

PeopleEQ Total Engagement Platform

One of the biggest challenges plaguing HR departments today is delivering an economical, comprehensive, total engagement solution. Just 32 percent of US workers are engaged in their jobs and only 19 percent are considered thriving in four out of five areas of their lives. Engagement and well-being are keys to employee performance and productivity.

To complicate matters further, employees often report not knowing, understanding or valuing their total rewards package offered. Only 36 percent of employees report reading all benefit communications. And one in five (20 percent) admit they often skip benefits meetings or presentations, don't read communications that come in the mail, or file or throw away the information they receive without reading it.

The PeopleEQ Platform addresses these challenges by strategically combining an employer benefits and communication hub, employee resources dashboard, and lifestyle well-being programs into a cost-effective, comprehensive and engaging platform. This allows your employees to get the most out of your benefits offerings and live their best life at work.
