Travel Updates by Tammy

Happy May Day!

We have four Gals traveling on the Canadian Rockies Tour in July and final payment is due by May 16th.

There is still space on the Culinary Journey Through New England this fall, and Finland Northern Lights tour in January

Northern Lights - Finland

Christmas Market

New England Culinary Journey

Four Gals have registered for the Christmas Market cruise in December of 2026. Some cabins are still available. It may be in 2026! but this trip sells out FAST!.

Please let me know of any questions and enjoy our spring weather.

We have a Gal looking for a roommate for the Christmas Market Cruise!

RETURNING TRAVELS FROM MOROCCO

MOROCCO

“ The Colors of Morocco” is the perfect name for a tour that reveals infinite shades of beauty. Visiting the blue city of Chefchaouen during the extension tour, delighted us with deep varieties of blue painted on most of the hillside homes.

After 20 years of very little rain, the past seven years has experienced serious drought. We arrived to much welcomed daily rains, which turned the fields and grasses to a wonderland of brilliant green and yellow, sprinkled with red, purple and white flowers.

Delicious oranges lingered in courtyard trees, just waiting to be picked by our tour guide, Khaled. Initially the sky was dark with rain clouds, but soon cleared to deep blue with the sunshine. We even had a rainbow one morning!

Who knew there are so many shades of brown? From the deep shades of the Medina markets, to the intricate tile patterns of the palaces and mosques, to the sheep (with actual shepherds, tending the many flocks), to the reddish brown stucco homes, to the constantly shifting, caramel colors of the desert sands that kept changing as the sun crossed the sky.

The many colors of Morocco seemed to represent the joyful, prayerful, remarkably kind people we met along the way, while also delivering peace to the colors of our soul.
I am forever changed .
