To: Members and Guests of the Classic Irons Car Club

Please consider accepting our most sincere apologies for the events that's occurred (or lack thereof) during the spring iteration of our collaborative event on Saturday, May 6th, 2023. These events had nothing to do with the Classic Irons organization or leadership and fell completely on Voodoo Brewing Company. Despite meetings, calls and emails that transpired to organize this event, we fell short. As a fellow community organization, we strive to bring our beloved town of Meadville fun, safe and prosperous opportunities for engagement and as the host of this event we did not deliver on those goals.

Although it is not an excuse, we lost our event coordinator and manager of the production facility that week with zero days' notice. We attempted to reconcile the information and deliver the event as planned but were unable to pick up all the pieces. It is also unfortunate that the food truck cancelled on short notice, and we were unable to book a replacement. The entertainment was booked for the wrong hours and the door prizes didn't arrive on time. We also encountered some staffing and scheduling issues that day that caused long lines and wait times.

If anyone has attended one of these events in the past, you will hopefully agree that this was not our best foot forward and not how we as an organization typically operate. We are hiring a new events coordinator and cross training on how the Classic Irons events and partnership functions with other team members to prevent this in the future. We are also working far in advance with organizing the fall iteration of this partnership. It will include another market that will have more vendors and an Oktoberfest with German foods, satellite beverage stations and additional staff as well as the proper door prize.

We truly hope you can forgive our shortcomings on this last event and hope that we can make it up to you in the fall and for years to come.

Sincerely,

Matteo Rachocki
CEO/Voodoo Brewing Co.
