

October 1, 2024 – Exciting Announcement: New Ownership at J.M. Fry Printing Inks

Dear Valued Customers, Partners, and Team,

We are excited to announce a significant new chapter in the history of J.M. Fry Printing Inks after proudly serving the North American market for over 87 years, J.M. Fry Printing Inks is now under new ownership, ushering in an era of growth and opportunity. This transition not only marks a new business phase but also continues the story of family commitment that has always been at the heart of J.M. Fry Printing Inks.

For nearly nine decades, the Fry & Hodges family—Justin Fry, Alvin, Billy, Jim, and Robert Hodges—led j.m. fry Printing Inks with vision, dedication, and integrity. Though Justin Fry and Alvin Hodges are no longer with us, their legacy, along with that of his family, has shaped the company into what it is today. Under their leadership, J.M. Fry Printing Inks built strong, lasting relationships and established high standards of quality and service. We are deeply grateful for their remarkable contributions, which will continue to inspire us as we move forward.

In keeping with that family tradition, J.M. Fry Printing Inks remains a family-driven business. We are proud to introduce Oak Street Ventures LLC as the new owners, led by the father-and-son team of Jerry Mosley (Chairman of the Board) and Michael Mosley (President & CEO). Together, they bring a wealth of experience and expertise in the printing inks and coatings industry, having worked in the field for decades. They understand the value of hard work and are committed to upholding the ambitious standards that have made J.M. Printing Inks what it is today.

While ownership has changed, one thing will not: our unwavering dedication to our valued customers and partners. The name J.M. Fry Inks Printing Inks will remain, reflecting the continuity of our mission to deliver exceptional products and service. As we step into this new era, we look forward to continuing the strong relationships that have been the foundation of our success and working together toward even greater achievements.

Thank you for your continued trust and support. We are excited to grow together in this next chapter.

Sincerely,

Michael Mosley

President & CEO

J.M. Fry Printing Inks