Measurements:

- Card Stock 1: Sahara Sand      8 1/2" x 5 1/2"
- Card Stock 2: Basic Black      5 1/4" x 2 3/8"    Cut 2
- Basic Black      2" circle punched out
- Card Stock 3: Whisper White    Scrap piece to stamp
- DSP: Cut Selected image from sheet to punch

Instructions:

1. Score the Sahara Sand card stock at 4 1/4 " and fold.
2. Using your sponge Dauber and black ink, smudge up the edges by lightly brushing the dauber off the edge of the paper all the way around. As little or as much as you like.
3. Punch your selected image out from your Monster Bash DSP. The images are close, so in order to avoid wasting paper, cut your image out close, then use a post-it-note on the edge of your image to help slide it in to your punch and hold it in place. This does not harm your work at all, and works as like a charm.
4. Back your image with the 2" circle of black card stock to give it a little more firmness.
5. Take one of your pieces of Black 5 1/4' x 2 3/8" stock and emboss it. Back it with the other piece of black card stock.
6. Cut a piece of your Linen Thread 24'-36' long, depending on how many times you want to wrap it. I used 36". On the back side of your corrugated piece, run your adhesive down each side to make it sticky and hold your thread for you while you wrap it. This just makes it easier to manage.
7. Now using the tear & Tape, stick your black corrugated strip down. Put your image on your strip.

8. Stamp your sentiment on your piece of Whisper White Card Stock and die cut it out.
9. Adhere your sentiment to the front of your card. If you are crossing over the corrugated piece as I did, use Dimensionals on the back side of the sentiment that is on the card base, and Tear & Tape on the side that will be a little higher on the corrugated piece so your sentiment will be flat.
10. Last, take another piece of your Linen Thread (about 24") and loop it in several large and smaller loops and tie in the middle with a short piece. Pull on it to fan it out and back and forth to even it out so you like it. It is suppose to look messy, so don't fuss too much. Adhere to your card using glue dots.
