- Lead instructor ESPN Golf schools 3 years.

TEACHING PHILOSOPHY

My main teaching philosophy stemmed from Jim flick. The best teachers in the world have an ability to communicate the same principal ten different ways. I have developed a philosophy that has proven over time. I listen to what the student is looking to gain and not what I believe they should do. I work with each individual and their current capabilities. I focus on making shorter swings in effort to make the student feel the swing. Most importantly, I need the student to swing the club and not worry about the body or distance. To assist this understanding, I use video analysis with voice over and send it to your email so you're learning continues after the lessons. I will also provide different drills to enforce your issues. I focus on miniature swing success before big swing success. You first need to learn what proper impact is and then I can build the swing from that point.
