NEW YEAR GEAR UP: GET YOUR LEGAL HOUSE IN ORDER

Is getting your legal house in order your top new year resolution? Well if you are like most people, it is not even on your radar, let alone your new year resolution list. But, it should be. How do you know if your legal house is in order? Ask yourself these three questions:

1. If I became seriously ill or incapacitated, have I documented my health care wishes, and communicated them to my family?
2. Have I put documents in place to protect my hard earned assets so that I can leave a lasting legacy for my loved ones?
3. Are there pending lawsuits that may result in a judgment against me? If so, have I engaged an attorney who can advocate for me.
4. Have I cleared-up any negative statements on my credit report?

If your legal house is not in good working order, you are putting your yourself, your assets and your legacy in jeopardy. Here are three steps to get your legal house in order.

1. Pull your credit report, and check for accuracy. If there are inaccuracies, report them to all three credit bureaus.
2. If there are judgments against you, speak to an attorney or reputable credit counseling service to work with creditors to mitigate the negative impact.
3. Execute a life and legacy plan that will protect your assets and let you leave a legacy to your loved ones, that you can be proud of.
4. Discuss your health care wishes with your family members or the person who will make health care decisions for you in the event you are unable to make life-altering health care decisions for yourself.

I am writing a new book and could use your help!

Caring for and helping an aging family member can be a challenge, and we all have a story about our journey. We want to hear about your journey. The goal of the book is to be a source of comfort, advice and possibly humor for those going through. Please reach out to Doreen at doreen@attorneylauriegiles.com if you are willing to share your story in hopes of helping others.
