Many of you probably are not aware of the hobby of mine, searching for ancestors and the history of our family. I came across this information and was very excited to share it with my daughter. Stephanie did not learn to knit or crochet from her mother or grandmother—she was first introduced by another local yarn store owner and got the “bug”, and at first was mainly interested in spinning wool and that led to yarn and that led to knitting and you have the picture.. Then of course there was weaving which she learned from another acquaintance and friend Natalie So we were very surprised and delighted to find that Stephanie's great grandfather on her fathers side of the family was a KNITTER! We haven't learned much more than that—but it was a wonderful find to say the least. And, they got married in New York State, in the county of Columbia!
