THE TRANSCANADA HIGHWAYMEN

Steve Page Belting Out a Song

Riding the Musical Highway: The TransCanada Highwaymen

In the vast landscape of Canadian music, few acts have captured the essence of the country's spirit quite like The TransCanada Highwaymen.

Comprised of Steve Page, Moe Berg, Craig Northey, and Chris Murphy, this supergroup transcends individual talents to create a sound that resonates with audiences across the nation.

From their humble beginnings to their remarkable accomplishments, the journey of The TransCanada Highwaymen is one marked by camaraderie, creativity, and a deep-rooted passion for music.

Meet the Highwaymen:

Steve Page:

With his soulful voice and poetic lyricism, Steve Page stands as one of Canada's most revered vocalists. Best known as the former lead singer of the iconic band Barenaked Ladies,

Page brings a wealth of experience and charisma to The TransCanada Highwaymen.

His ability to craft poignant melodies and thought-provoking lyrics adds depth and resonance to the group's compositions.

Moe Berg:

As the frontman of The Pursuit of Happiness, Moe Berg carved out a niche for himself in the Canadian music scene with his distinctive voice and introspective songwriting.

With a knack for blending rock, pop, and alternative influences, Berg brings a dynamic energy to The TransCanada Highwaymen.

His guitar work is both intricate and emotive, serving as a driving force behind the band's sound.
