

MIKE RABINOWITZ

MOTIVATIONAL SPEAKER AND TRAINER

Inspiring people to be self-aware and self-sufficient on their way to success.

Mike is an experienced speaker and trainer. He spent the first part of his career as a New York City Police Officer. Working in a special unit, Mike communicated with community leaders as well as inspired high school students to keep their life on the right track. After his police career, Mike used his experience and expertise and found himself in the world of customer service, training folks on the importance of communication skills.

He now strives to help companies to train and prepare their employees to become better at connecting with co-workers, customers and management. Mike believes it's time to get "real" about creating effective relationships. Using his "street corner approach", Mike will help you realize that it's our self-awareness and accountability that will help us to be more effective communicators.

SPEAKING TOPICS

IT'S TIME WE TAKE RESPONSIBILITY FOR COMMUNICATION

Mike will take a no nonsense approach to help you be more accountable for your communication actions. Mike cuts through the generic bullet points and terminology to inspire you to "look in the mirror" and become an effective communicator.

OUR LIFE EXPERIENCE ALL COMES DOWN TO HOW WE COMMUNICATE

Using his experience and "street corner approach", Mike will show how so many of life's hurdles such as safety, job interviews, conflict resolution, workplace struggles, cultural diversity and much more, can be overcome with the ability to communicate.

COMMUNICATION CAN BE THE MOST POWERFUL TOOL IN DANGEROUS SITUATIONS

Having a police background, Mike will unveil the strong connection that communication skills have to law enforcement. Things such as de-escalation, conflict resolution, cultural diversity, and connecting to the community on social media are law enforcement tools that are driven by communication.

MANAGERS ARE PEOPLE TOO

When we try to connect with leadership, are we communicating with the "title" or the "person"? Mike will examine the different paths we take to communicate with different levels of our workplace. The goal is to make connections and not be pressured by the person's title. If successful, the respect and loyalty will very likely follow on both sides.

TRAINING TOPICS

SITUATIONAL COMMUNICATION

Let's examine the nucleus of communication skills. Discover the tools required to not only display our intention to connect with people, but also making adjustments in different situations such as meeting someone for the first time, during a disagreement, giving and receiving feedback, managing and being managed, and much more.

COMMUNICATION CHANGES WITH THE WORLD

Learn how to adapt to the constant change in communication technology as well as generational diversity that is ever present in our workforce. Discover how just a bit of research and an open mind can help us keep up.
