

The Bear

(The symbol of the first principality of death, in the first time zone)

God said: "Let them have dominion over the earth...to enjoy the goodness of the earth, without knowledge of shame, to be fruitful and multiply thereby establishing the righteous and holy family on earth. Endowed with a mortal body and an immortal soul, Led by God. Adam was given the intellectual power to choose. At this point going forward, the Law laid the foundation for the test of obedience which was violated. The knowledge of evil, through Satan, laid a plot for the story of human characteristics. All events portrayed in the bible, inspired by this research, we will attempt to describe the behavior and appearance of man for the next 6000 years. The eyes of Adam and Eve were opened to know both good and evil, they hid their nakedness. Here Adam became subject to the punishment of God and was cursed with the sorrow of working the ground for survival. Having been driven from their home in Eden, Eve bore children that were brought forth in sorrow. For the time, man was faced with new and altered circumstances. Every effort to survive, no matter what it took, man became so wicked that God sent giants on the earth, in the form of dinosaurs (Job 10:15), and still his did not stop man's wickedness, so god destroyed all of mankind with the flood which marked the end of the Bear time zone. The spirit of the bear and its characteristics were scattered throughout the known world. This bearlike behavior varied considerably in temperament throughout the known world, for the bear was feared throughout the northern hemisphere as ancient men worshipped the bear as the king of beast, because of its resourcefulness size. In ancient times bears stood eight to ten feet tall, weighed 1000-1500 lbs. and lived in caves. Sometimes they were manageable while other or young are in danger. A bear will hunt quietly, skillfully and curiously with eyes fixed on its subject. Contrary to appearance they are intelligent and resourceful, spending their time hunting on both land and sea. The bear kills with lethal blows using its claws and teeth, together with lunges and heaves upon attack. Upon attack he will go down to its belly and wiggle slowly for man ward, stopping immediately if he senses its prey catches sits scent, using perfect camouflage if necessary to hide behind objects and push them forward slowly to get its subject. Bears swell in cave-like shelters to protect themselves against man and the elements in winter. When the bear is not hunting, its worst enemy is man who will hunt him fiercely for food, skin worship and pride of the hunt. If by any chance a bear is wounded by its foe, it will make a final retaliation before dying. A bear's claw is used to insure survival, using its like weapon -like tools, tipped with long carving claws to deal bone crushing blows to man and animals. It's obvious that the basic character is brutal, intelligent with no thought to spare its victim. The character of mankind was the same as the character of the bear in the bear time zone, and is the same kind of behavior that he earth in areas known as Asia Minor, Armenia, Northern Assyria, Anatolia and Iraq. The Bear, the symbol of the first principality of death, in the first time zone