

A Voice for King Richard III

NEW for 2025 and further to the 2024 International Launch

History reimagined.
The facial avatar of King Richard III
speaking in the authentic pronunciation of his time.

From 1483 to 1485 Richard III ruled England. His reign ended at Bosworth Field with the fall of the House of York and the end of the Plantagenet line.

In November 2024 York's Theatre Royal was the stage for a lifelike digital reconstruction of King Richard's face speaking in his Original Pronunciation.

The decade-long project blended art, science, history and technology in a pioneering collaboration that involved experts in cranio-facial reconstruction, linguistics, forensic psychology, CGI and motion capture. The result sparked global media attention and fresh debate over the King's true character. This year King Richard's facial avatar and voice have been recreated once again to speak his personal prayer. A permanent exhibition will be installed at Leicester's King Richard III Visitor Centre. Once again, in effect, King Richard III will speak for himself.

Presenters include:

Professor Caroline Wilkinson, Director of Face Lab, Liverpool John Moore's University
Dr. Jessica Liu, Project Manager, Face Lab, Liverpool John Moore's University
Yvonne Morley-Chisholm, Vocal profiler, project lead, A Voice for Richard Thomas Dennis, the West End actor who recreated King Richard III's voice and speech
