of insurance. Any professional junk removal company should be more than happy to provide you with one.

Background Checks. Unless you are doing a curbside pickup, the junk removal crew will be on your property or inside your home and around your family, pets and belongings. It is becoming more common to hear horror stories of service technicians returning to houses to steal valuables or do other unthinkable acts. Clean background checks are one way that professional junk removal companies ensure that their employees are law-abiding citizens. As with insurance, don't be embarrassed to ask if the company has clean background checks on file.

BBB Accreditation. Hiring a company that is BBB accredited is a good way to ensure that they are trustworthy. BBB-accredited businesses are more likely to act in good faith to provide high levels of customer service. To check for BBB accreditation, simply go www.BBB.org to search for the business. Business profiles also include consumer complaints, customer reviews and the BBB letter grade.

High Reviews. A quick and easy way to check on the quality of a junk removal company is to read through their reviews. 5-star ratings obviously are what you should be looking for. But do take time to read through the reviews to understand what other customers find valuable about the company.

When you choose a professional company with a proven track record, you are taking extra measures in protecting your personal assets.

Husky Junk Removal is fully insured, has top-notch employees, and is BBB Accredited. To learn more, visit us at www.huskyjunkremoval.com.

