

Social Capital Resources for HER Illinois Business Guide

Powered by the Illinois Department of Commerce & Economic Opportunity \(DCEO\) –
Office of Economic Equity & Empowerment \(OE3\)

What is Social Capital?

Social capital is the networks and relationships within and between individuals, groups, and organizations, which can lead to building trust, creating efficiencies, and future opportunities. As social capital is a very significant form of capital like financial capital, building and leveraging your social capital as a woman-owned business or future female founder can lead to:

- acquiring new skills and knowledge through accelerators/cohorts/mentoring programs
- meeting fellow founders in the same industry
- meeting potential new mentors and advisors
- being introduced to new clients or customers
- finding a co-founder to launch your business and/or team members to hire
- learning about other businesses you can collaborate and/or share resources with
- connecting with financial institutions
- being introduced to potential investors
- much more!

As many women-owned businesses, future women business owners, and aspiring female entrepreneurs lack strong networks and the right mentors, we developed a social capital resource guide to help Illinois women-owned businesses and future entrepreneurs from all backgrounds and experiences to increase their social capital and to expand HER opportunities here in Illinois.

Accelerator/Cohort/Fellowship Mentor Programs, Business Advising, and Networking Opportunities as of May 2024

The guide includes organizations listed in regions outside the Chicago region, industry resources (childcare/food/healthcare/manufacturing/technology/etc.), resources for diverse communities (minority/veteran/persons with disabilities/youth/women of color/mompreneurs/rural entrepreneurs/LGBTIQA+/family-owned businesses/etc.), etc.

Below is not a complete list of all the social capital resources (mentoring/networking opportunities/etc.) available for Illinois women-owned businesses, future women entrepreneurs, and aspiring female founders. To learn more about additional resources and opportunities in your Illinois region, contact chamber of commerce organizations and economic development organizations in your community, contact your local municipality, refer to the U.S. Federal & Illinois Local Governments' Resources for HER Illinois Business Guide, or contact one of our DCEO team members who are listed at the bottom of this guide and/or click here. Additionally, the resources and organizations listed below are not an endorsement of the views, opinions, products, or services of any the below entities. Also, please note that the website' addresses/URLs in this guide may change due to organizations' website updates.
